From the Mothers' and Young Ladios' Guide. Delivered before the Bristol, R. I. Mat.

Asso., by Rev. Thomas Shepard.

Scarput Alongs keep a watchful eye over the dress of your daughters. Labor incessmely to convince them that it is not the outward adorning of the body that will be represented the converse. ensure them the respect and the esteem of the virtuous and the good-but the inward ndorning of the heart end the mind, with knowledge and grace. All amiable temper a cultivated mind, a pure heart is to them of far more value than the richest dress. with chains of gold about the neck, and and the costlest pearls penduut from the ears. In moderating their desires in this

But on this point I am far from being rigid. I dislike to see misses in their teens dressed out in all the undry tinsels of prindiscovers weakness and vanity in their mothers. On the other hand, I dislike to see negligence and sloven ness in the appar el of young lielies. Let good taste, combined with economy, come in to regulate this matter, and there will be no difficulty. Your daugh ers will go out and return and no one will think of remarking upon what they have onrepect, your own example will do more than

But of one thing mothers cannot be too careful-and that is, to see that their daug's. ters do not clope from their chambers and todets undressed, I mean not in a state of entire, but partial nudity.

A trustee of one of our female seminaries was recen'ly asked by the Preceptor. at the close of an examination, how he was pleased with the appearance of the young ladies? He replied, "very well with one exception. I am sorry to perceive that two of the misses, in the agitation of preparing for the occasion, have this morning forgotten to dress thems Ives." It has been ladies abroad, the daughters of professedly pieus mothers, with such exposure of their persons, as that a description of them would assembly.

When a young laly appears abroad in such a state, the first thought among the sober and reflecting is, who is her mother? Oh! as you value the reputation of your daughter, seek not to display a fine form and a fine skin to the gaze of the world, at the expense of her modesty, and your own common sense.

Much may be done by mothers to render the dress of their daughters promotive of health, rather than of deformity and disease. Let every mother early set her face decidedly against a system of dress, however fashionable, which so confines a vital part of the body as to prevent the internal organs of life from healthful action. I confess myself atterly incapable of doing justire to this subject. But from a long reflection, I am convinced that the victims of what is termed "tight lacing," are about as numerous as the victims of the cup. 1: is true, the evil in the former case does not appear before us in such open, horrid, and inhuman forms, but its work of death is none the less frequent and sure by being more re- | delivery. tired and secret. Why sacrifice health and life, the greatest earthly blessings granted es, to a perverted sense of beauty in form? We ofen commiserate the poor Chinese female infant, whose feet are early compressed with bands of wood and iron, so as to prevent them from attaining more than the growth of a child of six weeks. But while we are doing this, we are actually applying the wood, and the iron, and whaleboue in addition, with all their binding force, to a part of the body far more ess mial to health and comfort, and life, than the feet. How absurd-how ridiculous-how criminall. You have heard of the flat head in. diany beyond the Rocky Mountains, and I om informed one of them is on a visit to New England with a Missionary of the Method st Church, And should he visit this place, I have no doubt we should all deeply sympathize with him in the suffiring to which his childhood had been subjected by the compression of his head into the shape of a triangle. But how can even this perverted taste of a savage tribe, in point of painfulness and distortion, be compared with that oflious custom so prevalent among us of compressing the "human form divine" into the fruit ligament of an insect. If nature's perfect work must be altered by human device, we say let it be of the feet or the head, rather than of the chest, where are located the most delicate organs of life.

Be careful that your daughters do not early imbibe the impression that a thorough domestic training in the business of the kitchen is of triffing importance, if not absolutely derogatory to their respectability. Such impressions in misses of sixteen are very common. But how false and mistaken they are, your own experience bears ample testimony. Save your daughters, it you can, from the mortification and misery of entering upon the care of a Amily, destitute of a knowledge of what are the first principles of domestic economy. If they feel that such early discipline is degrading, you can appeal to one of the most popular temple seminaries in the land, where the business of the kitchen and the washroom is made a prominent branch of acquisition.

3dly, Be careful to maintain a watchful supervision over the books introduced into your houses for reading by your older children. Our community is new literally flooded with books, and many of them are of a doubtful, and many of them of a posirively pernicious tendency. Your daughters have no time to be wasted in poring over works of fiction. Bar your doors against every species of novel reading. Its influence upon the mind is very much like that of intoxicating drink upon the body. It produces excitement, a feverish thirst for unreal enjoyments, imaginary pleasures. 1 itions, strong attachment to bome, and a submissive temper under all circumstan-ces of life. "Fathers, provoke not your children to wrath lest they be discouraged." And we may apply the same exhortation to mothers, in relation to their daughters. Always keep yourselves in a quier and pleasant frame of mind, and you will impress your own moral image on the minds of your offspring. When they are out of hu-mor, seek to culm them as soon as possible. "A soft answer turneth away wrath." Let it be your constant aim to train your children to govern themselves, to become early inured to self-control. "He that ruleth his own spirit. says Solomon, "is belier than he that taketh a city."

Finally Let it be your constant endeavor. and earnest, uncoming prayer, that your older children may become decidedly pious. Teach them that this is the great orowing excellence of character. Without it, there is a blank in their characters which nothing clse can fill. Are they given to indulgence of pride and vanity? Religion will cure the evil. Are they exposed to fits of passion? Religion will subdue every truscible feeling. Are they given to impatience un-der restraint and to disregard of paternal authority? Religion will bring every thing under subjection to the perfect law of Christ. O hen be familiar with your daughters on this great, this all important theme .-Clothe not the subject with a forbidding austerity of manner, but hold them in an accessible state of feeling. Often become their compasion in the study of the Bible, take them with you to the Bible Class, sit down by their side in the Sabbeth School. And above all, pray with and for them statedly and fervently-relying on the cheering promise that your Heavenly Father is more willing to give his Spirit unto those that ask him, than parents are to give good gifts unto their children. Much, much have you reason to hope for in behalf of my misfortune not unfrequently to see young your offspring, in the devout and faithful application of such means. "They shall grow up as willows by the water-course." "Your sons shall be as plants grown up in their he considered as a breach of modes y in this youth, and your daughters as corner stones polished after the similatude of a palace."

PROSPECTUS PARTEDRIC GASSTES

The Editor of the Cheraw Gasette The Editor of the Cheraw Gasette has determined, at the suggestion of the Pee Des Agricultural Society, to devote more space than formerly to Agriculture, and matters pertaining specially to its interests. About nine columns, or a page and a half weekly, will be occupied with this subject, excep when at shall be necessary to make room for Executive Messages, and a few other political paper such as every intelligent citizen ought to read.

A large proportion of what shall appear under the Agricultural head must, of course, be selected. But the numerous Agricultural periodicals now published in this country afford abundant and excellent materials for selection; and, after a short time, the reports, and other papers of teh Pee Dee Agricultural Society will of themselves, form no inconsiderable body of original matter, all of it adapted particularly to this part of the country. And it is hoped, also, that among the numerous in-telligent and enterprising planters of the surrounding districts and counties some may be found who will, occasionally, take the trouble of contributing to the columns of the paper the result of their experience.

Among the su jects which will engage the Editor's attention the culture of silk shall not be overlooked. Ample instructions will be given, in their proper season, for cultivating the morus multicautis and making silk.

The paper will espouse the cause of no party in politics, but shall contain an impartial sum mary of political intelligence, and, occasionally, able speeches and well written essays (when met with) fairly discussing the principles and measures of all parties. It is believed that a comparatively small space devoted to political subjects in this way may be made more profitable to the Farmer of domestic habits, who wishes to be acquainted with the true state of the country and qualified for a proper and intelli-gent discharge of the duties of citizenship, than whole sheet filled, from week to week, and year to year, with one-sided discussions, and he mere quarrels of editors and politicians,— whilst, at the same time, it will not be calcuated to estrange neighbor from neighbor, or to mislead into a belief that one half of the country are less patriotic than the other, or less ardently attacked to our republican institutions. occupied with standing advertisements will generally be filled up with matter of moral and religious cast, and articles conducive, in other respects, to proper family instruction and family

If the increase to the subscription list upon suing this Prospectus shall be sufficient to warrant the expense, new type will be pro-cured, forthwith, for the body of the paper; that is for the part now printed in large letter and at the commencement of the next volum-the title of the paper will be changed to Famers' Gazette and Cheraw Advertiser.
