The industrial edition of the Columbia State published Saturday contained 88 pages of very readable matter about South Carolina and her industries. The entire edition was printed in Columbia. We couldn't take time to read it all, but we were pleased with what we did read.

We don't believe a law to force farmers to reduce acreage next year would be constitutional, but we do not care how many such laws are passed. A good many could be scared enough by the passage of such laws to cause them to reduce before the slow-moving courts would get to the law to declare it constitutional or unconstitutional.

Murders in Chesterfield county are too frequent, and there must be a cause. Human life has become cheap, and there is little fear of punishment. Twenty-six inquests have been held since June 1912, and during this time there has been one death sentence imposed.

There must be something wrong with the system of justice. A public sentiment against crime and a rigid enforcement of the law are needed.

The entertainments and shows that have been given in Pageland have been of a cheap nature and as a rule there has been nothing elevating in the amusements furnished us. Realizing this and also the need for some real first class entertainments we have entered into an agreement last spring with the Alkahest Lyceum system, of Atlanta, guaranteeing them the necessary amount to secure four high-class entertainments for this season, these attractions to be given one a month, beginning next Monday night. These citizens have made the admission very low, much lower, in fact, than most entertainments of this class. The people should show their appreciation of this move by attending at least the first attraction. Then they can pass judgement upon the course.

Twenty-Third Sob.

The Ford is my auto. I shall not want. It maketh me to lie down under it in green pastures; It leadeth me into much trouble and draweth on my purse. I go into the shadow of death for its sake; yea, though I feel much evil for the radius rod on the axle might break. It has a blow-out in the presence of mine enemies. I anointed its cylinders with oil. The radiator boileth over. Surely this thing will not follow me thru life or I will dwell in the house of the poor forever. I equippeth my Ford with a cuckoo clock and when it reacheth the speed of 20 miles per hour, the bird cometh out and singeth, "Nearer My God to Thee."—Ex.

The Cradle of the Deep

The steamer rolled and pitched in the mountainous waves, and Algy was very seasick. "Death boy," he groaned, "promise me you will send my remains to my people." An hour passed. "Death boy," feebly moaned Algy, "you needn't bother about sending my remains home—there won't be any."—Exchange

Daily War Reports

the vicinity of Roye, where earlier in the battle they occupied heights which they were forced to abandon.

SUNDAY

London, Oct. 3. 9 p. m.—Roye, the little town on the main road from Chamiens to Noyon, the heights around which have been alternately occupied by the French and the Germans during the past week, is still the center of a battle of great violence.

The Germans, who are fighting stubbornly to protect their flank at this point, have brought up reinforcements, but according to the French official communication today, all their attacks have been repulsed.

Of other operations on this front, which extends as far north as Arras, nothing has been disclosed since the French themselves announced that their force debouching from Arras had fallen back slightly on the east and north of that town.

Berlin, Oct. 2-3:30 p. m.—via The Hague and London, Oct. 3 11 a. m.—Germany is strong enough economically and financially to carry the war to a successful conclusion, according to Vice Chancellor Clemens Delbrueck. In a long interview today the Vice Chancellor declares the country cannot be starved out.

TUESDAY

On the battle front, via Paris, Oct. 5.—The Allied armies, after having permitted their adversaries, as they thought to exhaust themselves by continued attacks, today took a most vigorous offensive. The British and French encountered such a strong resistance, however, that their most advanced detachments on the Western wing were compelled to fall back.

Only at this part of the long battle line did the opposing troops actually come into close contact.

Many picturesque villages, around which hundreds of thousands of men occupy positions, have suffered severely in the recent fighting and probably will suffer more before the struggle is over.

The country where the chief fighting is going on is flat and under cultivation. In many places it is boggy and there are scattered coal mines. The Allied armies are extending continually toward the north and bending eastward towards the Belgian frontier, thus compelling the Germans, in order to prevent the crumbling up of their main army, to move large forces from the center and so keep pace with the Allies, whose position menaces the invaders along the whole line.

MONDAY

London, Oct. 4.—Having repulsed the German attacks, presumably in the vicinity of Roye, the French, according to an official communication issued late today at Paris, have resumed the offensive at several points, while other positions on their left have been maintained.

The great effort of the allies to envelop the German right may be said to be in operation again, and it is believed the whole French column from Roye northward to Arras is moving eastward against the German positions.

It is the same operation that has been tried repeatedly for the last three weeks in an attempt to reach the German lines of communication and either encircle the German army forming the right wing or force it to fall back to Belgium and Luxemburg.

The Germans have had a long time in which to make their position secure, so there is a lot of hard fighting ahead for both the attacking forces and the defenses. The defensive role is apparently being assumed by the invaders.

CHURCH NOTES

Baptist
J. M. Sullivan, Pastor.

"And there were some that had indignation within themselves and said, why was this waste of the ointment made? For it might have been sold for more than three hundred pence, ($50.00) and have been given to the poor. And they murmured against her." Mark 14:4-5.

It is so easy to join in with the fellow who whines. Judas with his covetous spirit started the talk "waste" and see even the good of their number who fall in line with him in finding fault. See what Jesus said about the "waste" of the precious ointment. In verse 6 "And Jesus said, let her alone; why trouble ye her? She hath wrought a good work on me." Verse 8 "She hath done what she could."

Let the critic criticize. But being conscious of the fact we have done what the Lord would have us do, is best of all. Mary in her loyalty and undying devotion knew she had pleased her dear Saviour.

Last Sunday was a bad day for people to go to church. We had more at White Plains than we expected. At Center Grove school house we found quite a large congregation waiting for us. We hope that many were the prayers that ascended Sunday in behalf of War-stricken Europe. May our Father hear and answer in much and tender mercy.

Next Sunday Pageland 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.
The Lord's Supper will be observed in the 11 o'clock hour.

See The Potters at the school building next Monday night.

Has He Found the Cause?

Lumberton Robesonian
Dr. W. B. Page, whole-time health officer of Robeson county is satisfied that he has discovered the cause of pellagra. By experiments with a number of patients extending over a considerable length of time he has demonstrated to his own satisfaction that this dread disease is caused by an intestinal parasite and that the disease is transmitted in much the same way as typhoid fever is transmitted. Doctor Page has sent an article explaining his theory to a medical journal for publication in its next issue.

If Doctor Page has really discovered the cause of this disease it will be a boon of incalculable benefit to humanity, for discovery of the remedy will speedily follow.

Doctor Page says this disease is very prevalent in Robeson county and that he believes it is doing as much damage in the county as tuberculosis. Hitherto the disease has baffled the medical profession and it is devoutly to be hoped that Doctor Page is correct in his theory.

Of course, little Ruth should have been able to answer more precisely when teacher asked her to describe a frog. But she gave a description that at least is picturesque when she replied: "A frog, teacher, is a big green bug with warts all over it. And it keeps its mouth open all the time, and—and—and it's always sitting down behind and—and standing up in front."—Ex.
