We learn that a soldier named Metts, was hanged at Frog Level yesterday, for desertion.

We have been requested to state that subscribers to the Columbia South Carolinian, whose terms of subscription have not expired, will by presenting their receipts to Mr. Kinard, at the post office, have the paper continued.

On their Way.

We learn that a large body of men, seven or eight thousand in number, passed through Laurens one day last week, on the way to their old commander, Gen. Johnson.

The "Intelligencer."

Among our exchanges we notice with pleasure this excellent weekly, published and edited at Anderson, by Messrs. Hoyt & Humphreys.

Greenville & Columbia R. R.

Preparations are now being rapidly made to repair the damage on this road, and from what we learn it will soon be in running order to Alston.

Gut of Joint.

The weather, as well as the times, is out of joint. Now that rain has ceased to fall, we have a continued cold spell, almost unseasonable in its duration.

As we believe it.

On Sunday last our town was full of rumors, gaining additional volume on Sunday, of victories over Sherman, but we have no official confirmation of them. The people were in such fine spirits, that all the rumors bore a cheerful character.

Since the above a soldier, who was in the first of the 22d Regt., reports that Gen. Johnson attacked the enemy, inflicting a severe loss, 15000 in prisoners, and 72 pieces of artillery.

Reports of two previous fights are confirmed.

Death of Cadet T. A. Johnson.

We regret to record the death of this noble youth, who departed this life, at Spartanburg, on the 28th inst., of brain fever.

An hour before the corpse arrived, his father received a letter written by the deceased a few days before he was taken sick. The letter was cheerful in tone—describing the march of the boys and expressing hopes of soon again meeting kind, familiar faces.

"In the midst of life we are in death." But "Earth has no sorrow that heaven cannot heal."

Central Association. We learn with pleasure that this benevolent Association, under the same efficient management, is located at Chester.

We learn that a paroled prisoner, from Elmira prison, New York, died at the Newberry Depot last Saturday night. He was from Macon Co., Ala. His parole was as follows: Private M. D. McQueen, Co. H., 29th Ala., Reg. Infantry.

From the United States.

The following summary is from the Richmond Sentinel of 14th: U.S. papers as late as the 11th received. They are without information from Sherman, but hear reports that he was within forty miles of Raleigh. That Kinston had been evacuated, &c.

Quiet continues among Grant's bullies, owing to heavy rains. Troops are being daily drilled. The American has a report that Sheridan has captured Lynchburg. A glowing account is given of a late tobacco stealing raid to Fredericksburg, capturing four hundred prisoners.

Gen. Whiting, wounded and captured at Fort Fisher, died at Governors Island, New York, on the 10th.

New Orleans and Mexico.

The New Orleans Bee, of the 26th ult., publishes a private letter from Manzanera, dated January 30th, stating that up to this time the Mexican and Confederate armies have been simply polite and friendly.

After dinner the Confederate flag was raised, and the Mexican General and his staff removed their caps and saluted it, the former making a speech, in which he said the Confederacy would soon be recognized.

The importance of this affair consists mainly in the fact that Gen. Whitt is Commander-in-Chief of the Mexican armies, and is therefore, the next personage to the Emperor.

From California.

The last steamer from Mazatlan brought in twenty bales of cotton grown in Sinaloa by Americans. The cotton culture is attracting great attention in that State.

From Hong Kong we hear of the purchase of eighty thousand pounds of cotton, one half of which is to be shipped direct to New York, and the remainder to San Francisco.

The late snow storms have been heavier and more extensive than those for many years.

A South American Report.

The Panama Mercantile Chronicle of February 13th, has a report that the mission of General Sickles is to procure from the Columbian Government a concession of lands on which to form a settlement of thirty thousand of the negroes emancipated by the great reunion war.

State of South Carolina.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

SPARTANBURG, C. H., 27th February, 1865.

To the People of South Carolina:

THE intelligence of the fall of Columbia has reached you. It was defeated by the few troops who had been sent there, as long and as well as it could be, against the overwhelming numbers marshalled for its destruction.

With a spirit which was anticipated, the enemy lavished their wrath upon that city. With no soldiers in the streets to oppose their entrance; with a defenceless and unarmed population, chiefly of women and children, the only persons whom they met, their hate was exhibited in the wanton destruction of the greater portion of the public and private buildings which adorned the Capital.

It is not necessary that I should call upon the population of South Carolina now to arouse themselves. The enemy, in language more potent than I could command, have told them what will be their fate, unless that enemy is checked.

Do I summon the people of South Carolina now to a high, a solemn duty. The wrath of the enemy was not confined to the public offices and the private dwellings of the inhabitants of Columbia. It was high enough to provoke the vengeance of the brave and the good. It sunk to the lowest point of degradation, when it was exhibited in taking from the unarmed and helpless population of that city their limited means of subsistence.

In the streets of the Capital of your State are now thousands of your fellow citizens without shelter and without subsistence. They need food. Alas! I fall upon you to assist me in relieving that population from the pressing want with which they are afflicted.

If to you they were strangers, I could appeal with confidence; if to you they were foes, their suffering would disarm you. Your humanity would not desert you. But they are not strangers; they are your fellow-citizens.

Give what you can afford to give, and what you cannot afford to give, if you have funds, or are a merchant, send directly to the Mayor of that city. If you cannot send, address the Special Agent appointed for this purpose, and he will forward it to its destination.

The superintendence of this great public offering—the gathering of supplies, and the transportation of them to Columbia—I have confided to the care of Major JULIAN MITCHELL. Write to him at Asheville, or at Newberry, and your communications, if directed to either place, will reach him. If more convenient, you may communicate with the Hon. R. G. McCAUL, Lieutenant Governor of the State, at Yorkville, Col. W. H. Trescott at Pendleton, Col. J. P. Bovee at Greenville, Col. L. J. Jones at Newberry, Col. T. N. Hawkins at Union, Col. R. M. G. Duval at Adelphi.

I should feel that great wrong had been done to your affection for those who are your fellow-citizens;—to your humanity for those who are your fellow-men;—when you knew that they hungered, it could need remonstrance or entreaty to induce you to give them sustenance. They are destitute—they are in want—they need food; give what you can, sell what you cannot give. Let your success be promptly offered, to such suffering will not brook delay. I commend the matter to you as one worthy of that response which to those who suffer should come from you who are men and brethren.

By the Governor: A. G. MAGRATH.

Official: W. S. FLETT, Private Secretary. March 18, 1865.
