

SONS AND DAUGHTERS OF THE CONFEDERACY

THE TWO ORGANIZATIONS JOINED IN A RECEPTION TUESDAY EVENING.

The Veterans Were Honored Guests—An Interesting and Inspiring Program Was Carried Out.

Most of them who yet survive are fast approaching the brink of the river which flows between time and eternity—the heroes in gray who, in the morning of their lives, fresh with hope and confident in a courage inspired by principle born of truth and justice, went forth to battle for Southern rights; whose noon-tide dazzled a world with its kindling glory; whose evening, ushered upon them in the deep gloom which enshrouded Appomattox, has been spent and is now being spent in the work of building a new South upon the ruins of the old—a new South, retaining all that was noblest and sweetest in the old, and yet an inseparable part of a united country which is today leading the world in material progress and in all the arts and sciences.

It is well for the future of the Southland and of the American nation, it is well for the valor of American arms and the glory of American achievements, that their deeds shall not be forgot, that their children have determined that the memory of the days from '61 to '65, and from '65 to '76 shall ever be fresh and cherished sweetly. It is due them and due the future; for there is no brighter page in the history of nations than was writ by the struggle of the Southern legions, and the record of a great people's glorious past can but inspire their children to noble endeavors and grand achievements.

In the hospitable home of Mr. Fred. H. Dominick, draped with the red and white of the Southern Confederacy, and banked with palms and ferns and roses kissed into beautiful bloom by soft Southern breezes, the Drayton Rutherford Chapter Daughters of the Confederacy and the John M. Kinard Camp Sons of Confederate Veterans met on Tuesday evening for social intercourse and to further the great cause in which they are enlisted. The members of the James D. Nance Camp were honored guests.

This is the first of a series of meetings by which it is hoped to lend a fresh enthusiasm in the great work in which the Sons and Daughters have enlisted themselves. It is proposed to hold these meetings monthly or quarterly.

The reception on Tuesday evening was well attended. The guests were cordially received by the members of the home. At the conclusion of the program which had been arranged light refreshments were served, and the whole evening was spent most pleasantly and most profitably.

Mr. Fred H. Dominick cordially welcomed those present and announced that Mr. J. J. McSwain, of Greenville, Commander-in-Chief of the South Carolina Division U. S. V., who had been invited to be present, had found at the last moment that it would be impossible for him to attend. Commander McSwain regretted very much this inability to attend and expressed his best wishes for a very happy meeting.

Mr. Dominick introduced those on the program.

Miss Mazie Dominick very gracefully rendered several piano selections.

COL. HUNT'S ADDRESS.

Col. W. H. Hunt was introduced and made a talk which dealt more especially with the history of local men in the great conflict, and incidents and anecdotes of the Newberry county and the South Carolina troops. The address was appropriate and interesting and very highly appreciated.

Miss Susie Summer delighted the audience with a beautifully rendered solo appropriate to the occasion, and was followed by Miss Bernice Martin in a recitation. Miss Martin chose a selection dealing with the martyrdom of the heroic Sam Davis, and the rendition was with much feeling and effect. Mrs. Jas. A. Burton followed with a piano selection, "Song of the Sixties", a medley of Southern war songs and soft Southern melodies.

Mrs. Robert D. Wright read a paper written by Mrs. Eugene B. Gary, of Abbeville, on the organization and objects of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Mr. Eugene Boozer sang "Sentinel Asleep." Mr. Boozer with his rich baritone voice captivated his audience and at their urgent request repeated the song later in the evening.

COMMANDER KINARD'S ADDRESS.

Mr. John M. Kinard, Division Commander of the South Carolina Division of Sons, was introduced and made an address pleading for earnest work among the Sons and Daughters, for loyalty to the cause, and closing with an appeal for earnest effort in the work of the erection of a monument to the women of the South.

Commander Kinard said that this joint meeting of the Daughters and Sons had been suggested, he believed by the Sons, in order that they might in some measure at least imbibe the enthusiasm and activity that had characterized the Daughters.

No chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy, no camp of the Sons of Veterans, he said, would amount to more than the rainbow after the storm—beautiful, but soon vanished—if it had not a distinct and positive object and pursued that object persistently and vigorously. We must see to it that there is no further perversion of the history of the war. Already the school books our children study have the Northern setting of history and it now seems that the last act of reconstruction may be the distortion of history under the ruthless lines of the conqueror's pen. We must see to it that no surviving Confederate soldier shall spend the remnant of his days in want of the necessities of life. It is a sad reflection upon the young manhood of this generation that they are so lax in interest and allegiance to the blessed cause for which our fathers fought so nobly and died so willingly. Are we not untrue to the high and noble heritage of our ancestors if we do not band ourselves together with hooks of steel to perpetuate the valor and heroism of the Confederate soldier and combat the insidious reflection that our war was rebellion and treason, our soldiers rebels and traitors?

Commander Kinard cited the incident of the school-girl of Louisville, Ky., thirteen years of age, who refused to sing "Marching Through Georgia," at the command of her Yankee teacher, and who in appreciation of her loyalty had been elected honorary member of many camps throughout the South and showered with honors. What an incentive, said Commander Kinard, this incident should be to each one of us not to participate in; nor countenance any disloyalty to our cause.

Some one has said our Southern ancestors loved liberty and feared God. They were devoted to those liberties which their forefathers had wrung from King John and King George, they aspired to establish a Confederate government which was in its very essence a pure republic, and was in the direction of more perfect liberty of the citizen and the State. The civil war was not a conspiracy of leaders. It was not a rebellion. It was a revolution in that it was a thorough uprising of the people. It was a crisis in which the people took charge and wrung the States out of the Union. Constitutional liberty was theirs and they dared to maintain it by the arbitrament of war. I appeal to every son and daughter to uphold the unconquered, undefiled principles of the Confederacy.

"No nation rose so white, so fair,
None fell so pure of crime."

Before I close let me make one appeal to the chivalry and patriotism of the young men of the South. It is to build one more monument and crown the top with the beautiful figure and angelic face of Woman. The true chivalry and patriotism of the manhood of the South will not be recorded by the future historian until we raise this monument in commemoration of the hardships, the loving ministrations and the heroism of the Confederate women. Companions in suffering, they ought to be companions in glory.

"DIXIE!"

At the conclusion of Commander Kinard's address, all standing sang "Dixie", led by Mrs. T. O. Stewart than whom there is no one more earnest in loyalty to the cause.

A WOMAN'S BACK

The aches and pains will disappear if the advice of this Newberry citizen is followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains. Most times 'tis the kidneys' fault. Backache is really kidney ache; That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Newberry women know this. Read what one has to say about it: Mrs. J. M. Wheeler residing at Prosperity S. C. says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills for my kidneys which had bothered me for a long time and they did me a great amount of good. I had a terrible pain through my loins and down my limbs so severe at times that I could scarcely get about, and my rest was disturbed during the night on account of the too frequent action of the kidney secretions. I used any number of kidney remedies and had a physician attend me but nothing seemed to do me any good. My son-in-law who lives in Newberry seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and hearing them spoken of so highly, went to W. E. Pelham & Son's drug store got a box and sent them to me, requesting me to try them. I did so and the result was very gratifying, indeed. The use of two boxes regulated the action of the secretions from the kidneys and caused the backache to disappear. I can and have already recommended this medicine to my friends and will continue to do so for the pills are worthy of all I could say in their favor."

For sale by all dealers. Price 60 cents, a box. For Meridian Co. Buffalo, N. Y. sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitutes.
