The county political pot is beginning to simmer perceptibly, and as the summer advances it is expected to gradually come to the boiling point.

At this time it is impossible to say who the candidates will be but there will likely be a number of changes. W. F. Stevenson intends to try for congress, and W. P. Odom will not ask for reelection as representative but will probably try for G. K. Laney's seat in the state senate. M. M. Johnson, W. L. Gibson, R. D. Marsh and Sam J. Sellers are avowed candidates for representative. J. C. Blackwell wants to take T. W. Eddins' place as county auditor. There are at least one hundred others who would like to take part in the races, but only about half of them will try.

The writer doesn't know who may have an eye on the sheriff's job and the superintendent of education's place, but he ventures the prediction that those who try to beat these two men will meet defeat. The present county officers are all good men, but there are other good men who believe the offices should be passed around, and they will ask the voters to hand the jobs to them so they may prove their metal.

This section is remarkably free from office-seeking pests, and the people may be depended upon to keep their heads and vote with common sense no matter who runs or what happens.

The people should demand that the vote seekers for the honor to represent Chesterfield county in South Carolina's august body of lawmakers tell where they stand on the various matters of public concern. Each man should be forced to give his platform and let the voters know what to expect of him.

Those who can't show good reason why they should be sent, deserve defeat. Too many candidates consider the "honor" more than the good to be accomplished. The people give the honor and pay about five dollars per day for the forty days and they should demand to know what they are to get in return. There are the questions of compulsory school attendance, the Torrens system of registering land titles and many other important questions, and each candidate for representative or senator ought to have opinions and be willing to say what they are. If a man doesn't know where he stands, show him where he ought to be.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. J. A. Mangum brought samples of vetch and crimson clover taken from a patch near his residence just north of town, and we would like for every farmer who comes to town during the next few days to come around and see these samples, and if possible go out and look at these legumes growing. The samples show the worth of seed inoculation. Mr. Mangum inoculated with Farmogerm a part of the seed before sowing and then sowed these seed side by side with the seed not inoculated on ground that is just ordinary, not very fertile and still not as poor as some. No fertilizer of any kind was used, and the inoculated vetch and clover had no advantage over the other in any way save the inoculation, a thing many farmers profess not to believe in. The vetch and clover which had no inoculation is puny, dwarfed, sickly stuff, much like a half grown kitten ready to die, and will not pay for the seed. The inoculated part of the patch is thriving wonderfully, some of the vetch measuring 22 inches, and it is refreshing to look upon. On the roots are clusters of little nodules, which are tiny fertilizer factories making the best of fertilizer and storing it in the soil for the next crop.

If you are a doubting Thomas, come and see, and thrust your hand into the soil and find these little factories for yourself.

The southern farmers must recognize the importance of these legume crops and grow their own fertilizer right on the land before the South will take her place in the agricultural world. So long as one small state the size of South Carolina spends twenty-five million dollars a year for fertilizers, there can not be the prosperity among the farmers that would be if they would study the fertilizer question and decide that half of it must be grown at home.

Mr. Mangum desires to hear from the others who sowed vetch and clover in this section last fall.

CHURCH NOTES

Baptist

J. M. Sullivan, Pastor.

How many on last Sunday thought to thank God for his sparing them to see another Easter? We as children of God are full of requests but void of gratitude. If you love God prove it by doing what He has commanded us, his people to do.

That singing at Rose Hill Sunday afternoon was fine, elevating, uplifting, soul stirring and inspiring. We ought not to think of the singing, scripture reading, prayer etc. as the "preliminaries leading up to the services, but as a part, a real part of the services.

We hope that last Sunday meant a great deal for our Home and Foreign Mission Boards. Pageland Sunday school raised $6.29. If all the schools in the bounds of our great Southern Convention did even that well it will help greatly in this time of need.

Next Sunday we hope to be at Taxahaw 11 a. m., White Plains 3:30 p. m.

Wednesday evening choir practice beginning about 8 o'clock. Sunday evening B. Y. P. U. meets: all are cordially invited to these services. Monday afternoon following the third Sunday the W. M. U. will begin their week of prayer. All the ladies are invited to be with the Society in this great work. Sunbeams will meet next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Methodist Protestant

By Jno. W. Quick, Pastor.

Card of Thanks

We the undersigned wish to thank our friends and neighbors who so kindly rendered us their assistance during our recent misfortune in the loss of our dear little girl, and we also wish to thank the Physicians for their efforts. May God bless each and every one who showed a willingness to assist.

THE "EVERY-READY" IRON

A household help that makes the day's ironing shorter and easier, saving time and strength for other things.

THE "EVER-READY" IRON means better ironing—an iron that makes its heat within itself—heats while it is working, and works while it is heating—stays continuously and evenly hot until the day's ironing is done.

No more overheating your rooms. It is not a CHARCOAL iron; No more weary steps back and forth changing irons.

The "EVER-READY" IRON is heated with a new "KARBO" especially manufactured for this purpose and guaranteed to heat from fourteen to sixteen hours—no fire, no flame, no dirt, no odor, no smoke—only heat. Highest calorific value of any known substance. Heat can be regulated to three different degrees of temperature—and one iron does all the work.

The Idea!

A shambling old negro went down the street, leading a big dog with a "For Sale" sign on its collar. A little girl spied the dog and wanted it. She teased so hard that her mother finally asked its price.

"Two dollahs," said the negro, an expectant grin dividing his features.

"Two dollahs!" exclaimed the lady. "Why, the dog isn't worth that much. I'll give you fifty cents."

The negro drew himself up indignantly. "Lady," he said, "Ah couldn't think of it. Why de fellow Ah got dis dog from gave me a dollah to get rid of him!"
