

SENATOR TILLMAN

HE ARRIVED IN THIS CITY LAST WEDNESDAY.

Spent Thursday in the City, Went to Four Holes Friday, and Will Go to Jedburg Today.

Senator B. R. Tillman arrived in Orangeburg on last Wednesday afternoon at six o'clock. He came over the Southern railway and was accompanied by Mrs. Tillman. They went immediately to the hospitable home of Capt. J. H. Claffy, on Sellers Avenue, where they will be entertained during their stay in this city.

On Friday Senator Tillman attended the military picnic at Four Holes given by the Tillman Volunteers, which company was named for the Senator. While on the grounds Senator Tillman met many of his old friends, who were delighted to see him once more. He shook hands with many people, but made no speech.

This morning Senator Tillman will go to Jedburg to attend the meeting of the South Carolina Agricultural Society and the general agricultural gathering to be held at the South Carolina Experiment station, located at that place. The Senator looks well, but says he lacks the old time strength and vigor.

Senator Tillman says he will not attempt to make a speech anywhere. "I may get up and say 'howdy-do,'" he said Wednesday afternoon, when he was asked what he was going to speak about. "I will just tell the folks I am glad to be there, something along that line, but no speeches for me. I do not feel in condition to speak."

When asked how he felt the Senator repeated his previous remarks that it was surprising, although he thought he looked well, he did not feel equal to his old task. In a former interview Senator Tillman remarked that he just couldn't understand why this should be. Mrs. Tillman said the Senator should keep quiet and rest and do only to things he had to do without exerting himself at all.

Senator Tillman is thinking more on farm topics than on politics at this time. He watched the crops as he rode from Columbia to Orangeburg and frequently made remarks to those with whom he talked about the crop conditions. At his own home and around about Senator Tillman said that cotton was in fine shape, but the corn showed the effects of the drought.

As is well known, Senator Tillman, is a planter and takes especial interest in his own farm. Some time ago he gave his experience in cattle raising and from time to time he has spoken and written upon agricultural topics. When asked if he was going to Washington at all during the special session Senator Tillman said:

"No, not unless they wire me to come. I told them that if it was felt that I was needed there I would go; otherwise I will not go to Washington during the special session of Congress."

Senator Tillman said it looked as if the reciprocity bill will pass the Senate all right. The Senator in the course of conversation with several persons aboard the train did not discuss politics very much.

The Senator and Mrs. Tillman left Trenton early Wednesday. They will return Monday probably going by automobile through the country. Senator Tillman has made several long trips through the country in an automobile. He rode seventy miles to attend the funeral of his old friend, the late Col. Thos. B. Crews, of Laurens, a short time ago.

Senator Tillman visited Orangeburg about three years ago on the invitation of the ladies to deliver his famous lecture on the race question. He has not been here since that time. The Senator had many callers while here from his friends, who simply called on him to pay their respects. The people of Orangeburg, in common with all the people, hope to see the Senator restored to complete health at no distant day.

Thursday morning officers of the Orangeburg chamber of commerce and its executive committee, consisting of John Cart, president; W. L. Moseley, vice president; A. H. Marchant, commercial secretary; W. P. Fairly, J. W. Smoak, Sol Kohn and T. J. Hayden, accompanied by State Senator Robert Lide, called on Senator Tillman at the residence of Capt. J. H. Claffy.

During the Senator's short stay in this city he was called on by a large number of our citizens. When the editor of The Times and Democrat called Thursday afternoon to pay his respects to the Senator he found four other gentlemen there on a similar mission. The Senator was glad to see all who called, and talked interestingly on current subjects.

Thursday afternoon at six o'clock the Senator and Mrs. Tillman, accompanied by Mrs. Claffy, was given an automobile ride over the city and suburbs by Mr. R. Fulton Dukes in his handsome touring car. The party was shown all over the city and surrounding country and expressed themselves as delighted with the ride and what they saw.

Senator Tillman looks well, but says he is not strong. He looks after his farming operations at Trenton. Sometimes he walks about the fields or rides horseback, but says the least exercise fatigues him somewhat, and he has to be careful. He confines his reading to the newspapers, and both the Senator and Mrs. Tillman said The Times and Democrat was one of their favorites.

DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

Methodists Loyal Entertained by People of Bowman.

Bowman, July 6th.—Special: The Orangeburg District Conference of the M. E. Church, South, convened here yesterday at 9:30 a. m., and was organized with Presiding Elder Chas. B. Smith in the chair. The Rev. S. W. Henry, of the Orangeburg circuit, was elected secretary. The roll of delegates was called and the usual committees appointed by the chair, after which the regular routine business of the conference was taken up.

Several charges were called and the pastors thereof made verbal reports as to their spiritual and financial condition. The sessions of the Conference were fixed to convene at 9 a. m. to 11, at which hours there would be preaching each day, and in the afternoon at four, adjourning at will, with preaching or addresses on subjects of importance in connection with church work.

The Rev. Mr. Leslie, of the Harleyville circuit, preached at 11 o'clock yesterday. Last night A. W. Summers, Esq., of Orangeburg, in charge of the Laymen Missionary movement in this district spoke at some length of the importance of the work in connection with this movement. Mr. Summers made a plain, forcible argument on this important work commended by the laymen.

He was followed by George Hodges, Esq., of Greenwood, State leader, who made a soul stirring address along the same line. The speaker, notwithstanding the heat, held the close attention of the audience at some length and pictured in glowing terms the duties devolving upon church members to be up and doing something for Christ.

Meeting of the Doctors.

The St. Matthews correspondent of The News and Courier says the District Medical Association, comprising the Counties of Lexington, Calhoun, Orangeburg and Bamberg, will meet in that town July 18 at 11 o'clock. With favorable weather this promises to be the biggest and best district meeting in the low-country for the past number of months. Specialists from Charleston and Columbia will be present to give their views and Dr. D. N. Carson, equally well known as Lexington County's Senator and a cancer specialist, will be on hand to enlighten the brethren on the inner secrets of his hobby. Dr. Sophia Brunson, the hustling secretary of the Association, is sparing no effort to make it the banner meeting.

Denies the Report.

J. L. Henderson, pastor of the Orangeburg circuit M. E. Church denies the report sent out that there is any kind of contagious disease anywhere near where he is holding services, and that there is no need of discontinuing the meetings on that account. Therefore the meetings will go on as had been arranged.

want him to represent them many years yet in the United States Senate, which he has so ably done for years past.

"A FAMILY AFFAIR"

WILL M. MAUPIN'S BIGGEST BOY GETS MARRIED.

The Busy Editor Moralizes Somewhat About It in His Department of The Commoner.

Will M. Maupin tells about the marriage of his Biggest Boy as follows in the Commoner:
Married, at the home of the bride's mother, on Saturday, Mr. Louis Blaine Maupin and Miss Ruth Rosa. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal couple took the train for Baggs, Wyo., where the groom has already prepared the home nest and where they will reside in future.

Just 23 years ago next November, he who is now the "biggest boy," made his appearance in a little cottage in Fairfield, Neb. It doesn't seem that long to the Architect—that is, not until he takes a surreptitious peep into the glass and sees a lot of grey hairs and a network of wrinkles.

The Architect has had about as many experiences as the average man, but this is the first time he stood around and saw one of his own children "jump the broomstick." It's a peculiar sensation, isn't it, you gray-haired boys and girls who have children and grand-children of your own?

Now, if the "biggest boy" has captured as big a prize as his dad captured when he trapped the Little Woman—and I believe he has—he is going to discover mighty quick that he hasn't been living up to date—just merely existing.

How I could write into words the feelings that swept across my heart when I saw the Biggest Boy stand up and vow to love and cherish the charming girl who had given into his keeping her future life. A flood of memories swept over me.

I saw in my mind's eye a little cottage away back there in '88; I recalled the joy that swept over me when I heard the first wailing cry; I saw him develop from infancy into sturdy boyhood and from sturdy boyhood into stalwart youth.

I recall the fishing trips we have had together, the many days when we roamed the woods more like boys than father and son. I recalled one anxious night when two of us watched over his bed, fearing every minute that the angel of death would touch him, and I remember how those watchers knelt down while the Little Woman voiced the thanks of both of us that he had been spared.

I tell you, a father can think of a wonderful lot of things during the few minutes that it takes a pastor to marry the Biggest Boy to the girl of his choice.

Well, the Biggest Boy has a whole lot more to start married life on than his Dad had. Dad didn't have enough money to flag a bread wagon, and he happened just at that time to be out of a job. But this situation did not freeze him or the Little Woman. Not a bit of it. Wasn't the world an oyster ready for an opening. Sure!

And if that oyster hasn't yet opened to the limit at least it has opened up enough to keep things going at a fairly satisfactory rate. And while there are some hours and some days of those vanished years we wouldn't like to live over again, we wouldn't sell for much gold the memory of a single one of them.

It hasn't been all sunshine by any means. Some of the days were wofully cloudy. A couple of little mounds in God's acre testify to that. But we have the sweet memory of the two little ones who were with us for a while.

Well, well! Here we are, maunding away about something that interests no one but ourselves. But when a man's Biggest Boy gets married, and he happens to be the first of the flock to do it, that man is quite likely to want to tell all about it.

Pian Big Booster Trip.

The Orangeburg Chamber of Commerce is planning a big booster trip to all the towns of this county that are within a radius of 25 miles of this city. The trip will be made in automobiles and will take three days to complete it. A large amount of advertising matter will be carried along and many business men will make the trip. The booster trip has been advocated for some time, and everything is now in readiness for the trip during the last part of this month. There are a large number of towns to be made on the trip and great results are being anticipated.

ROUTE NOT YET FIXED.

One Day Highway May Not Pass Through Columbia.

The State says that unless the Lexington delegation decides upon the route through the "Dutch Fork" section of that county, Columbia will be eliminated officially from the highway that is to be constructed in one day from Charleston to Asheville, a distance of 300 miles.

The vice presidents and members of the managing committee of the proposed roadway meeting in Columbia on Thursday selected the old "State Road" through Lexington county, and over the protest of Secretary Hamby of Columbia Chamber of Commerce and Dr. F. A. Coward, president of the Automobile Club of Columbia, refused to accept the Bates Ferry road, which is in most excellent condition.

Plans were perfected for the construction of the roadway in one day and the date was set for August 17 for the final completion. The official route was outlined. From Newberry there will be two routes to Asheville, one by Laurens and Greenville and the other by Union, Spartanburg and Hadersoville. The following is the official route as adopted Thursday.

Charleston county has two roads to Summerville, one on each side of the Ashley river. These roads are almost complete. From Summerville to the county line by the way of Jedburg. Thence, through Orangeburg county by way of Orangeburg, thence to St. Matthews, from St. Matthews to Columbia by the old "State Road," which is to be rebuilt. This route was selected by unanimous vote. The Lexington part of the road is left to be decided by the Lexington delegation which was not present at the meeting.

It will either be through the "Dutch Fork" or by way of Lexington Court house to Chapin. Through Newberry county the road goes by Little Mountain, Prosperity, Newberry, Julapa, and Kinards. From there to Greenville one or two routes may be selected, either by way of Clinton and Laurens, or by way of Whitmire, Union and Spartanburg.

Instructions have been addressed to each local road commissioner and solicitor for each mile of the road and each town along or near the Charleston to Asheville Highway. The following officers of the association were present at the meeting Thursday:

Vice Presidents: A. McL. Martin, Charleston; F. J. D. Felder, Orangeburg; J. A. Banks, Calhoun; A. McP. Hamby, Richland; J. B. Hunter, Newberry; J. T. Jeter, Union. Route and managing committee: F. A. Coward, Richland; E. H. Aull, Newberry; B. F. Alston, Jr., Union; J. M. Connolly, Charleston; Samuel Dibble, Orangeburg; A. W. McKeand, chairman, Charleston; A. McP. Hamby, Richland, Secretary.

Broke Up Ball Game.

The St. Matthews correspondent of The State says a game of baseball was suddenly interrupted there Wednesday by a runaway horse. A thoroughbred became frightened at some antics of the game and broke for liberty. Having freed itself, the animal made a dash toward the grandstand. Upon coming closer it ascertained that an assault would be made and made a rush upon the bleachers. The occupants seeing the approaching danger immediately vacated and crowded to the grandstand. The players on the diamond showed good speed in beating the observers to a place of safety. Nothing left to put to flight a few circuits were made around a neighboring cotton field and then a straight run for home. Mr. Henegan believes that the horse was only trying to show the boys how to make a home run.

Had a Fine Time.

Senator and Mrs. Robert Lide, who took an extensive pleasure trip to New York and Canada, have returned home. While away the Senator attended the Sovereign Camp of the Woodmen of the World as a representative from the Head Camp of this State. Being a prominent lawyer, as well as a prominent member of the Woodmen, Senator Lide was put on the law committee by the Sovereign Camp, which will make it necessary for him to attend that body at Jacksonville, Fla., next year. Senator and Mrs. Lide were gone about three weeks.

Springfield Defeats Sally.

Springfield, S. C. July 7.—In a one-sided game played here today between Sally, and Springfield, Sally was defeated to the tune of 14 to 0. The Springfield team under the matchless leadership of Capt. Mike Gleaton is showing remarkable strength, and developing several players that will be heard from later. The feature of the game was the home run made by Morgan E. Boyleston, 54 years old, and one of the largest property owners in Aiken or Orangeburg counties. Thirty years ago, Morgan E. Boyleston was the champion heavyweight baseball player of western South Carolina and led the old Palmetto team to many remarkable victories. Today he asked to go in the game, and on going to the bat the second time knocked a home run, making the entire circuit. "A man can come back" says Boyleston.
