Oh! Come to the South!

Oh! come to the South, sweet, beautiful one!
'Tis the clime of the heart, 'tis the shrine of the sun;

Where the sky ever shines with a passionate glow,
And the flowers spread their treasures of crimson and snow;

Where the breeze, o'er bright waters, wafts incense along,
And gay birds are glancing in beauty and song;

Where summer smiles ever o'er mountain and plain,
And the best gifts of Eden, unshadowed, remain!

Oh, come to the South, the shrine of the sun,
And dwell in its bowers, sweet beautiful one!

Oh, come to the South, and I'll build thee a home,
Where winter shall never intrusively come;

The queen-like catalpa, the myrtle and pine,
The gold fruited orange, the ruby-gemmed vine,
Shall bloom round thy dwelling, and shade thee at noon,

While birds of all music keep amorous tune;
By the gush of glad fountains we'll rest us at eve,
No troubles to vex us, no sorrows to grieve!

Oh! come to the South, the shrine of the sun,
And dwell in its bowers, sweet, beautiful one!

Oh! come to the South, 'tis the home of the heart,
No sky like its own can deep passion impart;

The glow of its summer is felt in the soul,
And love keepeth ever its fervent control!

Oh, here would thy beauty most brilliantly beam,
And thy life pass away like some delicate dream!

Each wish of thy heart should be realized here,
And this beautiful land seem an Eden to thee!

Then, come to the South, the shrine of the sun,
And dwell in its bowers, sweet, beautiful one!

A particularly narrow escape.—A backwoods man finding the population was getting too dense for him, determined to cross the Mississippi and squat somewhere.

In course of his journey, he got on board of a steamer, and commenced a series of questions at the engineer.

The latter smoked him at once, and with that spirit of mischief so prevalent amongst old boat men, he determined to have some fun at the Green-horn's expense.

So, leading him on under a pretense of unveiling to him the mysteries of his craft, he placed him at last just under the safety valve.

Suddenly giving it a pull he let off a tremendous jet of steam.

The countryman, hearing the terrific noise, and seeing the gush of steam, very naturally concluded that this was one of the "blow ups" of which he had heard so much; rushing at the top of his speed to the stern of the boat, overboard he went with one brave bound, and he came up from his dive, after shaking his head like a huge Newfoundland dog, and spouting the water from his mouth, he struck out boldly for the shore, at the same time singing out to his friend: "Abe, she's burst to thunder, but I ain't hurt, old feller!"

Names for Wives.—Shoemakers' spouses should be Peggies; gamblers' ladies, Bots; and Sue should be just the wife for an attorney.

Sophias should be of a sedative disposition, and confectioners' wives should always be Patties.

Sometimes a name will excite a remark; all the papers copied the marriage of Henry Apple and Sarah Apple, but we could see no propriety in the making of two apples into a pair.

The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin has perpetrated the above. We do not see why he has left out printers' wives, who are always noted for admiration!—Wilmington Commercial.

Don't.—Don't get tipsy, don't smoke immoderately, or in the ladies' faces; don't quarrel with your friends; don't fancy yourself the nicest man in Christendom; don't despise the poor; don't condemn any body unheard; don't strike a man beyond your reach; and don't pay particular attention to more than one lady.

Notice.

ALL persons having any claims against the Estate of late Mrs. Martha E. Wilson deceased, present them properly attested, and those indebted will make immediate payment to Mr. John Rosser, who is authorized to act as agent in my absence.

HARDWARE.

THE subscribers have now completed, and offer for sale, one of the most extensive and best selected stocks of HARDWARE ever brought to this market embracing every article which, from a long experience, they have found was wanted here, and also such new inventions as they think would be likely to be wanted. In almost all instances, they have bought direct from the English and American manufacturers, and can consequently sell as low as Goods of the same quality can be had elsewhere. As they cannot, through the medium of an advertisement, give any idea of the extent and variety of their stock, they would solicit a call, when purchasers can judge for themselves.

When the Hardware for a building, or whole sets of Tools are wanted, a liberal discount will be made.

A Beautiful Flower.—A friend presented us a day or two since with a curiosity in the shape of a flower, which we think, is one of the greatest wonders of the floral kingdom we have ever seen. It is about the size of a walnut, perfectly white, with fine leaves resembling very much indeed the wax plant. Upon the blooming of the flower in the cup formed by the leaves, is the exact image of a dove lying on its back with its wings extended. The peak of the bill and the eyes are plainly to be seen, and a small leaf before the flower arrives at maturity forms the outspread tail. This leaf can be raised or shut down with the fingers, without breaking or apparently injuring it, until the flower reaches its full bloom, when it drops off. We regret our inability to give a technical description of this curiosity at this time, but hope to do so shortly as one has been promised us by a person every way qualified to write it.—Panama Star.

A VULGARISM.—One of the most popular vulgarisms of the day is embodied in the word "patronage." We have always been at a loss to understand this term as incorporated with the language of the times. If a man buys a pair of boots, getting the full value of his money, he calls himself the "patron" of the manufacturer. The purchaser of six cents' worth of tobacco or a penny-worth of tape is a "patron," and looks upon those on whom he lavishes this "patronage" with a condescending eye, as if he had fed, clothed, and sheltered them. One's patron, regarding the term in its true light, is a person who gives one alms. Patronage in short is charitable protection. It is no patronage to give money for its full value. The term, as now most generally employed, is one of a most servile sycophantic character, and it should be expunged from the modern vocabulary. Noah's Sunday Times.

Reception of Chaplin.—We learn from the New York Journal of Commerce that Chaplin, who became so notorious as the chief actor in the attempted abduction of two slaves, belonging to the Hon. Messrs. Tombs and Stephens, last spring, met with an enthusiastic reception at Syracuse on Monday last. The Congregational church in that city, in which the post-vox was held, is represented as having been crowded in every part, while several hundred were unable to gain admittance. Mr. C. addressed the audience for more than an hour, giving a sketch of his recent adventures in the District of Columbia and Maryland and attempted a justification of his course; which he did we suppose, to their entire satisfaction. Such is the reward of theft and robbery in Syracuse. It is not the first time that a church has been desecrated by making it a den of thieves and robbers.

Names for Wives.—Shoemakers' spouses should be Peggies; gamblers' ladies, Bots; and Sue should be just the wife for an attorney. Sophias should be of a sedative disposition, and confectioners' wives should always be Patties. Sometimes a name will excite a remark; all the papers copied the marriage of Henry Apple and Sarah Apple, but we could see no propriety in the making of two apples into a pair. The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin has perpetrated the above. We do not see why he has left out printers' wives, who are always noted for admiration!—Wilmington Commercial.

Don't.—Don't get tipsy, don't smoke immoderately, or in the ladies' faces; don't quarrel with your friends; don't fancy yourself the nicest man in Christendom; don't despise the poor; don't condemn any body unheard; don't strike a man beyond your reach; and don't pay particular attention to more than one lady.

MANSION HOUSE.

CAMDEN, S. C.

THE subscriber respectfully announces to his friends and the TRAVELLING PUBLIC generally, that he has opened, as a HOTEL, that large and commodious house in Log Town, formerly the private residence of B. Perkins, esq.

The building is admirably adapted for that purpose, being situated in the most healthy and pleasant part of Camden, combining all the advantages of the town with the balmy atmosphere of the country, and within a few minutes' walk of any part of Camden. The rooms are large and airy, his Servants respectful and attentive, and he pledges himself to spare no pains in keeping up an attractive and well supplied TABLE, and to use every exertion to please those who may call upon him.

His STABLES will be found commodious, and always fully supplied with Provender.

The House being conducted on Temperance Principles, he flatters himself that those who favor him with a call will find the MANSION HOUSE not only the comforts and attention of a well regulated Hotel, but the quiet retirement of a Home.

Charges moderate.

All the Stages arriving in the place, and the Omnibuses running to the Depot, will call at the House when desired.
