We believe if some young men brought some amateur baseball team to this city for a series it would be well attended.

Every man who departs from the rule of right living and right doing commits a two-fold injury—to himself and to the world.

How easy it is to believe in the goodness of Divine providence when things go the way we want them, and how difficult when things go contrary.

True religion ever gains the respect of men, even of those who make no pretense of religion. It is the hollow sham of religion—the counterfeit—for which the world has contempt.

Not by all the outward forces that may be employed can a person be compelled to believe or disbelieve. The soul is free and will think for itself, and if it has courage will act as it thinks.

Poverty may be the misfortune of the poor and the crime of the rich, and it is when men of great wealth hand together to keep wages at the lowest point that they may reap exorbitant profits.

Gov. Blease has made Mr. Leon M. Green, the Columbia correspondent of The News and Courier a lieutenant-colonel, and attached him to his staff. The Governor knows a good press agent when he sees him.

Of some men the world knows nothing of their virtues until they are found recorded on tombstones. Other men so live that they do not have to wait for tombstones to be erected—their virtues are seen in their daily life.

The New York World says: "Senator Bailey has a fatal facility for always finding constitutional grounds for opposing his party colleagues and siding with the Republican stand-patters." Bailey is nothing but a Republican masquerading as a Democrat.

We tender our sympathy to Brother Knight, of the Bamberg Herald, in his deep sorrow caused by the death of Mrs. Knight. She was a most excellent woman, and her death is a great loss to Bamberg, where she was active in all good works. To the keeping of the Heavenly Father we commend husband and children.

As one reads of all the diseases for which flies and mosquitos are responsible, and of the deadly ravages made by countless microbes, it is nothing short of a miracle that our ancestors ever managed to live. Still it is a good thing to swat the obnoxious fly, exterminate dangerous germs, get in to the fresh air, drink plenty of water, and keep clean.

There would have been fewer political scandals and other unpleasant things to mourn over if more good people had only done their duty and done it intelligently. As it was, many were too indifferent or too careless to do anything, thereby giving bad men their opportunity and their harvest. The past cannot be undone, but it is within the power of the right thinking people of the country to make a reputation of such evils exceedingly rare.

Whenever a man finds pleasure in his work or his business, the success of that business is assured. Mr. A. L. Baggott, a large business man of New York, who retired some days ago, expressed it well when he said that he always made his business the greatest game he played. He never found business a bore or found more pleasure in playing set-back or pool than in playing the game of his business. Paste this in your hat, young man.

Henry Watterson is very much concerned about what Bryan is going to do politically. He begs him as a friend and fellow democrat to stay hands off. "For Heaven's sake," he says, "don't wreck the old ship in port as was done before." We have no doubt but that Bryan will do what is asked of him, but the request would come in better grace if Henry Watterson had never helped to "wreck the old ship in port" as he did in 1896 and 1900.

The morbid crowds, crazy for excitement and accidents, that crowd the usual speed auto meets reminds one of the crowds that thronged the Coliseum in ancient Rome to witness gladiatorial fights. There is the same callousness for human life, the same demand for danger and sensational, and the same disappointment if no one is killed. Very nearly the only thing wanting to complete the analogy is "thumbs down" and even that is present in spirit. In truth the speed races do not present true sport, but only dangerous "thrillers" designed to draw and please a sensation loving crowd.

Progressive Republicans.
 Many of the leading newspapers of the country are losing faith in the pretensions of the so-called progressive Republicans, and well they might. The New York World says "Northwestern Republicans who rage at Canadian reciprocity as injurious to farmers and threaten in revenge to pull down the tariff temple do not exhibit themselves in an admirable light. They have been demanding tariff reform for more than a generation. They have known from the beginning that agriculture was the victim and not the beneficiary of custom-house taxation. Yet when the test has come they have voted more solidly for privilege than Wall street ever did."

This is a pretty severe indictment, but we are sorry to say the facts bear it out. The World goes on to say that "if the representatives of these people in the United States Senate mean what they say, they will soon find an opportunity to do something worth while. They will not be asked to destroy temples or demolish custom-houses, but to consider soberly the bill which passed the Democratic House recently reducing taxes upon wool and woolsens. Will they follow the few courageous Republicans in that body who have blazed the way for them, or will they as usual hold back?"

This measure is aimed at what Senator Aldrich called the very citadel of the tariff. It corrects schedules which Mr. Taft refers to as indefensible. It is a redemption for the Democrats of promises made to the people in the campaign of 1908 by victorious Republicans. It is a perfectly reasonable attempt to reduce the cost of living. Therefore the Progressive Republicans, if they want to help reform the tariff, should stand shoulder to shoulder with the honest Democrats and push this measure through the Senate. The question is will they do it. Time alone will tell.

As the World says there would have been no insurgent Republicans in the Senate to-day if they had not convinced the people of the Northwest of their hostility to trusts. Canadian reciprocity deprives the Lumber and Paper Trusts of some of their plunder, and the proposed new wool tariff takes the extortion out of the trust taxes on clothing, blankets and carpets. Why not begin here? Unless the so-called Progressive Republicans of the West unite in support of such reforms, wherein do they differ from the gilded old guard and the crusted stand-patters?

The situation is one that calls for action rather than menace; for constructive legislation rather than revenge and destruction. Honorable men in both parties who have never paraded their progressiveness as co-operating in behalf of wider markets, lower taxes and the control of trusts. In this laudable effort the most vehement opposition that has yet been encountered has appeared, we are sorry to say, in the ranks of the ostentatious progressives of the Senate.

Northwestern Republicanism has done little but bluster and threaten on the tariff question for forty years. No matter how much it protested, it has meekly accepted what the Kelleys, McKineys, Dingleys, Aldriches and Paynes imposed upon it. Most of its spokesmen in the Senate, noisily pretending to be something else, are in fact truly representative of this spirit of submission, not to say subservency. They are mighty in threats but they do not vote against extortion. Elected as reformers, the boastful progressives are breeding panics among those who are conscientiously promoting reform. Sworn foes of monopoly, the trusts now find in them their greatest aid and comfort. This is all true, and because it is true we have lost all faith in the so-called Progressive Republicans. Most of them are mere bluffers, and nothing else.

Promoting the Towns Weifer.
 Not unoften small cities like Orangeburg start organizations to which is given the titles of "Chamber of Commerce," "Board of Trade," or others equally pretentious. The motive for such organizations is good but after a fitful and brief career the organization dies out with nothing accomplished. As a rule, the failure is due to attempting too much, or in not having clearly defined methods of operation. Naturally when expectations are not realized, or when nothing definite is attempted discouragement results and the whole thing fizzles out ingloriously.

And yet there is not a town but can be bettered by wise organized co-operation on the part of its citizens. This has been proven right here in this city. What is needed first of all is a spirit of union. If faction feeling shows itself, failure is certain, for whatever project one faction proposes is sure to be opposed by the other faction, not on its merits but out of sheer contrariness. We are glad that no such spirit exists here. If we want to succeed with the County Fair we must all pull together.

Then, common sense is imperative. For a town of five or six thousand to attempt what is possible only for a city of thirty thousand is much the same, and as foolish, as a family on an income of $1,500 trying to live like the family that has an income of $5,000. Common sense will dictate moderation of desire and reasonableness in effort. One great need is as to industries, to find out what advantages a community may possess certain lines of business and then to work energetically and sensibly to secure them.

In the matter of internal improvement by which the town may be made far more attractive in material beauty, and in social and moral life, there is always much that can be done by earnest-minded and intelligent men and women working harmoniously together in the spirit of loyalty and local pride. In fact it should be the aim of every citizen to make the community a better place in which to live—a place in which there may be found the maximum of comfort, conveniences, municipal improvements and of aids to the right living and true enjoyment.

Watch for the announcement of the big reduction in the price of all books by Sims Book Store. This will be a great treat to book-lovers.

We Want Each One of the Several Thousand Readers of This Paper Carefully to Read What Follows.

It will pay you to do so. THE MARCHANT MUSIC CO. offers to the people of this section a rare opportunity to secure a high grade piano at a low price, and we want you to understand just why we can afford to do so at this particular time. The explanation is simple.

From June 3rd to 10th, there was held in Chicago the greatest Piano Exposition ever held in the world. President Taft opened the show and over 1000 pianos especially manufactured for the occasion were on exhibition. Every piano expert, manufacturer, and dealer of any note in both the United States and Canada were present to inspect these exposition instruments. Naturally, the pianos exhibited were the best products of the various factories, because all the marvelous skill of the master piano builders of the world were concentrated on the pianos shown at this exposition. These exposition pianos and marvels of architectural and tonal beauty and were eagerly sought by dealers.

Mr. D. H. Marchant, head of this company was in attendance upon this exposition, and being an expert himself and being right on the ground, was enabled to secure some extraordinary bargains. Twenty-five of these splendid pianos were bought by him and are now daily arriving at our warerooms. Because they were bought at reduced figures, we sell them at low figures, either cash or on time. The reasonable terms which the public has enjoyed in the past, we now offer on these exposition pianos.

If you want to see the highest expression of the piano-maker's art which has ever been brought to South Carolina, call and inspect these magnificent instruments for your-self. If you want a specially made piano at a low figure, this is your opportunity.

The following world leaders are represented: KNABE, KRANICH & BACK, BUSH & LANE, HAINES BROS., KRAKAUER, LAUTER, WESER BROS., LUDWIG, TONK, FOSTER, POOLE, JOHNSON and the Columbus Piano Co's. famous little "BOUDOIR".

Several Player pianos are among the lot at figures which must compel attention. The Player piano is undoubtedly the piano of the future. Call to see these artistic pianos whether you want to buy or not. They are worth seeing, and we are proud to show them. Let us demonstrate the Inner-Player for you.
