AARON BURR AND BLANNERHASSET.

During the last session of Congress the widow of Fiarmon Blannerhassett petitioned for indemnity for losses incurred by her late husband, in consequence of the destruction of his property by an armed force, during the excitement growing out of Burr's conspiracy, while the petition was under consideration, the unfortunate lady died at New York, at the age of 70. She was very poor; having been for many years supported by a warm-hearted countryman. Her extraordinary beauty and accomplishments have been rendered famous by Mr. Wirt's eloquent description, in his defence of her husband. He represented her as "beautiful as a Houri, and gifted as Zoheide."

Her husband, a wealthy Irish emigrant, shared the political opinions of Robert Emmet, and is said to have left Ireland to avoid his fate. He bought an estate on Bacchus Island, in the broad Ohio, on which he expended $55,000. It became renouned for the elegance of the mansion, the tasteful arrangement of the grounds, and the loveliness of the scenery. It was described as a luxurious retreat, which "Calypso and her Nymphs might have

Not even the ruins of this once famous place are now remaining. In an evil hour, one fine spring morning, Aaron Burr landed on that beautiful Island, and sent his servant with the following note:

" Colonel Burr solicits the favor of being permitted to wander among the grounds of Mrs. Blannerhassot.

This, of course, received a courteous answer, and the acquaintance thus begun involved the hospitable emigrant, in the treasonable designs of his insidious guest. A military force took possession of the island, burnt the splendid house and furniture, destroyed the beautiful gardens, and drove the once happy family into

The following account, from the Lick-Valley Register, Kentucky, is given who knew them in their prosperity : Much has been said and written on the conspiracy of Aaron Burr; and a diversity of opinion still exists, as to the extent of his designs. The elegant retirement of Blannerhasset, previous to his association with Burr, has also been a theme of cloquence and a subject of admiration. As I lived near the centre of Burr's operations, and was intimate with the family erhassett, many facts came under my observation which perhaps are not generally known. I therefore comply with your request by detailing circumstan-

th reference to Burr's cons southwestern territories. This intention was clearly manifested by a series of pub-

Burr met in council with a fragment of his followers, on an island in the Mississippi, where his scheme was abandoned. He fled in disguise but was arrested, tried at the city of Richmond, and acquitted by a quirk of the law. Blannerhassett and other associates were discharged. His family, servants and furniture, having descended the river to Natchez, he located himself on a cotton farm in that vicinity, The embargo and the war which followed, defeated his expectations; he became embarrassed; his fortune having been impaired by his liabilities for Burr. Under the prospect of a civil appointment in Lower Canada, he removed to Montreal, but his friend, the governor, being removed, he was again disappointed, and retired at last to the Island of Jersey, in the Brit. ish channel, where his maiden sister resided, a lady of fortune. There he died the victim of a romantic and visionary mind. Blannerhassett was an Irish nobleman, a man of science, and a polished gentleman. He excelled in the composition and performance of music; his instruments were the violin, and bass-viol, both of which he used in the manner of the bass: His spacious hall was constructed in musical proportions, where the tones of his viol vibrated with thrilling effect. His library as elegant and extensive, his laboratory was provided with abundant apparatus for chemical and philosophical experiments, and his house and gardens were furnished with various means of winter and summer amusements. The mansion, with its corridor and wings, formed half an ellipsis, and the finish and furniture of its apartments were adapted to the use for which they were intended. The hall was a spacious, lofty room, its walls painted a sombre color, and its furniture rich, heavy, and grand. The drawing room was in perfect contrast, and its decorations light as a fary's wing. In short the whole establishment was noble and genteel, without the glare of tinsel finery, or the inconsistency of bad taste. His style of living was in unision with his house and furniture, always elegant, easy and comfortable. The arrangements of the grounds was equally complete, the famous shrubery was a mimic wilderness, with labyrinth walks bordered with flowers, and interspersed with arbors and grottos. The extensive pastures in front, with its flocks and herds, was separated from the lawn by an invincible fence; and the view upon the Ohio was obstructed for several miles. But the whole scene requires the pen of a poet. The description of Wirt is nearer the reality than is generally believed, and his sketch of Mrs. Blannerhassett is equally true to nature. She was a beautiful, and accomplished lady, of dignified appearance and manners; affable, friendly, and without ces which were familiar to me at that pe-the least affectation, yet with all her cle-gance, she was a noble housewife, and devoted to her needle; not in the producever doubted the fact, that his first tion of flowers and flounces, but of garseparation of the States, and ments for her children and servants. nent of "an energetic gov. The miscrotte clanders which have been reported of her, are without the least foundation. Burr did not seduce Blannerhassett, through the medium of his icit to the island did not exceed three days; and no woman of Mrs. Blannerhas. sett's mind and character, could be cornerhassett was an open and unguarded and attended to their publication. My father indignantly his soul enlisted in it, her sense of duty compelled her to acquiesce in his views, which resulted in the ruin of his family.

> "Years have gone by, and the tale at last, Is told as a sorrowful scene long past."

The steamboat passenger looks on the deserted island for some vestage of its former embelishment; but he looks in vain. The mansion was destroyed by fire, its beautiful appendages are obliterated, its hospitality, the soul of music and the refinement of taste and intellect have all departed. On my last visit to the scene of many happy hours, the only memento of my early associations I could find, was old beech tree.

" I felt like one who treads alone, Some banquet hall deserted; Whose lights are fled, the garlands dead, And all but he departed."

THE ACADEMY BUILDINGS.

THE Cheraw Academical Society is now in debt about $1600. Since its establishment it has expended, for lots, buildings, and repairs, about $5000; besides large sums of money in making up to teachers from time to time deficiencies in their salaries, arising from inade. quate receipts for tuition. Though the Society has heretofore received considerable aid from citizens and others not members ; yet the principal burden and the whole responsi. bility (previous to last year) has always rested on those who were. The Society now consists of few in number; and at a meeting convened this day, it was resolved to sell the Academical Lots and Buildings for the purpose of paying the above debt; unless some posed to do it without their assistance. The 16th day of next month is fixed for determing upon the sale; unless, before that date, the people (with such arguments as satisfy creditors) put their veto upon it.

This work will be devoted to the various pur. suits of the agriculturist throughout every section of the United States, and will contain THE LA-TEST INTELLIGENCE ON EVERY BRANCH OF THEIR OCCUPATION; the best seeds; modes of tillage; character of soils; improved implements; and the various and BEST BREEDS OF CATTLE, HORSES, SHEEP AND SWINE.

Each number consists of THIRTY-TWO PAGES, double column, royal octavo, and the work will be embellished with CUTS, illustrating the different subjects on which it treats-making a volume of 384 LARGE PAGES yearly for the low price of ONE DOLLAR.

Seven numbers of this work have already been published, and as it is stereotyped, subscribers may commence with the back or present numbers at their option.

From the general testimony in favor of the manner in which this paper has been conducted rom the public press and the most experienced Farmers and Planters throughout the country, there is every reason to believe it will prove universally acceptable, and remunerate its readers ten-fold for their subscription. No man at this time who aspires to the noble occupation of an American agriculturist, should be without one or more periodicals, exclusively devoted to his nterests.

Each number consists of one sheet and will be hject to newspaper postage only. Postmasters are permitted by law to enclose noney for subscription free of postage. Below are a few of the many favorable notices of the above work, from the American Press :

"The Agriculturist appears to be edited with that kind of ability and practical knowledge, that must place it among the foremost rank with similar periodicals in our country."-Wayne County Record, Indiana.

"The number we have is rich in ably written and well selected articles. The Editors are well known to the readers of agricultural periodicals as able writers, and will, we are sure, greatly benefit the country by their present undertaking.

The Union, Raleigh, N. Carolina. "The Agriculturist is well filled with well written, well digested, and highly practical articles on subjects pertaining to rural industry. The conductors of the work, the Messrs. Allen, are not only well versed in the practical operations of cultivating the soil, and breeding domes. tic animals to the best advantage, but they wield ready and graphic pens for the discussion of these important subjects in a style both clear and attractive. Regarding the science of agriculture and gardening, as by far the most important study that engages the attention of the American people, we cannot withhold our earnest commendation of the 'American Agriculturist' to the great farming interests of the country."-Buffalo Commercial Advertiser, New York. "The American Agriculturist is printed in tavo pages, and illustrated mill engravings, and ably edited by the Messrs. Allon, he are well Y. Tribune. and favorably known to the agricultural nity, as practical and enlightened farmers ry."-South Western Farmer, Raymond, Miss.

"I have examined the three first numbers, and from the specimens which they afford, as well as from a personal acquaintance with the editors, I have formed a very favorable opinion as to the usefulness of this work, and the ability with which it will be convucted. It is intended to be a national work."-Judge Beatty, of Washington, Kentucky.

"The editors are well known as practical breeders and agriculturists, and as gifted writers. They have the aid of some of the most able wri ters in the country, and it can hardly fail to take its place at once in the front rank among the best publications of its class - Spirit of the it, furnished at a very cheap rate." - Baptist Ad-Times, New York
