

With this issue of the ORANGEBURG NEWS & TIMES, I cease to be its editor. Hoping that, in the hands of my successor, the paper may continue to be as profitable to its stockholders, and more acceptable to its numerous readers, I retire.

Envious People.

It may be admitted the feeling of envy does not arise from pure malice. It is not direct enmity which is gratified or disappointed when a man is pleased at the evil, or mortified at the good, which befalls one who has injured him. But the root of it is inordinate love of all worldly things whatever—from money and reputation to appearance and sensual gratifications.

It is evident that as there are degrees of all these, the same person—the same man or woman—will be rich or poor, respectable or inconsiderable, comely or ill-favored, according as those with whom he or she is compared, possess more or less of the desired advantage. This being the case, as long as these things are unduly valued, the man who so values them will be pained by seeing others possess them in a greater measure, because he will himself thereby sink lower in the scale, and this accounts for a discrimination which the passions of envy makes in the object on which it fixes. Men envy more those who are only a little above them, than those who are very much higher; those of their own age or profession more than those of another, though a more eligible one. For, as we more regret an advantage which we have been near attaining, than one which never came within our reach; so, when there arise above us those who were once below, or only equal to us, we feel more envy than we do at the advancement of persons who always moved in a higher sphere, and never called our passions into exercise.

How Gossip Increases.

How gossip increases and grows till it gets into genuine scandal, and is entirely different from the original story, is told by a London letter writer.

He says that he was told, if he ever took a house in a terrace a little way out of town, to be very careful that it was the centre one, at least if he had any regard for his reputation. For one must be well aware that a story never loses by telling, and, consequently, if he lived in the middle of a row of houses it was very clear that the tales which might be circulated to his prejudice would only have half the distance to travel on either side of him, and therefore could only be half as bad by the time they got down to the bottom of the terrace as the tales that might be circulated of the wretched individuals who had the misfortune to live at either end of it; so that he would be certain to have twice as good a character in the neighborhood as they had.

As an illustration of this, he was informed of a lamentable case that actually occurred a short time since. The servant of No. 1 told the servant at No. 2 that her mistress expected his old friends, the Bayleys, to pay him a visit shortly; and No. 2 told No. 3 that that No. 1 expected to have the Bayleys in the house every day; and No. 3 told No. 4 that it was all up with No. 1, for they couldn't keep the babies out. Whereupon No. 4 told No. 5 that the officers were after No. 1, and that it was as much as he could do to prevent himself being taken in execution, and that it was nearly killing his poor dear wife; and so it went on increasing, until it got to No. 32, who confidently assured the last house, No. 33, that the officer had taken up the gentleman who lived at No. 1 for killing his poor dear wife with arsenic, and that it was hoped and expected that he would be executed.

Mary Ann Ambrose, who marched in her brother's skull with a grubbing hoe, near Cheraw last week, has been arrested.

BAMBERG, Aug 17, 1875.
Officers and Members
Orange B. B. C.:

GENTLEMEN—
Yours of the 11th inst., challenging our first nine for a single game base ball, received and noted. Owing to a previous engagement with Eliwans of Charleston, and others, and also that the season is so near out, it will be impossible for us to accept your challenge. However, after we have fulfilled our engagements and there is any of the season left, will devote it to you.

Respectfully, &c.,
J. D. COPELAND,
Secretary.

By order Crescent B. B. C.
We are asked to remark in connection with the above, that in none of the games played by these two clubs, have the "Orange" used over five of their first nine, as they now have their full nine we hope the Crescents will give them a meeting, if circumstances will permit.

[COMMUNICATED.]
Mr. Editor:

Please say that I am not a candidate for the Warden's office, and withdraw my name from the ticket.
Yours
J. GEO. VOSE.

The Cordial Balm of Syricum and Tonic Pills.
NERVOUS DEBILITY,
However obscure the cause may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting, as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of
NERVOUS PROSTRATION,
Is characterized by a general languor or weakness of the whole organism, especially of the nervous system, obstructing and preventing the ordinary functions of nature; hence there is a disordered state of the secretions; constipation, scanty and high-colored urine, with an excess of earthy or lime sediment, indicative of waste of brain and nerve substance, frequent palpitations of the heart, loss of memory and marked irresolution of purpose, and inability to carry into action any well-defined business enterprise, or to fix the mind upon any one thing at a time. There is great sensitiveness to impress, though retained but a short time, with a flickering and fluttering condition of the mental faculties, rendering an individual what is commonly called a "whiffle-minded or fickle-minded man."
This condition of the individual, distressing as it is, may with a certainty be cured by THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND LOTHROP'S TONIC PILLS,
Medicines unrivaled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Nodes, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever, Sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-head, Barbers' Itch, Scoury, Salt Rheum, Copper-Colored Blotches, Glandular Swellings, Worms and Black Spots in the Flesh, Discolorations, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and Sores of every character, because these medicines are the very best
