MR. COUNTRY MERCHANT:

Just because you live in a town where there is no new paper is no reason why you should not advertise. There is some one paper that is read in your town and surrounding vicinity more than any other, and that paper is THE TIMES AND DEMOCRAT. Don't take our word for it. Investigate. Find out.

And when you have found out, write to the manager of The Times and Democrat and let him quote you rates on an advertising campaign during the fall and coming spring seasons. Remember THE TIMES AND DEMOCRAT has about 3,000 subscribers—about twice the number of any other two papers in Orangeburg county combined.

Get your share of Orangeburg County's trade. The way to do it, is to advertise in the best medium. IT IS

Dear Friend: When it is good and hot I like a glass of iced-tea better'n I like lemonade because there is tea in it. I like the color and the tea taste. Lemon helps it too. I am warm right now because I have just come from the grocery with a package of tea and a sack of lemons. We drink Mikado tea, 60 cents a pound and get a set of Japanese dishes free.

Your Friend, JACOB. P. S.—They are always polite and wait on you quick to at CRAIG'S PURE FOOD STORE.

SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY. Clemson College Work-Boy Course. —Paid 75c and $1.00 a day.

In order to assist worthy and needy young men to obtain a practical education along agricultural lines and at the same time to furnish the college farm with skillful, reliable and intelligent labor, the Trustees have authorized the organization of a Work-Boy course in agriculture. Into this class 20 students will be received at the opening of the coming session. They will be divided into two squads of ten men each. One squad will work as laborers on the farm for a week, while the other squad will attend classes. At the end of each week, the squads will interchange, and in that way alternate weeks will be devoted to farm work and to study. The course in agriculture will be completed in two sessions, and will give to the students taking it a practical knowledge of the fundamental principles of successful farming, stock raising, dairying, etc.

Students will receive from 75 cents to $1.00 per day, depending upon their value. Thirteen dollars per month will be sufficient to defray all necessary expenses. Only mature, earnest and capable young men will be admitted to this class—young men who have spent their lives on the farm and who expect to return to farming after finishing the course.

A knowledge of reading, writing and arithmetic is the only scholastic requirements for admission. While only twenty will be admitted to this course in September, if the experiment proves successful, the number may be increased another session to fifty or seventy-five.

Any young farmer or farmer's son, not less than eighteen years of age, without the means to pay for his education, who is in sound and vigorous health, and willing to enter into an agreement to work and study faithfully, and if satisfactory to the College authorities, remain for the two years necessary to complete the course, may become an applicant. If interested in this proposition, write at once to The President, Clemson College, S. C., for more detailed information.

The names of the twenty selected will be announced September 1st, College opens September 14th. W. M. Riggs, President, Clemson Agricultural College.

WHAT IS PELLAGRA. Is the Strange Disease Contagious or Is It Not?

The disease pellagra which is becoming more and more prevalent baffles the skill of physicians and known materia medica.

"In a recent review given this disease, South Carolina is reported to have nearly twice as many cases any of the other States. This may, or may not be true; at any rate it is certainly on the increase and is a much dreaded disease.

"Some of the physicians of the country are treating pellagra with the arsenical compound discovered by the German Scientist, Dr. Erlich, which has aroused such interest in the medical world—the so-called 606. The result so far has not demonstrated conclusively the efficacy of his remedy but when prescribed in the early stages of the disease an improvement is noted in the patient.

"Neither has there been any satisfactory explanation as to the cause of pellagra. A recent theory is that corn whiskey distilled from spoiled corn is a prolific source of the disease, another, and one which is most generally accepted is that it is communicated by flies. This calls for more carefulness in keeping clear of flies.

"The majority of physicians are uncertain as to whether or not pellagra is a contagious or infectious disease. Johns Hopkins believes that it is certainly infectious if not contagious. However, undertakers have made up their minds that it is communicable, and they are now taking care to handle the bodies of those dying from pellagra with rubber gloves.

"One of the principal reasons for believing pellagra to be contagious is that several cases have been known to break out in the same family; indeed it is seldom that it confines itself to one person in the family or neighborhood.

"We have recently read a letter from Johns Hopkins in which the statement is made that they believe that Dr. Babcock, of Columbia knows as much about pellagra as any one in America."

Good for More Than Twenty Years.

In reply to the question of the Columbus Enquirer-Sun, "Will Bryan retire?" The Houston Post answers: "Oh, yes; every night, but is up bright and early soon after the Pullman porter calls him in the morning." That is really one of the cleverest things Bailey has said for a long time, and when subjected to careful analysis shows, among other things, in the first place that Mr. Bryan does "retire," that is to say goes to bed, and in the second place that he is so abundant and constant in his efforts to spread himself all over the country that he frequently goes to bed in a sleeping car, which means, of course, that he is ever mindful of the interests of the people, and ever ready at night to serve them whenever he is called in the morning, having a clear conscience, void of offense except towards a few of his most sincere admirers, whom he does not understand, and not understanding will not forgive. We have no doubt that he sleeps. He is fifteen years older now than he was when he began his great crusade against the established order, and yet he is as bright and fresh as a daisy with every new day that comes; good, we should say, for at least twenty years more of strenuous pursuit.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

TRAILED BY BLOOD-HOUNDS. Went Straight From Scene to the House of Suspect.

The bloodhounds from the County chaignang reached St. George three hours after the dastard attempt was made by some one a little after ten o'clock on Tuesday night to assault a lady in her bed room in that town and was carried immediately near the window from which the suspect leaped after having been frightened by the screams of the woman. Little difficulty was had in getting the trail, led by a circuitous route to the home of the negro, who had been previously apprehended and lodged in jail. After having reached the home of the negro the dogs then trailed to the jail where the negro had been previously taken. The Sheriff would not open the doors of the jail for the dogs to enter because of the possibility that the negro would fall into unofficial hands and be roughly dealt with.

CURE FOR PELLAGRA. Clinton Physician Claims to Cure This Disease.

Everybody ought to feel an interest in Mr. Dedmond's pellagra cure, as there are several cases in and near Clinton which have been cured, we learn. Hearing of the case of a lady friend near this city who was said to have been cured of this dread disease, we called her up over the phone and asked her if such were the case. She replied that it was true; that her disease was pronounced pellagra by two physicians who treated her for it, but she finally went to Mr. Dedmond and procured some of the medicine and in four days' time she felt as well as she ever felt in her life, and that she considers herself entirely cured. Now, for the sake of suffering humanity, Mr. Dedmond ought to be encouraged; and the doctors ought to give his remedy a trial.

Oratory. That William Jennings Bryan is the world's greatest platform orator is an acknowledged fact. While men may differ with his political views they are unanimous in according to his eloquence the palm of preeminence and in placing him in the circle of the great masters of human speech. He possesses every faculty of the orator and to a superlative degree. His conceptions are original, his scope of vision complete and all-absorbing, his analysis penetrating, microscopic and logical, his diction strong and graceful, his utterance full of the charm of the utterance full of the charm of the voice. And above all he possesses that magnetism which transports his hearers into the realm of his discourse and makes them not only understand but feel his very thoughts. There is a popular notion that the age of oratory is dead but that will never be while William Jennings Bryan retains his power of oral utterance.—Albany (New York) Times-Union.
