FELDER FEELING FINE.

Says the State Will Recover Large Amount of Money From Richland Distilling Company.

Columbia, April 12.—It is known, and practically admitted by the attorneys for the dispensary commission that the Richland Distilling company, of this city, which did a business with the old State dispensary to the extent of nearly $4,000,000, and against which was found an over-judgment for over $670,000, has, through its representatives, made overtures for a settlement, which would be a substantial gain for the State.

Col. T. B. Felder, of the firm of Anderson, Felder, Wilson and Roundtree, of Atlanta, who has represented the State in the litigation incident to the winding up of the affairs of the old State dispensary, is in Columbia for the purpose of meeting the commission at its session to be held Wednesday. When asked concerning the negotiations for settlements by the Richland Distilling company he would neither deny or affirm the above statement. He did admit that the State would get a large sum of money from the Richland Distilling company.

The commission, at its meeting to be held Wednesday, will go deeper into the affairs of the old State dispensary, and the overcharges before the commission took the affairs of the institution in hand, will be considered.

It is likely that suits will be instituted against several of the firms unless the amount found due in the books is paid. The amount claimed by the State is over $500,000. The company has been notified of the intended action of the commission, registered letters having been addressed to the heads of the different houses. The houses have been ordered to produce their books. Representatives of several of the firms have arrived in the city and have filed a denial of the overcharges with the commission. None of these firms have claims against the State as the business with them had been settled before the commission took charge, so it will be seen that the investigation will be different from those in the past. One of the main questions to be decided will be how to collect the claim against a firm which is located outside the State. Attorney General Lyon would not discuss the phase of the question.

Col. Felder's Statement.

"The Richland Distilling company," said Col. Felder, "was organized with the ostensible object of distilling corn whiskeys, the real object was to deal with the South Carolina dispensary, and this is evidenced by the fact that the books will show that the firm did approximately $4,000,000 worth of business with the dispensary during its existence. The Richland Distilling company sold all kinds of whiskeys.

"There is no way of knowing the real stockholders of the concern. But we do know that during the life of the concern the stock was furnished by the Bernheim company of Louisville; Block company, of Macon; Lanahan company, of Baltimore, and James Farnum, of Charleston. The commission in going through the books of the Richland Distilling company found that the State of South Carolina had been overcharged for goods sold to the extent of over $600,000. The claims of the company had already been paid. The commission, to recover this sum, has several courses. The lands and buildings of the company in Richland county have been held up. When this property has been sold if there is not enough money to remunerate the State, then there are several other courses. Suit may be brought against the owners of the company for defrauding the State of South Carolina in their respective States where they reside. The case could be carried to the United States supreme court under the clause which gives a State the right to sue another State or the right for a State to sue an individual.

"Beyond all question or doubt," he continued, "the State of South Carolina will recover a large sum from the Richland Distilling company. I will say that the sum which will be recovered either by litigation or negotiation will be a considerable part of the $670,000. As I have said before, I can make no definite announcement as to the payment of the claim against the Richland Distilling company, by the State, but I will say that the negotiations are pending and there will be some unusual announcements within the next few days. We have the evidence on those fellows and they know it."

Col. Felder was asked if it were not true that the representatives of several of the stockholders in the Richland Distilling company had offered to pay the sum of $100,000 if the State would abandon its claim. He only smiled and said the State would receive a much larger sum.

Capt. W. W. Burley.

ing had a restless night. While sitting in a chair the end came within a minute's warning.

He was a Confederate soldier, a staunch and successful farmer, and a high type of a Christian gentleman.

ACTUAL STARVATION.

Gilder and Weeks Give Facts Regarding Dyspepsia.

Although indigestion and dyspepsia are so prevalent, most people do not thoroughly understand their cause and how to obtain relief. There is no reason why people should not eat anything they desire—if they will only chew it carefully and thoroughly. Many actually starve themselves into sickness through fear of eating every good-looking, good-smelling and good-tasting food, because it does not agree with them.

Dieting can not cure dyspepsia. If we refuse every article of food that disagrees with us, before long we have nothing left, and find ourselves chronic dyspeptics.

We are so confident that we can furnish relief for indigestion and dyspepsia that we promise to supply the medicine free of all cost to every one who uses it according to directions who is not perfectly satisfied with the results. We exact no promises and put no one under any obligation whatever. Surely nothing could be fairer. We are located right here where you live, and our reputation should be sufficient assurance of the genuineness of our offer.

We want every one who is troubled with indigestion or dyspepsia in any form to come to our store and get a box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Take them home, and give them a reasonable trial, according to directions. They are very pleasant to take; they soothe the irritable stomach, strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, promote a healthy and natural bowel action, almost immediately relieve nausea and stomach irritation, produce healthy digestion and assimilation, and promote nutrition.

A 25-cent package of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets furnishes 15 days' treatment. In ordinary cases this is sufficient to produce complete relief. In more chronic cases, a longer treatment, of course, is necessary, and depends upon the severity of the trouble. For such cases we have two larger sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Newberry only at our store, Gilder & Weeks, the Rexall Store.
