TOWN COUNCIL. This body meets every second Tuesday after the first Monday of each month, for the transaction of regular business.

RAILROAD SCHEDULE. Up Day Train 9:55 A. M. Down Day Train 7:30 P. M. Up Night Train 2:30 A. M. Down Night Train 11:53 P. M.

LOCAL. THAT'S A LOT OF BREAD. Don't forget the NEWS & TIMES will be given free for one year to the lady who sends the best loaf of home made bread to the next fair.

FIELD WORK. If you want to see it watch the Post Master who has been by him self lately, it reminds you of when you saw a spider WEB-STIR about in a sharp breeze.

DOMESTIC MONTHLY. The October number of this "Journal of Fashion" has reached us, gotten up in the usual fine style, and filled with plates, cuts and reading matter that all will find interesting.

FAREWELL. Some army headed, old sober sided citizen, asks us to print this single line from old Shakspeare: "We don't know that it has any local significance, but don't any how."

A NEW WRINKLE. Our friend Fischer, who keeps the grocery at our corner, has a molasses gate in the head of his ham tierce, and has been working faithfully to draw them off for at least one week past, but they don't run freely.

ANGELIC CHANGE. We see cripple Henry is advancing the Court House rapidly, but we hear a rumor that the front is to be changed again. All right gentlemen, we suggest you front it straight upward this time.

TO BE SOLD. Read Capt. Mortimer Glover's notices of fine real, estate and sundry articles of furniture for sale. The residence is large and comfortable, and quite near the business centre of the town, the other lots are equally as well situated.

WILD CAT. We saw one, killed by Mr. Hayno Joiner, the other day, that would have been an ugly customer for either man or dog to tackle. He measured 3 feet 2 inches from nose to tail, and stood 18 inches high. It is about as large as one as we have ever seen.

COOTER. We have heard of parties having bricks in their hats, but T. Kohn & Bro. have some hats that carry cooters in them, and there is a story afloat, that one of our old merchants tried his best to knock one out, into a tumbler of water the other day, but the darned thing stuck fast, and would not come out worth a cent. Go and ask Kohn to let you see them.

GUS FISCHER. Is perfectly irrepresable, he has opened that fish, oyster and other "fish" department, here in his store, again, see for yourselves.

MRS. C. S. MAULE. Advertisers a full line of new bonnets, feathers, flowers, ruffling &c., in fact all of the nice things that ladies like so well to look at, and to buy. Call at her new stand, and examine them.

BIG TURNIPS. Our thanks are due Senator Andrews, for a large bunch of the finest Turnips by far, that we have seen this year, measuring over twelve inches in diameter, they are of the flat dutch, and amber globe varieties.

SOUTHERN CULTIVATOR. This good old Georgia Magazine pays us its regular monthly visit, filled as usual with its excellent hints and suggestions to the farmer. We cannot stop to name them here, but every farmer can spare two dollars, and should send for it.

COURT HOUSE. We see that the work has begun "well," if you doubt it, go to the end of the ditch near the post office, and ask the post master to show you where the "well" is, the rumor is that they are getting up a "corner" on that "well" so go soon.

KIRK ROBINSON. See his advertisement, full stock of stationary, books, music &c., lamps and fixtures, the "Watt" plow, and all sorts of things. He will insure anything from a first class building, down to the fact, that "if you don't take care of your business, you will soon have none to take care of."

A HANDSOME BUILDING. The block of brick stores just completed for Mrs. Oliveros, by Mr. Harpin Riggs. The building is the most imposing one in the Town, and is certainly an ornament to it, and the builder deserves great credit for the handsome manner in which his contract has been carried out.

I DIDN'T ASK IT. "Follow citizens, you must preserve order," I have been elected judge of the first circuit from this Town and it becomes a part of my duty to preserve order, I did not want the office, and did not ask it, but by your unsolicited votes I have been placed in this position, confound you all go home, or I'll come down and mash your, git.

W. R. BULL ESQ. This old and esteemed citizen, on Monday last, passed quietly and painlessly away, from the troubles which had beset his later life, caused by the war and its consequences. Mr. Bull was a native Carolinian, and of a family that has from the earliest history of our county, furnished many of the bright intellects, that have built it up into its present greatness, genial, kind hearted, and energetic, many will miss him from among us. He leaves a large family behind, to whom we would tender our sincere sympathy, in their bereavement.

COME OUT OF THAT BUS. We don't know, but "they say so" that a certain gentleman, recently elected to an office, happened to be at the Depot a few nights ago, in Baxter's "Bus" and the crowd here finding it out, yelled "speech, speech," the party thus complimented sat in the "Bus" and tried to say something, but the outsiders "couldn't see it" and made him mount the top of the aforesaid "Bus," from which he delivered a most touching address, everybody liked him before, but that speech bound them to him for life. We are not responsible for the above, and are prepared to give the author's name, but if any man don't like the map who made the speech he can call on us, we have engaged the "fightest" of the town to respond.

SCHOOL NOTICE. See notice of the opening of Mrs. Eleanor Bull's public school, it supplies a want in that section of the Town.

CHARLESTON ILLUSTRATED. We received some days since, from Messers Walker Evans & Cogswell of Charleston a number of copies of this work, to be distributed among the merchants of our Town. The book itself is a treasure to any South Carolinian, reviving and perpetuating the ancient history of the good old "city by the sea," and tracing her gradual, but sure advance from the old "Oyster Point town" of 1677 to the grand, historic, "Charleston" of to-day, long live the dear old city, and all honor to the enterprise of the publishers that give her history to the world.

TRIAL JUSTICE NOTES. Cyclones have swept around, and upon us, the fearful whirlwind, the terrific blaze of the lightning flash, the awful muttering, and startling peals of the dread thunder, the torrid, parching, drought, the appalling want of geenbacks, the exhausted credit, the earthquake shock, and the ocean storm, all in turn have visited our fair land with unusual violence, during the past summer, and still, despite all of this monstrous conflict between Heaven and Earth, those awful and solemn warnings, some fellow will break into his neighbors patch, and steal his watermelons or a peck of corn.

The October Number of the Republic Magazine is filled with rich political material. No public speaker, or citizen, who aspires to political distinction, can afford to be without this sterling monthly. "The Union perpetual," "Democratic Rule in Georgia," "A Manufacturing South," "What Democracy has cost the South," "Papal Assault on the Common Schools," "Finance and Politics," "Carpenter-Baggers, North and South," "High and Low Tariffs," "The Republican Party and Workingmen," "The Georgia Panic—its cause," "The Free South—Order of Emancipation," and other timely articles, make the October number one of the best yet issued. The Republic is only $2.00 a year. Address Republic Publishing Company, Washington, D. C.

CAT AND DOG. Two gentlemen of the legal fraternity, while discussing, the other day the point to which the animal instinct extended, or where reason might begin, told two stories that should be written in letters of gold and a purse of twenty pieces given to each. I knew a dog (said the first) who regularly attended his master to church, taking a seat just in front of the pulpit, and as the preacher would raise his voice in eloquent strains, or sink it to the soft, and melting, pathetic tones, the dog would either bark his approval, or applaud with his tail upon the floor, when the feelings were not appealed to the dog was perfectly quiet. I can well believe that said the other, for we once owned a cat, that showed equal instinct or reason, a member of the family attempted to learn the violin, puss who as usual always made her bed on the hearth rug, as the first stroke of that bow fell upon her ears, sprang to her feet, distended her tail, and rushed from the room, nor would she return until the exercises were over, ever after as soon as that violin case was brought out, the cat would get up at once, and with a look of the most supreme contempt, walk quietly out of the room, she even forbade the performer to make friends with her, and evidently had lost all respect for him.
