let, Esq late of this city, gives us some are at Galveston Island. interesting information from Texas. VELASCO, July 20 1836.

Our army is still at Victoria, upon the river Guadaloupe. Lamar had arrived there agreeably to the last accounts, and presented himself as Commander-in-Chief of the Texian forces, but wit all his popularity was unable to obtain the concurrence of the army with the wishes of the cabinet. The question was put to vote, whether he should enjoy the chief command, or Rusk continue in his former capacity, until the arrival of Gen Houston. The matter was decided by an overwhelming majority in favor of the two latter gentlemen; so that Rusk remains Brigadier Gen. Commanding, and the authority of Major Gen. Houston will be recognised so suon as he arrives in camp. Lamar is said to have behaved in his usuall disinterested and patriotic manner.

The army in the field at this time is two thousand strong. Col Wilson's regiment will soon be in marching order. The whole country is up and moving to camp. The old settlers are determined to redeem their injured credit,-undeservedly injured, as the great majority, of them could not have acted differently, and secured their families from the blood-thirsty violence of a ruthless and semi-barbarous foe, and they are now flocking onwards, to prove to an invidious world that their arms are as strong, and the spirit of liberty burning as brightly in their hearts as it ever did in the olden time, when the independence of their mother country was in its cradle, and rocking amid the elements of internal discord and foreign recklessness.

Felix Houston has been promoted to the rank of Brigr. Gen. by brevet. Green still enjoys the commission which he appeared to prize so highly in New Orleans. They are both in camp. MOVEMENTS NEAR TEXAS. We have been furnished for publication with copies of the following order issued by. Gen. Gaines, and of his instructions to the officers commanding the United States troops near Nacogdoches: ORDER NO. 29.

HEAD QUARTERS-WESTERS DEPARTMENT. 7

Camp Sabine, 11th July 1830. The present posture of affairs in Texas indicates the probability of Indian disturbances on the western and southwestern borders of the United States, in the course of the summer and autumn. On this hypothesis must be predicated all miritary movements on this frontier. It is therefore directed that, on any service requiring a detachment of the troops at any military station or camp, to be sent on duty in the wilderness on which they may be absent more than two days, and out of supporting distance, not less than two hundred infantry, or one hundred and fifty mounted men be detached. The fate of Major Dade's command in Florida illustrates the importance of a strict attention to this order.

CREEK WAR. From the Macon Telegraph.

Thursday, 12 o'clock, noon, Aug 11. A smart running fight took place between the Pulaski company of Volunteers and a small party of hostile Indians, on Saturday 6th inst, on the edge of the facounty. It appears, the Pulaski company had received information of the position of the enemy, and went in pursuit; but before they reached within musket shot distance, they were discovered by the sentinels of the Indians, and the alarm given. The Indians fired and run, pursued by the whites. Owing to the thickness of the underbrush and the swampy nature of the ground, they were unable to come up with them, but trailed them to a considerable distance by their blogd. They succeeded in capturing a number of horses, their cooking utensils, and a large quantity of
