

Mr. I. L. Showem

He Tries To Be Humane--He Lives

By Ryan Walker.

WHEN I AM GONE.

A Few Words to the Fellow Who Will Take My Place.

The following little poem from the pen of Louise E. Thayer is applicable to us all, but more especially to our old fellows, who have but a few more years in which to do the work assigned us by the Creator:

To My Successor.
Here's a toast that I want to drink to a fellow I'll never know—
To the fellow who's going to take my place when it's time for me to go.
I've wondered what kind of a chap he'll be and I've wished I could take his hand,
Just to whisper, "I wish you well, old man," in a way that he'll understand.

I'd like to give him the cheering word that I've longed at time to hear;

I'd like to give him the warm hand-clasp when never a friend seems near.

I've learned my knowledge by sheer hard work, and I wish I could pass it on

To the fellow who'll come to take my place some day when I'm gone.
Then here's to your health, old chap!
I drink as a bridegroom to his bride—

I leave an unfinished task for you, but God knows how I have tried.
I've dreamed my dreams as all men do, but never a one came true,
And my prayer today is that all the dreams may be realized by you.

And we'll meet some day in the great unknown—out in the realm of space.

You'll know my sleep as I take your hand and gaze in your tired face;
Then all our failures will be success in the light of the new found dawn—

So I'm drinking; your health, old chap, who'll take my place when I'm gone.

HOW ONE WOMAN WON

Her Health and Strength Back Again by The Use of Cardui.

Tampa, Fla.—In a letter from this city, Mrs. E. C. Corum writes: "I was all weakened and worn out with womanly troubles. My husband brought me some Cardui as a tonic, and, from the first day, it seemed to help. I had almost lost my reason, but, thanks to Cardui, I did not. Soon, I felt and looked like a new woman. I think the remedy is wonderful. I recommend it to my friends, for I have received great benefit from it."

Cardui acts specifically on the weakened womanly organs, strengthening the muscles and nerves, and building them up to health.

It helps to refresh the worn-out nervous system and relieves the effects of overwork, both mental and physical.

Fifty years' successful use fully prove the merit of this purely vegetable, tonic remedy for women.

In every community, there lives some who have been benefited by Cardui. The beneficial effects of this time tested woman's remedy, soon show themselves in many different ways. Try it.
