It will take at least a barrel or two of whitewash to make Lorimer white since the last revelations in his bribery case.

You can't bother the Smart Set by making them wear sackcloth in Lent, so long as they can get it fitted by a high cost dressmaker.

The Atlanta Journal remarks that one never hears of the poor boy who worked his way through college and then didn't amount to shucks, after all.

So it seems that Lorimer's seat in the United States Senate was bought for him by big trusts. At least that is the confession of a big trust magnate.

The British house of lords continues to squirm in trying to avoid the surgical operation that threatens to cut the tail off just behind the ears.

The dropping of one hundred useless positions among employees of the House of Representatives is a sad and a cruel blow to hungry Democrats.

Tuesday Uncle Sam's new hired men got to work in Congress. All they have to do to keep their jobs is to obey the old gentleman's orders, which the former gang declined to do.

The indications are the standpat Democrats in the Senate will prevent any remedial tariff legislation at the special session of Congress. At least that is the way it looks, we are sorry to say.

Senator Smith voted for a progressive for Democratic leader of the Senate. He takes no standpatism in his'n. Senator Tillman was not present and therefore his vote is not recorded.

There is nothing to be gained in turning out good, faithful city officials just to put others in their places. The Times and Democrat has always opposed this policy, and does now.

President Barrett, of the Farmers Union, tells the farmers they must watch their Congressmen and Senators and see how they vote on the tariff and other measures that rob the farmers for the benefit of others.

In the line up for leader of the Democrats in the Senate we are glad to notice that all the new Senators voted for a progressive. These Senators have recently been before the people, and the way they voted is somewhat significant.

The standpatter in both the Democratic and Republican parties would like to see Mr. Bryan stay away from Washington. They are very much afraid that he will interfere with their arrangements to keep the trust magnates in the saddle.

Wonder what some of the little three-for-a-quarter editors who are eternally abusing Bryan would do if some city would offer them two million cents to locate in its midst? They would break their neck to accept the wonderful offer, no doubt.

Every time Bryan protests against the people being robbed through the tariff, or some other thieving measure, the plutocratic press sets up a howl and call Bryan hard names. But it is no use. The people know Bryan and they know the newspapers that abuse him, and they can't be fooled.

The Missouri senate has unanimously endorsed the senators from that state for voting against Lorimer. As both of the Missouri senators voted no, it was easy to be unanimous, but what will those states do that were so unfortunate as to have senators voting on both sides; which senator will they endorse?

Champ Clark has selected Judge Charles Crisp, of Georgia as parliamentary clerk. Mr. Bryan says "it is a good appointment. Judge Crisp is a son of the late Speaker Crisp and learned parliamentary law under his father who is remembered with affection and esteem by the democrats who served with him. The son, however, does not have to rely upon his father's name and fame; he has merit of his own and will vindicate Mr. Clark's wisdom in appointing him."

Hats off to Mrs. Clarinda Cope, a female performer from Chicago, who has the distinction of being the first of her kind who has investigated the child labor question in the South and acknowledged the real conditions, says Tiber and Fabric. Mrs. Cope finds "the cotton mills of the South a blessing to the poor people. I have found," she said, "that the so-called child labor is on the decrease and wages are as good as they are in the North, with a margin in favor of the young people."

Let Them All Alone.

In all the large cities there are so-called brokerage concerns and individuals that are engaged in defrauding the public by selling worthless investment securities. In New York city the other day the postoffice authorities arrested three members of a firm charged with obtaining during the past few years, more than $2,000,000 by the selling of worthless stocks of oil and mining companies. This concern advertised largely, and followed up its advertisements with alluring prospectuses sent through the mails. It was such use of the mails that enabled the Postoffice department to act. In every community there are honest, hardworking, industrious men and women possessed of a few hundred dollars, perhaps, who want suddenly to become rich and are constantly seeking the get-rich-quick route. They read alluring advertisements, bite the bait, and are soon parted from their money for which they have taken in exchange beautiful engraved pieces of parchment and large promises. They do not know that no more than one oil company in 50 ever makes a dollar, or more than one mine in 300 ever pans out. But such are the facts. It was P. T. Barnum who said that a fool was born every minute. He may have been right. But for the fools some men in this world would never get a living. It was Barnum who also said that the people like to be humbugged, and they do when they know they are being humbugged, but they always resent being played for suckers, though they swallow bait, hook, sinker and all. Our advice to all is to let these get rich quick concerns alone. Everyone of them are frauds and humbugs. If you have money to invest do not invest it with strangers, but with people you know and in home enterprises.

Our Right Hand Man.

An old editor over in Missouri, who had owned and edited a newspaper for the past forty years, retired and turned the business over to his son. If we live seven years longer, we can do the same thing, as then we will have been connected with The Times and Democrat forty years, and we have a son, connected with the office now, who is fully competent to take our place, when Old Father Time bids us stand aside. That time is not very far distant.—Orangeburg Times and Democrat.

We had no idea Brother Sims had been connected with The Times and Democrat so long, possibly because we have been so accustomed to look upon him as one of the young men on the press of the State. We hope he may be spared many times seven years and that he will continue the work he is now doing. Truth is we think that boy he speaks of now relieves him of all the details connected with the making of the paper and a fine boy he is.—Newberry Herald and News.

Thank you, Brother Aull, for your good wishes and kind words, both to us and that boy. You have diagnosed the case exactly. For three years now we have turned over the details of the office to that boy, who is not yet a voter. He manages all the business affairs, including the finances, and he has acquitted himself so well that we know The Times and Democrat will be in good hands when Old Father Time bids us stand aside, and we turn it over to him completely.

Why Men Don't Go.

A preacher in a distant city some time ago invited full, frank and free answer from the average man's standpoint why men do not go to church and taking these answers as a text, he preached a series of sermons, inviting the non-church goers to come and listen to the discussion. This was a very practical way to handle a situation that doubtless confronts the churches in all the cities, says the Augusta Herald. The question is "Why is it that more men do not go to church?" Who can answer it.

The Herald asks, "What do you imagine is the percentage of the male population in Augusta who do not go to church and what is the reason—why more men in Augusta do not go to church? The problem is one that ought to interest both the men of the city as well as the churches of Augusta."

The question of non-church attendance generally, and the non-attendance of church by men particularly, has been a subject of discussion for several years in the newspapers and magazines of the country. That men do not go to church like they did some years back is a fact patent to all. What an evil way such is the case.

Gets Good Places.

South Carolina gets only two congressional committee chairmanships, Lever heading education and Finley printing, but the delegation is well represented on the other important committees. Legare is on foreign affairs and Territories. Byrnes gets good committees for a new member, banking and currency and war claims. Johnson is on the appropriations committee, one of the biggest. Ellerbe says he got just what he wanted. Finley had share in the harmony programme. The following are South Carolina assignments: Appropriations, Johnson. Banking and currency, Byrnes. Rivers and harbors, Ellerbe. Agriculture, Lever. Foreign affairs, Legare. Post offices, Finley. Territories, Legare. Railways and canals, Ellerbe. Education, Lever, chairman. Pensions, Aiken. War claims, Byrnes. Printing, Finley, chairman. District of Columbia, Aiken. Civil service reforms, Finley. Irrigation, Ellerbe.

How Is It Here?

The dreadful disaster in New York, resulting in the death of 150 helpless creatures, would probably have been evaded if proper fire escapes and means of egress had been provided. That they were not was due either to gross negligence on the part of the civic authorities in not enforcing the law involved, or to the cupidity of property owners who were willing to risk the lives of their fellow creatures rather than install safety appliances. Not unlikely the blame should be distributed, but nothing can bring to life those who suffered so horrible a death or remove the anguish of mind from those who are bereaved. Evidently in all such buildings insufficiently supplied with fire escapes and used as the building was used where the disaster happened, the thousands of employees take their lives in their hands when they go to work. How is it right here at home? Are all our public buildings properly fixed to safeguard human life?

THE AWAKENING.

How little do we know or care Of Poverty and Want, Until abroad those creatures fare To pause, red-eyed and gaunt, Upon the threshold of that way Where Plenty guarded yesterday; And then to cast their venom'd darts All stained with blood of men, To hidden corners of our hearts Again and yet again. How little do we ever feel Of sympathy for Woe, Till Sorrow as a thief doth steal Our joy and tread it low, Or send to us some bitter shame To tarnish an unblemished name, Or yet Despair on vulture wings Doth fall upon the heart, And fiercely tear the tensioned strings Till blood of life doth start.

And so it is we better learn, The height of joy when we Through our own sorrows may discern, The depth of misery. —Amarita B. Campbell.

Extensive Order for New Equipment.

The Atlantic Coast Line is showing its faith as to future conditions, in that it has placed the following extensive order for additional equipment: 15 Pacific type passenger engines. 20 large freight engines. 25 passenger coaches. 4 combination mail and express cars. 1400 box cars. 50 phosphate cars. 50 ballast cars. 20 caboose cars.

This equipment will be delivered during the summer, and will place the Coast Line in position to meet the demands of the traveling and shipping public. This large order of freight equipment, taken in connection with the extensive double tracking and bridge work going on at various points on the line, indicates that the Atlantic Coast Line proposes to keep in the front ranks of Southern railways.

Everything That a Drug Store Should Have.

This is the compliment that one of our patrons paid us. It is so true of the real method behind our business that we are quoting it.

Primarily this business makes the prescription department the main object of its care. Experts check every prescription and our large files show that our care is not in vain. Every new and worthy drug is immediately bought and placed on our shelves so that we need never say "we are just out of it," but we say, "We have it now."

Then these departments are always busy because of one final fact: "Good Goods for Your Money"—first and last.
