A Portable Boundary

A Negro trooper of the Tenth Cavalry, spick-and-span in his uniform, was walking on one side of a street in Nogales, the Arizona town that is partly in this country and partly in Mexico.

A Mexican, walking on the Mexican side, called to the trooper:

"You going to invade Mexico?"
"No, suh," the trooper replied.
"You going to fight Mexico?"
"No, suh," said the trooper.
"What you going to do?"

"Well, suh," said the trooper, pushing out his chest, "as soon as them folks up in Washington gives us orders we is just naturally goin' to take this yere border line right up in our hands and never stop with it until we has laid it down on the other side of the Panama Canal."

The attorney for a street-railroad company in a Kentucky town was examining a skinny sixteen-year-old negro boy who had sued for injuries ostensibly incurred in a collision on the highway.

"You say," he asked, "that when this street car hit that wagon you were riding on the front seat of the wagon?"

"Dat's whut I said," answered the little dorky.

"And you say the force of the blow knocked you up in the air?"

"Yas suh—way up in de air."
"Well, how long did you stay up there?" demanded the attorney.

"Not no longer dan it tuck me to git down!" answered the truthful complainant promptly.

Hibernian Wit.

An Irish farmer was asked if he used any of the commercial fertilizers on his land.

"No, sorr," he replied. "To my notion there's nothing like the old barnyard kind."

"Nonsense, man," said the other, "the time is coming when a man can carry the fertilizer for an acre of land in one of his waistcoat pockets."

"Maybe he will, sorr," returned Pat. "An he'll be able to carry the crop in the other pocket, I'm thinking."

Apropos of the war spirit Representative Helfin, of Alabama, tells of a negro who, at the time of the Spanish War, was much afraid he might be sent to Cuba to fight.

He was told that if he went to work he would not be drafted; so he got a job ditching and kept at it faithfully. One day another negro came along and called:

"Hey, Jim we-all mus' go to war."

"Not me," said the ditcher, bending to his work.

"Yes, suh—you an' me an' all de res" It's up on them bullikin boards that we-all mus' go to war."

"Not me," persisted the ditcher. "Ise got my work to do."

"But th' Maine's done bin blowed up!"

"I don' care if de mane an' de tail too is blowed up—Ise not goin'!"
