

and English people, succeed in restoring the colonial system in its ancient limits and rigor, after it had been destroyed in nearly all continental America, by a legitimate authority in Spain and Portugal.

"The late conduct of the Portuguese government shews its policy in this respect too clearly to admit of doubt; and it is clear that Ferdinand is only supported in his projects by the aid or countenance of the English ministry, who know that the liberty of commerce in these immense provinces must depreciate and finally ruin their pitiful Islands, and their monopoly of colonial productions. If they are sincere in their feelings for the blacks, let them observe that natural increase and emigration have already extinguished their slavery in one half of the United States, without shocks or injury to them or to Europe. This is the only true way for Europe to meddle with the abolition of the slavery of the blacks. Measures to this effect would meet with no opposition or distrust here, or in any other part of America; but abolishing the slave trade will only establish slavery more fairly on those who are already slaves, and their posterity; and increase the English ascendancy in Africa, from whence they already drain soldiers and seamen, and even slaves into their service, as well as free labourers. Is it not known to the powers of Europe that every slave taken in the ships of other nations becomes a soldier or a sailor in the British service, or an apprentice for 14 years in her colonies? The very officers charged to execute the abolition of the trade, will find the means of enforcing its objects only against foreigners, when they take them at sea, and the governors of the conquered islands find their account in permitting smuggling; and why not in the ancient colonies?"

"Do they believe that the negroes of South America, or of any other country would, after trial, prefer the slavery of an English soldier, or man of war-man, to that of a sugar or cotton plantation in a warm climate? If so they know nothing of the constitution, moral or physical of opinions. I know slaves here who having gone to England with their masters, and becoming free there, have begged to be brought back here to resume their slavery. Their habits may be changed like those of other people in time, and to a certain degree, but to raw Africans, no idea of a hell, equal to that of a cold climate, can be communicated, and no terror equal to that of fighting in line, or on board ship, where they have no chance of avoiding or escaping an enemy, (nor even from their own officers, who are the worst of masters,) and no excitement similar to that which they have for fighting in their own country."

Appointment by the Governor.
Eli KENNEDY, Esq. Sheriff of Richland District, vice W. C. Tyson deceased.

CHARLESTON, May 25.
The Hope brought out twenty-eight passengers. Among them are several labourers and country people. These people are compelled to seek their bread in this country—in France, as it is now "delivered"—if they raise a bushel of wheat—three fourths go to the government. In this "legitimate" state of society, the utmost stretch of industry and most rigid economy are necessary for the ordinary purposes of livelihood.

The processes in the French Courts, are not confined to criminal cases. Miss PATTERSON, or Madame BONAPARTE, (we have the choice of names) the first wife of JEROME, has arrived at Paris from the United States, and claims her right to the possession and interest of the property left by him in France.

Specie.—Fair prospects are held out, that this useful and desirable article will shortly become as plentiful among us as formerly. Some few weeks since an importation of 79,000 dollars was made at this port from Nassau; and on Sunday last, an arrival from the same place, brought 40,000 dollars more.

POETRY.

FROM THE FORT FOLIO.

HOME.

Not such their home, whom love has taught to know,
From that blest source what real transports flow,
Home! 'tis the name of all that sweetens life;
It speaks the warm affection of a wife;
The liping babe that prattles on the knee,
In all the playful grace of infancy;
The spot where fond paternal love may trace
The growing virtues of a blooming race;
Oh! 'tis a word of more than magic spell,
Whose sacred power the wanderer best can tell;
He who, long distant from his native land,
Feels at her name his eager soul expand:
Whether as patriot, husband, father, friend,
To that dear point his thoughts, his wishes bend;
And still he owns, whene'er his footsteps roam,
Life's choicest blessings centre all—at home.

The weather is still extraordinary. On Sunday night, frost—on Monday Morning we had fire; the effects are seen in our fields; the Indian corn is stunted, and unusually backward. The oldest inhabitants say, they have scarcely ever witnessed so tardy a summer.

Richmond Enquirer, June 12.

Meteorological Observation.

Rain having fallen on Monday, a series of thirty one years has elapsed in which it has invariably rained on the 19th or 20th of May. Some time since, we heard the remark made of this occurrence, and recollected it on Monday last. The remarker some thirty-one years ago, was in the habit of passing the Election Week with his friends in Connecticut, and for seven years sat off on his journey on the 19th or 20th May, and found that in all those years in succession, he was compelled to ride in the rain or stop. This occasioned him to note annually the state of the weather, on those days, and he has found that for thirty one years it has invariably rained on them. The weatherwise may account for the fact if they can; we have full confidence in the veracity of our informant.

Mould Candles,

OF the best quality, 4 or 6 to the pound, constantly on hand, and for sale, at Mrs. CARPENTER'S, and at Mr. P. THORNTON'S. Camden, June 27, 1816. S*4

Committed to Jail,

IN Concord, Cabarras County, N. Carolina, on the 1st inst. a Negro man about 30 or 40 years old, dark complexion, stutters when he speaks. He says his name is John Frederick, at other times Robin and Fields—He says he was taken by a Negro trader from Pasquotank county in this state to S. Carolina, and left at a Mr. Moore's on the Wateree River, below Camden. He does not know whether Mr. Moore purchased him or not; but as he tells so many contradictory stories, it is impossible to know which to rely on—The owner is requested to come forward, pay charges and take him away. JOHN McCLELLAN, Shff. Concord, N. C. June 19, 1816. 3p1d.

50 Dollars Reward.

RANAWAY from the subscriber on Thursday evening the 13th inst. a mulatto man named JULIUS, by trade a Carpenter & Cabinet maker, about five feet ten inches high, slender but well formed, of good appearance, but has a gloomy and somewhat frowning countenance, and has a sedate and somewhat slow movement in his ordinary gait. There are two marks about him by which he may be immediately known—his left arm, which was put out of joint at the elbow, and never properly set, and the appearance arising therefrom may be perceived even with his coat on; and likewise the appearance of a gun shot wound in one thigh. As he is ambitious, intelligent, artful and insinuating, he may change his name, attempt to pass as free and go to the northward. Any person who will apprehend the said fellow and deliver him to the subscriber, at this place shall be entitled to the above reward, or to the sum of TWENTY FIVE DOLLARS and all reasonable expenses, on delivering him to any jail in the state. As this is the first fault of the kind if he returns voluntarily he may be forgiven, and sold in August. W. ELLISON. Edgefield, Court House, June 17, 1816.

NOTICE.

An ORATION will be delivered by Doctor LANGLEY, at Captain Levy's camp ground, on Swift Creek, on the 4th of July next, between the hours of ten and twelve o'clock A. M. The RIFLE COMPANY will be on parade by eight o'clock in the morning. The citizens are invited to attend.

By order of C. LEVY, John Cook, Ord. Serjt. Camden, 19th June, 1816. 12-13
