

From the Watchman of the South. RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCE.

The opinion commonly entertained, that the most enormous sinners are the subjects of the most pungent convictions of sin, and the most alarming terrors of hell, is not correct. In regard to such the commencement of a work of grace is sometimes very gradual, and the impressions so apparently slight, that they afford very little ground of sanguine expectations of its result. While on the other hand, some persons of an unblemished moral character, and who from the influence of a religious education have always respected religion and venerated its ordinances when brought under conviction are more terribly alarmed, and more overwhelmed with distress than others whose lives have been stained by gross crimes. The Rev. John Newton, when awakened to some sense of his sinful and dangerous condition, which occurred during a violent and long continued storm at sea, though his judgment was convinced that he was the greatest sinner, and he doubted whether it was possible for him to be saved; yet seems to have had no very deep feelings or agitating fears. He says, "It was not till after, perhaps, several years, that I had gained some clear views of the finite righteousness and grace of Christ Jesus my Lord, that I had a deep and strong apprehension of my state by nature and practice; and perhaps till then I could not have borne the sight; so wonderfully does the Lord proportion the discoveries of sin and grace. For he knows our frame, and that if he were to put forth the greatness of his power, a poor sinner would be instantly overwhelmed, and crushed as a moth." And though from this time there was a sensible change, and his mind was turned towards religion, yet it is evident from the history of his life, as well as his experiences afterwards, that grace existed during several years, in the feeblest state which we can conceive. It appeared so much to himself, that he warns all persons from considering his experience a model for them. "As to myself," says he, "very part of my case has been extraordinary—I have hardly met a single instance resembling it. Few, very few, have been rescued from such a dreadful state, and those few that have been favored, have generally passed through the most severe convictions; and either the Lord has given them peace, nor future lives have been usually more zealous, bright and exemplary than common." Now this is the opinion which I think is taken up rather from theory than an observation of facts. I think that those persons who have been most conversant with exercised souls will say, that there is no general rule here—that very pungent convictions and deep distress are found as frequently in those who have been preserved from out-breaking transgressions, as in those noted for their immorality. There seems, indeed, more reason for severe convictions in the latter case; but convictions are not uniformly proportioned to the magnitude of crimes. And in truth, we are incapable of comparing together the holiness of the sins of different persons. The moral man, as we call him, may be the greatest sinner of the two, when weighed in the balances of the sanctuary. I heard a popular preacher once undertake to prove, that moral men and formal professors, must in all cases be far more wicked than the blaspheming infidel and gross debauchee. The argument was plausible, but labored under one essential defect; and I was of opinion and said, that such a doctrine is highly dangerous, and calculated to encourage men to go to all lengths in wickedness. When I was a very young preacher, I expressed the opinion in a sermon preached in North Carolina, that the more moral and formalist were more out of the way of conviction than the openly profane. When the sermon was ended a fire-eating man came up to me and said that I had delivered precisely his opinion on one point, and mentioned the above sentiment. Inquired, when he was gone, who he was, and found that he was the most notorious profane in all the country; and not long afterwards he was apprehended and imprisoned, as the head of a company engaged in felonious arts. This thought me a lesson which I never forgot. Mr. Newton proceeds thus, "Now, on the one hand my convictions were very moderate, and far below what might have been expected from the dreadful review I had to make; so, on the other my first beginnings in a religious course were as faint as can be well imagined. I never knew that season alluded to by Rev. J. usually called the time of first love." And thus he relates facts which give sad evidence of a very low state of grace; and if it had ever risen higher we should certainly have been inclined to believe that he was not a subject of saving grace. But this leads me to remark a fact analogous to what is common in the natural world; that the infant when born, barely gives evidence of life, may not only grow to maturity, but in size and strength, may far exceed those who commenced life with more activity and vigor; and so in the spiritual life, when the incipient motions and affections are very feeble, the person may eventually become a mature and eminent Christian, as we have no doubt Mr. Newton did. Another instance of a similar kind, if my memory serves me, was the Rev. R. Cecil, who had also been for many years a profane infidel; but who in process of time became one of the most eminent Christians, as well as spiritual preachers of his day.—Dr. Thomas Scott also, was a Socinian, and yet a preacher of the established church; but the progress of illumination and conviction in his mind was very gradual. His "Force of Truth" is an admirable little work, and furnishes a full illustration of the sentiment which I wish to inculcate; That grace in the commencement, is often exceedingly faint and feeble; and yet may grow into a state of maturity and comparative perfection.

In the experience of President Edwards, as recorded by himself, we find no account of any deep and distressing convictions of sin at the commencement of his religious course; though afterwards, perhaps few men ever attained to such deep, humbling views of the depth and turpitude of the depravity of his heart. But his experience differs from that of the one mentioned above in that his first views of divine things were clear and attended with unspeakable delight. "The first instance, that I remember of that sort of inward, secret delight in God and divine things, that I have lived much in since, was, on reading of those words, 1 Tim. i. 17, 'Now unto the King eternal immortal and invisible, the only wise God, be honor and glory forever and ever, Amen.' As I read the words, there came into my soul, and was as it were diffused through it, a sense of the glory of the divine Being; a new sense quite different from any thing I ever experienced before. Never any words of Scripture seemed to me as those words did. I thought with myself how excellent a being that was, and how happy I should be, if I might enjoy that God and be rapt up to him in heaven, and be as it were swallowed up in him forever." "From about that time I began to have a new kind of apprehensions and ideas of Christ, and the work of redemption, and the glorious way of salvation by him. An inward, sweet sense of these things, at times, came into my heart; and my soul was led away in pleasur-ous views and contemplations of them." "After this my sense of divine things gradually increased, and became more and more lively, and had more of that inward sweetness. The appearance of every thing was altered.—There seemed to be as it were, a calm, sweet, east or appearance of divine glory, in almost every thing. God's excellency, his wisdom, his purity, and his love seemed to appear in every thing." The difference between what he intended carrying on the Black Smith business in all its branches, and the stand formerly occupied by Daniel McDuffie.—He will shoe horses at $1.00 all round; shoes pointed with steel $1.25. Plows may be had ready stocked for the field. There will be attached to the Black Smith Shop a Wood Shop in the house opposite Moore's Hotel, where all kinds of wood work will be done at the shortest notice.

THE RUSSIAN EMMIGRANTS AT BUFFALO.

These emigrants continue to excite attention; and the prolonged stay in our city has led some to think that they would remain during the winter, and become a tax upon us. No fears of their kind need be entertained. The party are from Prussia and Silesia, and number about 700 in a few days they expect to be joined by 300 more, next spring by 1200, and in the next summer by perhaps 1000 or 2000 of their countrymen, making in all not less than 3000. They are Protestants of the Lutheran Church. A new organization of the religious establishment in Prussia having been effected the King ordered all his subjects to join it, threatening certain penalties for non-compliance. Imprisonment, confiscation of property and persecuting in various forms, were the consequences of the recusants.—Finding they could no longer remain in their homes in comfort, numbers of the old school, among whom are those now here, petitioned His Majesty, for permission to quit the country. After more than a year of fruitless exertion, they were at last allowed to depart; and with lighter hearts than they had experienced for many years before, they left their land forever, knowing that the star off, there was another land in which they could worship God according to the dictates of their own consciences. We learn that Mr. W. A. Thomson, hardware merchant of this city, who acts as their agent, has been put in possession of a sum of money sufficient to place them on their feet in Wisconsin, and feed them for eight months, if necessary, and a portion of the original purchase of the soil. The greater part of them will leave this week for Milwaukee. We congratulate Wisconsin on the prospect of this valuable addition to its population, and to our city it is a matter of no small moment to have the West filled up with such hardy, industrious settlers.—Buffalo Com. Ad.

On a recent visit to the Maryland Hospital, we learned that some particulars of a melancholy case of the loss of reason from sudden fright. The subject is a male child, about eight years of age, named John H. Frisbie, the son of a respectable widow lady residing at Fell's Point, whose pre-logical developments seem intended for the elaboration of elevated intellectual conceptions, and whose physiognomy is eminently qualified to give that expression which the tongue cannot give. And yet the intellect of that noble looking child has been irremediably destroyed by some silly trifler with a false face! by whom he was frightened some time last summer. The child, at the time, fell suddenly down, and for two weeks exhibited little or none of his former liveliness, and finally his mind gave way entirely, and though he was kept some time in the hospital, no cure could be effected, and he is now in the care of his mother, in a state compounded of idiocy and madness. LARGE Maps of Mississippi and Alabama, showing the Public and Indian Lands, Indian Reservations, Land Districts, Townships &c. engraved from the Governments surveys and plans in the General Land Office, Washington City, by E. Gilliam, draughtsman in the General Land Office. F. T. Taylor, book seller, Washington City, has just published (and secured the copy right according to law) the above Maps, which will be found infinitely more complete and accurate than any heretofore published. They are published on separate sheets, each containing nearly six square feet, and will be found especially useful and valuable to those interested in the lands of either State as they show every item of information which is in possession of the Land Office relative to water courses, township lines, Indian Land and Reservations, Land Districts, &c. and will be found perfectly accurate and precise in those points. They can be sent by mail to any part of the United States, subject to single letter postage. PRICE Two dollars, or three copies of either will be sent by mail for five dollars. A liberal discount will be made to travelling agents or to any who will buy to sell again. Editors of newspapers any where who will give the above advertisement (including this notice) one or two insertions, shall receive by return mail a copy of each map, if they will send a copy of the paper containing it, to the advertiser. November 2, 1839.

Morus Multicaulis. THE subscriber has for sale a large number of Morus Multicaulis cuttings. In the qualities which give value for planting, viz: size and MATURITY OF WOOD, they are believed not to be surpassed, perhaps not equalled by any others to be had in the United States. This is owing to the great distance allowed in planting, as well as to suitable soil and good cultivation. Owing to the present scarcity of money, and the consequent depression in the price of every thing else, they are offered at a very reduced price. Persons wishing to purchase should apply early; because all not engaged are now offered in a distant market. Because, if not sold before Spring the price may then be higher. Printed directions for planting and cut wating will be furnished without charge to those who purchase. M. MACLEAN. Cheraw S. C. December 4th 1839.

PROSPECTUS OF THE FARMERS' GAZETTE AND CHERAW ADVERTISER.

The Editor of the Cheraw Gazette has determined, at the suggestion of the Pee Dee Agricultural Society, to devote more space than formerly to Agriculture, and matters pertaining specially to its interests. About nine columns, or a page and a half weekly, will be occupied with this subject, except when it shall be necessary to make room for Executive Messages, and a few other political papers such as every intelligent citizen ought to read. A large proportion of what shall appear under the Agricultural head must, of course, be selected. But the numerous Agricultural periodicals now published in this country afford abundant and excellent materials for selection; and, after a short time, the reports, and other papers of the Pee Dee Agricultural Society will of themselves, form no inconsiderable body of original matter, all of it adapted particularly to this part of the country. And it is hoped, also, that among the numerous intelligent and enterprising planters of the surrounding districts and counties some may be found who will, occasionally, take the trouble of contributing to the columns of the paper the result of their experience. Among the subjects which will engage the Editor's attention the culture of silk shall not be overlooked. Ample instructions will be given in their proper season, for cultivating the morus multicaulis and making silk. The paper will espouse the cause of no party in politics, but shall contain an impartial summary of political intelligence, and, occasionally, able speeches and well written essays (when met with) fairly discussing the principles and measures of all parties. It is believed that a comparatively small space devoted to political subjects in this way may be made more profitable to the Farmer of domestic habits, who wishes to be acquainted with the true state of the country and qualified for a proper and intelligent discharge of the duties of citizenship, than a whole sheet filled, from week to week, and year to year, with one-sided discussions, and mere quarrels of editors and politicians,—whilst, at the same time, it will not be calculated to estrange neighbor from neighbor, or to mislead into a belief that one half of the country are less patriotic than the other, or less ardently attached to our republican institutions.

No such of the fourth page as shall not be occupied with standing advertisements will generally be filled up with matter of moral and religious cast, and articles conducive, in other respects, to proper family instruction and family discipline. If the increase to the subscription list upon issuing this Prospectus shall be sufficient to warrant the expense, new type will be procured, forthwith, for the body of the paper; that is for the part now printed in large letter; and at the commencement of the next volume the title of the paper will be changed to Farmers' Gazette and Cheraw Advertiser. For Terms see first page. September, 1839.

New Goods. THE subscriber is again opening a stock of goods in Cheraw, well adapted to the season, which he is prepared to sell at prices very much reduced, either by wholesale or retail. He bought a large proportion of his Goods at the New York package sales in September last, and thinks he can sell them as low as they can be bought in any of the Southern towns. D. B. McARN. November 22d, 1839.

South Carolina. John K. McIver, Admr. E. R. Melver, vs. Richard Ingraham. Decree in Foreign Attachment. WHEREAS the Plaintiff in the above stated case has filed his Decree in my office and the Defendant who is absent from and without the limits of the state having neither wife nor attorney known within the same. It is ordered that the Defendant do place or make his defence to the said Decree within a year and a day from the date hereof otherwise final and absolute judgment will be given and awarded against him. Office of Common Pleas for Darlington District. S. W. DUBOSE, C. C. P. December 12, 1839.
