A young fellow who was an inveterate cigarette-smoker went to the country for a vacation. Reaching the small town in the early morning, he wanted a smoke, but there was no store open. He saw a boy smoking a cigarette and approached him, saying:

"Say, my boy, have you got another cigarette?"

"No, sir," said the boy; but I've got the makings."

"All right," the city chap said.

"But I can't roll them very well. Will you fix one for me?"

"Sure," said the boy.

"Don't believe I've got a match," said the man, as he searched his pockets.

The boy handed him a match.

"Say," the boy said, "you ain't got anything but the habit, have you?"—Lippincott's.

Not Up On History.

Col "Nod" Osborne, of New Haven and Yale, rarely fails to express himself vigorously and picturesquely, which is one reason, perhaps, why he is in such demand at banquets. Recently, at the Graduates' club in New Haven, one of the younger members met him with:

"Nod, I am trying to find out what Shay's rebellion was, and as a commentary on the value of a college education, I would inform you that I have asked five distinguished graduates Yale—one of them a famous authority on English—what Shay's rebellion was, and not one of them knows anything about it. Now, what do you know about it?"

"Well," said Col. Osborne, slowly. "I have a slight advantage of the other five graduates that you have interrogated. I not only don't know anything about Shay's rebellion, but I don't care a continental about it."—Metropolitan.

Daniel's Impression

They were talking about cold weather the other day in the lobby of a Washington hotel when Congressman Thomas L. Reilly, of Connecticut, told about a hard freeze that a New England hired man stacked up against.

On the occasion of a holiday, the congressman said, the hired man went out to celebrate and when he returned at dark he was happy almost to the verge of flying through the air like the little birds.

It so chanced that the children of the farmer wanted to drive their donkey to town and the hired man was asked to harness it. Off to the stable he went, where in some way the donkey had vacated his usual stall and a cow had walked in. Several minutes passed and the farmhand did not appear. The boss went to investigate.

"It does heat all," the boss overheard the farmhand saying to himself in the darkness of the stall. "Never knowed anything like it to happen before."

"Why haven't you got the donkey out, Daniel?" asked the farmer, going up close to the manger. "What seems to be the trouble?"

"Can't git the collar over his head, boss," answered Daniel, vainly fumbling with that piece of harness. "The cold weather has froze the donkey's ears."—Ex.

"It's going to be war to the knife," declared the suburban man, who was feeding his chickens.

"What now?" asked the friend. "Why Blinks sent me a box of axlegrease and advised me to use it on my lawn-mower?"

"Well?"
 "Well, I sent it back and told him to use it on his daughter's voice."—Lippincott's.

Are the original fish fertilizers

Fertilizer ammoniated with Fish-Scrap is universally admitted to be the plant food best suited to the cotton crop.

This is not a theory, but a fact proven by the experience of the world. The popularity of Royster's, the original and genuine fish fertilizer has caused a host of brands to appear with fish in their name: if you want to be sure of getting fish in the goods you buy, be sure to buy the brand that made fish-scrap famous.

If you are not already acquainted with the splendid results of ROYSTER'S fish-scrap fertilizer, we simply ask that you try it alongside any other brand and abide by the proven results.
