The rules of the Democratic party in South Carolina require that every man who votes in the August primary this year shall write his full name upon the club roll of his voting precinct not later than the 28th day of July. The books have been open since the 9th day of June. We are not saying whether this is right or wrong, but we are still giving you notice of the requirements. Remember that Tuesday, July 28th is your last chance. If you want to vote, enroll.

We received a copy of the Lincoln Times, published at Lincolnton, N. C., last week and in the pages of this excellent booster edition we found a whole page headed, "Goodson Brothers," and on this page we saw a picture of their store building, one of G. B. Goodson and one of C. L. Goodson and many interesting statements about the firm and the two brothers who compose it. Charlie's picture looked as if he had just been chased by a bull dog, but this look was probably caused by the excitement of strange surroundings and the experience of facing the camera while the man made the exposure.

An article in another column written by Mr. Coker of Hartsville is timely, and we hope our farmer readers will read it and think over the things he says in regard to pulling fodder. Fodder is a busy time with other farm work. Mr. Coker stresses the loss to the corn but stops before saying anything about the cost of labor. Fodder usually costs about what it is worth to get it into the barn, and we have the great loss of corn thrown in for good measure.

It is far better to grow hay and let the fodder alone. Yes, you need it for feed, but you can have good peavine hay just as cheap, and then you will have at least twenty per cent more corn. Prepare now to substitute hay for fodder. If you are not yet convinced of the wisdom of this course, by all means make an experiment on your own farm this year by leaving an acre or too with the fodder on. Then measure the corn from an acre where the fodder was pulled and convince yourself that fodder pulling is worse than doing nothing.

Below is one of the reports of a dance in Paris last week, and we pass it on to you without comment:

"A notable feature of the affair was the latest Parisian craze for filmy tulle skirts with charmeuse tunics. A number of the dancers wore these gowns, whose transparency reveals hose of spider web texture of darker hue than the skirt to make them stand out in relief. The general result is to give a much more undraped effect than if the wearers appeared in uncovered silk fleshings, and when under the big chandelier the entire figure was revealed in perfect outline from throat to foot.

"Quite a number of men sat around the ballroom admiring the women's figures instead of going outside for cooling beverages.

"The women were either pleased with such marked attention or were unconscious of the way their charms were being discussed as they floated past in diaphanous draperies."

Marriage and Other News Notes from Dudley

Mr. W. E. Funderburk, of Monroe, N. C., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Funderburk, and attended church here Sunday.

The Baraca and Philathia classes were pleasantly entertained at the home of Mr. F. B. Funderburk Saturday night, ice cream and cake being served as refreshments.

The three mission study classes, like which have been organized in a number of the churches over the association, finished the fourth chapter Sunday. One of the sections of the class considered it a privilege to have Rev. B. S. Funderburk meet with them and tell of his personal experience in work of this character.

The B. Y. P. U. has for some time been reorganized. The membership is small, but all seem to be interested. They had the pleasure of listening to an interesting talk by the pastor Sunday night.

The Dudley Sunday school has revived considerable interest in its work by adding The Baptist Teacher, Kind Words and Baptist Boys and Girls to the regularly used literature.

Miss Alice Threath, of Oklahoma City, is visiting friends and relatives in this community.

To the very pleasant surprise of friends in this community Miss Nannie Jones, of Cross Hill, former teacher of the Dudley school, returned Sunday evening to again live in our midst the happy bride of Mr. Bethel Plyler. A number of friends and relatives were invited to await the arrival of the happy couple. They then enjoyed a bountiful supper. Mrs. Edna V. Funderburk was among the number from here who were present at the marriage at the bride's home at Cross Hill, which took place about noon. They will make their home in this community and their many friends wish them a prosperous voyage over the matrimonial sea.

CHURCH NOTES

Methodist Protestant

By. Jno. W. Quick, Pastor

Sunday was a good day for us. Good congregation, very attentive. Thank you all.

Remember the services next Sunday. Sunday school at 10 o'clock and preaching at 11.

Baptist

J. M. Sullivan, Pastor.

Last Sunday was a good day for us at Pageland. Bro. B. C. Ashcraft, of Monroe gave us one of the best lectures on "The Touch of a Friendly hand," we have been privileged to hear in a time. It was so good, so simple a child could understand and yet so practical and purely religious. May God bless the message to the good of each and every heart present. We long to have Bro. Ashcraft come again.

"Then saith he unto his disciples, the harvest truly is plentiful, but the laborers are few; Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth laborers into his harvest," Matt. 9:37 8. Would it not be a good thing and well pleasing in His sight for us to obey the above?

There are many things we are not quiet sure about when it comes to praying, but in this we are sure our Lord said "Pray ye," to whom? Lord (owner) of the harvest, that He will send them.

Men are today, in view of the lack of more young men to enter the ministry, giving this reason and the other reason for young men not giving their lives to the service of our Christ. But the key to the whole situation is that we as Christians are failing to do just what God said for us to do.

Let us try the Lord of the harvest and see if he will not send us young men until there shall not be room in our colleges and seminaries to accommodate them.

"The Jesus way" is the best way not only for ourselves but in all things pertaining to the church and kingdom. Not only do we need more and better preachers but we need consecrated laymen, who are ready and willing to enter the fields that are already ripe to harvest. Jesus is calling, will you respond by saying, "here am I, send me?"

Next Sunday Taxahaw 11 a. m. White Plains 3:30 p. m. Choir practice Pageland Wednesday evening 8:30.

Who Is W. F. Stevenson

Mr. W. F. Stevenson, who is running for congress in this district, has been engaged in some great litigation. He was employed by the attorney general to assist in the prosecution of the dispensary grafters. We will refer to only one of the great trials of that series. This was held at Chester. Solicitor Henry was sick, but Mr. McLure acted for him, with credit to himself and to the entire satisfaction of the attorney general. Mr. B. L. Abney was also for the State. The defense presented a brilliant array of counsel: Weston & Aycock, R. H. Welch, M. P. Howell, A. L. Gaston, John M. Wise and Nelson, Nelson & Gettys. Mr. W. O. Guy was foreman of the jury and J. M. Wilson, J. W. Taylor, John Estes, Alex. Fraser, F. M. Hough, W. H. Caldwell, J. N. Calvin and J. W. Suitman were the jury.

It had been affirmed that they would not convict on the evidence of the co-conspirators. They should be enrolled on the roll of honor. No such plea controlled them. The trial lasted a week. The case was ably argued on all sides. Mr. Stevenson closed for the State and his argument has been more talked of than any other he has ever made. But merely because of the occasion and result Mr. Black was convicted, and subsequently pardoned. The correspondent of the News & Courier said of the argument: "Attorney Stevenson made what has been commented on as probably the most powerful address heard in the court house here in years. Sharp, keen, incisive, crowding a world of facts into a small compass and marshaling them with wonderful generalship, adhering to the issue and exposing the guilt."

The Chester Reporter said: "There were some magnificent speeches in the graft cases last week, but the public is agreed that it was the intensely forceful speech of Mr. Stevenson, perhaps more than any other, that made the conviction of Black possible. Mr. Stevenson rehearsed the evidence item by item. There was not a piece or parcel missing. His irony went true to the mark and laid bare the rottenness."

Isn't there rottenness to be exposed in Washington? Do we want ability there? (Advertisement)
