Complete returns show that the Democrats won the State election Tuesday and kept Massachusetts in the party column by continuing Governor Eugene N. Foss in office for a second term. The returns give Foss (Democrat) 210.662; Frothingham (Republican) 202,888.

In the campaign speeches, Republican orators urged Frothingham's election on the ground that the Na-Democratic victory would mean a blow to the textile industries of the State.

(Signed) J. J. Evans. The extra session was desired to take some action looking to an immediate relief of the present situation of lower prices for cotton. The refusal to call the extra session is placed on the grounds of the heavy expense entailed, the fact that matters are not in shape now to allow a special session to do the business of the regular session, and that the results of any action that might be taken would be of value only to a limited number of famers.

pire, and the Imperial Court at Pekin is in a Sorry Plight, Not Knowing Where to Go When It Flees From That City.

A dispatch from Pekin, China, says the legations consider that the end of the Manchu dynasty is imminent. There seems no hope of saving even a nominal throne. The provinces north of the Yang-Tse are now declaring for a republic.

The only force of Mancha troops large enough to cope with the local situation is in Peking, but there are indications tonight that the capital will be surrounded before many days by Chinese soldiers.

Where the Court will take refuge is a question. There are evidences that the Court intended to proceed to Chang Kia Kau (Kalgan.)

Troops guarding the route to that town, which lies in the province of Chi Li. 125 miles northwest of Peking, were expected to dynamite the tunnel after the passage of the train bearing the Emperor and his household. Reports have now been received that Chang Kai Kau is unsafe. Garrisoned and policed by loyal forces, Peking remained Tuesday night undisturbed by the rebels. The general feeling of nervousness, however, was betrayed Tuesday afternoon when an accidental fire broke out in the quarters occupied by the board of ceremonies. For a time the Chinese believed the flames were a revolutionary signal fer an uprising, and they were thrown into a panic. The national assembly, by virtue of the powers bestowed upon it by the recent edict, formally appointed Yuan Shi Kai premier. The question of his permanency in the office was discussed, but it was decided that the assembly had no authority to parliament. It was, however, re-gusted with the war and hate the assembly's continued support.
