Twenty-three applicants stood the rural mail carrier's examination at Chesterfield Saturday. This examination was to fill the vacancy here caused by the established of a new route and to form a county register from which other vacancies in the county will be filled.

The following gentlemen have been appointed commissioners of election for Chesterfield county: Federal, S. T. A. McManus, E. G. Ingram, both of Cheram, Dr. A. A. McManus of McBee; State, A. W. Hursey and B. C. Moore of Chesterfield, William Riser of Pageland.

Today is the last day the carrier on Jefferson route one will come to Pageland, and that means that The Journal will get to its readers a day late on part of that route, at Jefferson, on all the other Jefferson routes and at Taxahaw and on the Taxahaw routes. Route three from Pageland starts tomorrow, and it cuts off the Jefferson route at Fork Creek bridge.

The work on Ruby's new five thousand-dollar school building is moving along nicely, and Contractor Latta, of Camden, thinks he can complete the job in about 30 days more. The building is brick veneer and is large enough to accommodate several hundred children. There has been some difficulty in placing the bonds, and the upper story of the building will not be completed at this time. The building is located a few hundred yards west of the depot. Rev. Mr. Sutton has been elected principal.

Mr. J. Sidney Smith, of Ruby, declares that he jumped from the top of a load of hay over on the hames of one of his mules last Thursday when he saw a large moccasin just a few inches from him on the hay. He had just seated himself on the big load of hay he was hauling from near the bank of a creek about noon, and he was hot and tired and in no mood to look complacently at a large reptile so near. His tired feeling left him immediately however and he felt obliged to take more exercise before dinner. This he began by jumping, as above stated, and kicking about a cart load of hay off the wagon as he jumped. The snake went off with the hay and crawled back into the lake as if angered at missing a ride on the hay. Neither Mr. Smith nor the mule was hurt and the former had collected his faculties sufficiently by Saturday to relate the circumstance and smile.

Mr. J. E. Agerton has been appointed temporary carrier on the new route to be started from the office here tomorrow.

Mr. H. N. Askins has purchased an interest in the Carolina Supply company and will become manager of that firm about October 1st. He purchased the stock belonging to Mr. A. F. Funderburk and Mr. W. F. Masten, of Charlotte. Mr. Askins' successor as manager of the Pageland Insurance & Realty company has not been elected. Mr. Funderburk says he will become a retired capitalist.

Mr. George Myers has sold $79.75 worth of pigs since August 1, 1913, and has meat for this year and pigs to keep over for next year. All these pigs were raised by one sow and one of the pigs raised since the above date. He still has the sow, and Mr. J. L. Covington estimates the meat he has raised to be worth about as much as the hogs have cost him during the 14 months. How does that compare with profits on 7 and 8 cent cotton?

Auditor T. W. Eddins and Miss Nezzie Cason were married at the bride's home in Lakeland, Fla., last Thursday evening at 8:30, and arrived in Chesterfield late Friday night. Mr. Eddins is the popular auditor of Chesterfield county, and is one of the most highly respected citizens of the county. When Times Were Hard.

"It is true," said Mr. S. S. Richardson, that we had five cents cotton a few years ago, but a pound of cotton would then buy a pound of meat, and everything else was cheap in proportion. But now a pound of cotton will not buy much of anything, in fact it would take two pounds to buy one pound of meat. But the hardest time we have ever seen was during the war. I was eight years old when the war broke out, and for four years we did without things in such a way that would be a lesson in these times of extravagance. We made our own hats, clothes, shoes and about everything else we had. In fact, we had to make the lasts on which the shoes were made. We tanned hides in troughs made from large pine trees, and we even made buttons out of the leather. My father went to Virginia with a four horse wagon to get salt for the neighborhood, and as for sugar and coffee, we simply did without. But we did have plenty to eat. In this section we made all the food crops that we needed."—Monroe Journal.

"Strange," said the first tramp meditatively, "how few of our youthful dreams ever come true!"
