HOW PAPER CAME TO BE

A Wasp In a Garden Was Inspiration to a Nipponese Who Could Grasp Opportunity.

Long years ago a Japanese walked through his pretty garden to his home. His hands were clasped behind his back and he was thinking as he crossed the bridge to pluck a fresh wisteria blossom that hung just over his head. This little gentleman had a great many parcels to send out from his shop every week, and he had always wrapped them in silk; but this was expensive material and he needed something cheaper for his purpose. All at once a wasp came flitting toward him, but he thrust it away that it might not nip his nose, and lo! there at his hand was a wasp's nest! It was made of thin wood pulp, softened into a thin paste by the jaws of the insect, then formed and left to dry.

"Why can't I do that same thing?" thought the Japanese merchant. "Get certain wood, form it into a pulp by means of water from the river and make something like this wasp's nest in consistency to wrap about my packages." So this was the way paper was first discovered: A wasp flew across the path of a man who walked one day in a vine-clad garden of old Japan.—Kam's Horn.

SURELY HAD KICK COMING

Conductor's Words Must Have Made Dark Clouds Settle Around Would-Be Passenger.

He was in an outlying part of the Bronx. He had an important engagement in the lower part of Manhattan and already he was late. Finally a trolley car hove in sight and bore rapidly down on him.

He signaled it, but in his dismay the speed was not slackened. There was a second of anxious thought—should he or should he not jump on the car—the speed was great, but so was the distance between cars.

And then came the back platform of the car, and he shot out his arm, clutching the hand rail—and the next instant he was standing on the platform, feeling as though his arm had been yanked from its socket, but wearing a self-satisfied smile.

The conductor, inside the car, pulled the bell and the car stopped.

"Hey! Get off of here!" shouted the conductor. "This is a work car."—New York Press.

We try to sympathize with our dumb animals in their afflictions, but somehow it is rather difficult for us to feel very sorry for the common house fly who ventures too far into our paste pot.—Ohio State Journal.

WHY NOT LET THAT SOMEONE BE YOU?

Here's a tip— This year, don't buy an UNCLASSIFIED PLEBIAN Overcoat that smacks of the factory—buy one of our $15.00, $18.00, or $20.00 Overcoats and have that much besought "gentleman's air."

In our stock of Overcoats you see superb assortments of sharply, classified styles—a splendid array of fabrics made up in styles "just" right for the wearer.

Academy of Music

One Night, Wednesday, November 22

A play of city life by Edgar Selwyn. With a big company and production.

You will be very sorry if you miss this dramatic treat.

The Richmond Times-Dispatch, Oct. 21, said of this company and play: "An excellent performance of a famous comedy. For straight comedy, pure and undefiled for character drawing so perfect that the people portrayed in the play are simply men and women whom most of us have seen and known; for cleverness and wit without a suggestive phrase---give me 'The Country Boy.'"
