Let us hope that the ship subsidy steel has been put to sleep for all time.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina is being called on by his constituents for an explanation of his vote for Lorimer.

Bailey said he resigned because he was opposed to the "recall" in the Arizona constitution, but he "recalled" his resignation all right.

When the truth comes out, as it will sooner or later, it will be found that the "interests" were behind that army maneuver on the Mexican border.

The money power of the United States is behind the rush of those twenty thousand troops to the Mexican border. It has interests in Mexico it wanted protected.

Harriman's heirs paid to the State of Utah nearly one million dollars inheritance tax. Every State in the Union ought to levy this tax. It is one that can't be dodged.

The Times and Democrat believes in the Democratic party and its mission, but thinks it would be of greater benefit to the people if it would rid itself of the trust sewers in its ranks.

The Spartanburg Journal says it is reported that Governor Bleasie bursts into tears and reaches for a pardon blank every time a piece of original poetry is sent in from the penitentiary.

An exchange says of all the lame ducks that have been chased out of Washington, Ballinger is the lamest, the worst crippled, battered and bruised. Yet it is said he threatens to sue some one for damages.

The State says "it is conceded that the record made by Jerry Moore of Winona, in the production of corn on one acre, has given South Carolina the greatest amount of advertising than has been received from any other source in years."

The South is particularly interested in the fact that vegetables and cottonseed oil are both put on the free list by the removal of rather heavy duties on both by the reciprocity treaty proposed with Canada and which will be passed at the extra session.

Charleston is to be congratulated on raising the one hundred and fifty thousand dollars she started out to raise to build a Young Men's Christian Association hall for the use of her young men. It is a splendid investment and will pay the old city a handsome interest in the years to come.

It is estimated by those who are in a position to know, that $300,000 less has been sent out of the State for the purchase of corn the past season than for the same season for years. This $300,000 was put in corn that was raised at home. We will do even better than that next season.

The Spartanburg Herald says it would like to print within the coming week a series of articles upon the subject: "The Advantages of Spartanburg." That beautiful Piedmont city has so many advantages, that we feel sure the Herald will have more articles than it will have room to publish.

The leader of the Democratic minority in the Senate is apt to be John Sharp Williams. He was for several years the leader of the Democratic minority in the House before he resigned to become a candidate for the Senate. Williams is a true blue Democrat, and would make a good leader for the Senate Democrats.

Greenville is doing all she can to keep up with her neighbor, Spartanburg, but she finds it hard work. Greenville lost her grip about thirty-five years ago, when she let Spartanburg capture what was then known as the Asheville railroad. That gave Spartanburg the supremacy, which she will hold to the end, with ever increasing importance. Spartanburg should erect a monument to Major D. R. Duncan for giving her this great advantage.

Last week Atlanta entertained President Taft, Ex-President Roosevelt and Gov. Woodrow Wilson at the same time. They all made speeches at the Southern Congress. Judge Hillyer, who signed the license for Wilson to practice law in Atlanta several years ago, in referring to the speeches of the three distinguished visitors said: "Last evening we listened to a man who has been president; this evening we shall hear a man who is president, but we have with us this morning a man who is going to be president."

Young Men of the South.

The future of the South is in the keeping of her young men. She is going to be just what they make her. This is a grave responsibility, and every young man should strive to qualify himself as best he can, so as he can do his full share in the great work of building up our beloved Southland. Two strong appeals have recently been made to the young men of the South from two entirely different sources. In his address at Atlanta President Taft said: "I earnestly appeal to the young men of the South to take up these and other political issues from a broad and liberal standpoint, to eliminate from their consideration narrow partisanship and sectionalism, and to come fully into our national communion with the patriotic purpose of stimulating the progress of our civilization in every direction, maintaining our country's prosperity and accumulating its wealth, but always in subordination to higher ethical standards, and to the promotion of righteousness and justice."

The President, of course, speaks from the view point of a Republican, and his idea of looking at political issues from a "broad and liberal standpoint" is to accept the doctrines and policies of that party, but this he will never live to see the young men of the South do. Occasionally, one may be found who is willing to sell out his birthright for a mess of pottage, but the great mass of the young men of the South are as true as steel, and no kind of inducement that may be offered them will cause them to join the political party that has for years been holding up the masses so as they can be plundered by the classes. Our young men are Democrats by birth, inheritance and tradition, and they will remain so.

The other appeal to the young men came from Gov. Wilson, of New Jersey, and was made in a speech at Atlanta the same evening that President Taft made his speech. He said the only safe government was one in which all the people take part and that the Republican party was exactly opposed to that view. He said there were only two sets of men who can lead in politics, and they were the young men and the men who never grow old. He said: "As I look at the future of the Democratic party, the great need I see is of young men in its party. For a good while, they have attached themselves to the winners, but now we have come to the point where the winning party is losing out, and we should take our place. I am a Democrat by derivation and conviction. I am a Democrat because I do not believe the country should be run by trusteeship, but should be run by the whole people. The foundations of Democracy are destroyed when only the substantial people take part in the government. That was the Hamiltonian theory, and it does not apply today."

Gov. Wilson is one of the coming men of the country, and as we see it, his chances for being the next Democratic candidate for President is most excellent. What is more, we believe he will be elected if he is nominated. Gov. Wilson has been a trainer of young men for many years, and is therefore fully qualified to advise them. He says he is a Democrat, and tells you why. He says the great need of the party at the North is young men, but he says they are now coming in, which is a hopeful sign of permanent Democratic victory in that quarter. Luckily for the South, and the nation as well, the young men of the South are Democrats, and will remain so. In the North, it was the reverse, but that condition is being changed, and the young men are now flocking to the Democratic party. They put Maine and other States in the Democratic column last fall, and will hold them there, as they have at last realized that there is no chance for a young man in the doctrine of consolidation preached by the Republican party, which stifles all individual effort.

The Springfield Republican is not afraid or ashamed to concede the influence of Mr. Bryan in molding opinion and in forcing Republican administrations to take advanced positions on several big questions. We quote: Age has mellowed William Jennings Bryan, not to speak of the mitigating effect of the acceptance of his ideas that were once fought with fiery bitterness. There is both humor and truth in this statement of Mr. Bryan made before the Boston City club: "If I ever did think of running again for the presidency—and I do not—with these two men (Roosevelt and Taft) carrying out so many things I have advocated, I am afraid some Republican would raise the third-term cry on me, and say I had already had two terms of my policies." It is just as well now and then for the unthinking to be brought face to face with the fact that the man best entitled to the copyright on "my policies" lives in Nebraska and not in Oyster Bay, L. I. "No, Mr. Bryan is not a candidate for the presidency," says the State. "He may never be again, but the bitterness and injustice still exhibited by numbers of his opponents in the East and a few of their satellites elsewhere will not affect the estimate of history of his tremendous influence for good. In this generation no private citizen has made such an impress upon the American people; indeed, we might say it had not been done by another in the life of the Republic."

Bryan, the Patriot.

Great preachers like Wesley and Whitefield did not feel the need of splendid houses of worship for their special use. They carried on their work of religious and moral teaching without thought of the cost of the edifices in which they changed to take the pulpit. They were satisfied to spread the message of salvation among men in the open fields or under humble roofs. Building funds and questions of architecture were the least of their concerns. A popular revivalist like Moody would speak night after night, if need be, in any available hall or old storage warehouse or freight station. Others like Torrey, whose eloquence and earnestness have daily swayed thousands, were content at times, if no other shelter offered, to hold their religious meetings in a tent on some vacant city lots. Their surroundings were of little importance if only they reached the people in their ministry of the Gospel. The New York World says in setting so great store upon a magnificent temple on the avenue Dr. Aked took different grounds. He has parted with the congregation in New York city which brought him from England, because it disappointed his hopes of erecting a huge tabernacle where every Sunday he should preach to crowded audiences. The trustees did not feel justified in undertaking the task of providing a $2,000,000 church building.

Wanted a Fine Church.

Let us hope that the ship subsidy steel has been put to sleep for all time.

At the suggestion of several of my friends, I hereby announce that I am a candidate for Judge of Probate and Special Referee. Should you see fit to entrust this office to me I leg to assure you that I shall use my best efforts to discharge the duties of this important position carefully and efficiently. Yours very truly, L. K. Sturkie.

For Judge of Probate and Special Referee.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for Judge of Probate and Special Referee for Orangeburg County, made vacant by the election of Judge Robert S. Copes to the Circuit Bench. Andrew C. Dibble.

The McKay Famous Steel Roller Bearing Sulky Stalk Cutter

Acknowledged by the leading planters and dealers to be the best by test.

PLEASE READ EVERY WORD CAREFULLY

Made entirely of Steel and Iron, except Tongue and Trees. Its design and mechanical construction is perfect. No wobbling or "rattle trap trinkets" to be getting out of order. It is simple and condensed, being made of extra heavy bars has great strength and rigidity. Although this machine weighs more than 500 lbs., with our improved Cylinder Boxes and Steel Roller Bearings, it draws about 100 lbs., lighter than others, and is very easy to operate. Every machine is carefully inspected before leaving our factory at Dunn, N. C.

THE MCKAY STALK CUTTER has won highest prize at every Fair where we have exhibited it, in competition with all other well known Stalk Cutters.
