RAILROAD SCHEDULE.

Up Day Train..... 9:55 A. M. Down Day Train..... 7:30 P. M. Up Night Train..... 2:20 A. M. Down Night Train..... 11:55 P. M. Office hours 8 to 2 and 3 to 6.

LOCAL.

We will publish in our next issue a list of the deposits made in the corner stone of the new court house.

The eldest son of Mr. W. E. Williams died yesterday evening. The afflicted family have our sympathies.

We never read the Abbeville Medium without thinking of Hemp-hill.

Several cases for selling liquor without license have been tried in the county recently.

The street in front of the Court House Square is gradually being packed, and will shortly become hard and firm.

The News and Courier will be enlarged on the first day of January next. It is a lively paper and we wish it every success.

Our citizens should be careful in buying fish from every Tom, Dick and Harry. Many a rotten one is offered for sale here.

The Court House Square would be a grand place just now to have a battle with brick-bats. Mr. Livingston has a quantity of them there that he has no use for.

ERRATA—The word "moun" should read mourn, in the poetry printed on the first page of this paper, entitled "Nix Desperandum."

A person burglariously inclined attempted to break into Wallace Cannon's store on Thursday night last. He was caught while in the act, and is now in jail.

The Abbeville Medium praises the News and Courier, and thus secures for itself a reprint. Business, but on a small scale. Even the Horryble News holds itself above such a practice.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup should be kept in every family. A slight cough, if unchecked, is often the forerunner of Consumption, and a timely dose of this wonderful machine has rescued many from an early grave.

A little boy named Adly Austin, fell from the fence enclosing the Baptist Church lot on yesterday, and broke his arm just above the wrist. Dr. M. G. Salley was called to the little fellow, and gave his arm the proper attention.

It is said that Pharaoh confessed his sin through fright, Judas through remorse, and Balaam, the betrayer of God's people, through deceit. Suppose some of our modern Judases were to confess their sins, what would it be through?

SENATOR ANDREWS—

This gentleman left here on Monday last for Columbia, where he will remain until the Legislature adjourns. Senator Andrews is a hard working representative, and we hope to record many good things of him during the present session.

Our valiant confere of the Walterboro News, does not write with that vim and pungency which distinguished his editorials before he turned his back upon single blessedness. Shall we attribute his want of strength to Hyman? Omnia vincit amor.

A frightful accident occurred on the night of the 17 inst, on the Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta Railroad. The engine of one train tele-scoped into the ladies car of the train preceding it, and made a frightful havoc of human flesh.

We extend the congratulations of the News and Times to Mr. Wm. Sain upon the acquisition made to his family in the birth of him of a bright, adorable little daughter.

Our worthy Mayor has inaugurated a new system in Orangeburg. He has what is called now a chain gang, and has the prisoners from the Jail hard at work on the streets.

The Greenville Daily News is a queer paper. It watches its Democratic contemporaries like some ill-omened bird with sepulchral notes, and when they leave an opening for attack, pounces upon them with as little remorse of conscience as one would experience for shooting a mad dog.

The News and Courier advocates that South Carolina be represented at the Centennial. Our contemporary is on the right track this time, and if its church does not interfere with its calculations, we may look forward to the columns of the News and Courier for a lively description of the one hundredth Anniversary of the Declaration of American Independence.

We regret to announce that Mr. Thos. Alexander breathed his last, at his home in this place, on Tuesday evening of this week. His closing hours evinced that calm resignation to the will of God which characterizes only the death bed of those who can look beyond, and feel that in death they are only exchanging the corruptible for the incorruptible, the mortal for the immortal.

We are pleased to announce that Mr. C. D. Blume, who has been confined to his room in this place by a severe spell of sickness, is on the mend. His friends indulge the hope that he will soon be all right and in the enjoyment of his wonted health.

Mr. John H. Livingston has the contract for bricking in the immense store of Geo. H. Cornelson. Mr. C. designs making this improvement upon his property not only to protect it from fire, but to keep abreast also with the progressive spirit of Orangeburg.

Senator Cochran, of Anderson, has written a long letter to several Republican members of the Legislature, suggesting various reform measures, which he urges the General Assembly to adopt.

J. WALLACE CANNON—

This gentleman is still upon the land of the living, and although Mrs. Grundy insists that he should get married, and quit running about to camp meetings, he remains unchanged in his devotion to single blessedness. Right, friend. Keep those shining locks of yours from the clutches of a scolding wife; continue to supply the wants of your numerous customers; sell them dry goods, groceries, tobacco, cigars and liquors, as you always have done, at living prices, and the whole county will bless you. But let us stop. We only meant to say that Wallace Cannon's store is the place to spend money and get value received. Bill Sain is there and is as smiling as a basket of chips.

Some of our staid and sober minded readers object to what they are pleased to denominate as levity in our local columns. Well, all we have to say is, that there are others who do not like to receive weekly hashes of sour and eccentric localities. We have some subscribers who relish jokes, and as it is our desire to please all parties, we shall continue to make our friends alternate between smiles and scowls.

The omnibus has changed hands, and will hereafter be run by that go-ahead merchant and Alderman J. Wallace Cannon. It will leave his store every morning at 11:30 for the down train, and every afternoon at 1:30 for the train going to Columbia.

On Wednesday morning last while conversing with several gentlemen who were reviewing Mayor Boliver's "chain gang," the sudden cracking of a whip, accompanied by curses from a sonorous voice, attracted our attention. We turned our eyes at once in the direction of the noise, and beheld an old red cow coming up Russel street, with a bundle of fodder in her mouth, and a man behind her crying out, at the top of his breath, "Drop those blades, you confounded old hussy, you."

Two of Orangeburg's brightest larks left this place several days ago for the purpose of visiting a spot near Lewisville. After they had transacted their business, one of them suggested to the other, that they call by and see Intendant Hook, and his manner of conducting municipal affairs. The suggestion was carried out, Lewisville was visited, a few cocktails were taken, and late in the afternoon our two wanderers started for Orangeburg, as they thought, but which they really did not do.

This female made her appearance at Elliott Hall on Monday and Tuesday nights of this week, in the role of a lecturer. Prompted by curiosity we went out to hear her the first of these evenings, but were somewhat disappointed as we confidently expected that a large audience would greet one who had been so extensively advertised during the day by a bell and a red flag.

them all along with their white friends; that no nigger had ever yet dared to ride in the same car that she occupied, and that if ever one registered at the same hotel with herself, the next place he would register would be in hell!—that she had fought for compliments and she intended to have them; that if we said anything about her in any other than a complimentary manner, that she would come back here and either shoot or cowhide us.
