

ALL ARMY REGISTRAYTS WILL KNOW THEIR JATUS

Every Red Ink Number Will Be Assigned Place in Line of Liability to Service and Every Man Bearing It Can Tell When He Is Likely to Be Called in.

Washington, July 12-Drawing of lots for the selective draft not only will determine what men are to be called to the color in the first war army but will show in what order the others registered will be liable for service when later armies are organ-

It was revealed tonight that a plan of drawing will be followed under which a definite place in the waiting lists will be given every one of the millions who registered. Those standing at the head of the list in each county or city district will be called first before the examination boards and then the obligation will pass on down the line as long as men are needed.

This does not mean that a separate name or number will be drawn for every one of the country's 9,800,000 registrants. In fact, every number drawn, under the theory of the plan, will represent more than 4,000 men, one for each of the registration districts. Details of the system have not been made public, but an outline of its principal feature follows:

To Go by Numbers.

Every registration board has numbered cards in its possession in red ink, beginning at No. 1, and continuing to a number corresponding with the total in the district.

At the drawing numbers will be used ranging from one up to a number corresponding to the total in the largest district of the country. The first number drawn will detrmine what man in each district is to be taken first. If it be No. 10, for exabple, it will mean that the man in each district holding card no. 10 will be called for examination before any of the other men in that district. The second number drawn will tetermine what man in each district is to be taken second and so on as long as the men are needed. Those not needed for the first war army will retain their positions on the lists and these positions will determine the order of their liability when they are needed.

The drawing will be public and each number will be announced as it is drawn.

Obviously there will be high numbers drawn for which there are no corresponding registrants in small dis-The smallest district in the is understood to have but 127 registrants and the largest 7,000. Whenever a number beyond the total any given district comes out, it will operate as a blank for that district. Thus, if the theory works out evenly, the larger districts will be constantly assessed in excess of the smaller, on a pro rata basis corre ponding to their size.

Drawing Next Week.

The drawing will not take place this week and probably will be held sometime during the week of July 23, according to present indications. Only 34 states have completed the organization of their exemption boards and the posting of red ink numbers.

The drawing probably will be held in the big reception room of the war department, adjoining Secretary Baher's offices. The secretary is wil! ing to do the drawing himself, but that point has not been decided. The president will not take part personally in the drawing.

Officials are unwilling to disclose the details of the drawing itself, but be suggestion which seems to have the most support is that the numbers stamped on thin slips of paper, be inclosed in nontransparent gelatine capsules and placed in a large glass vessel to be removed one at a time by the official designated to do that work. Information so far available indicates that the drawing will work out in this way.

First to Appear.

There are 4,500 exemption districts. When the first number is drawn, say No. 10 it will be recorded as No. 1 with the serial number (10' following. The record will show that the men whose cards bear the serial No. 10 in each of 4,500 exemption districts would be first to appear before the exemption boards. Presumably the announcement made at the drawing would be "No. 1-serial No. 10." It is assumed that when the drawing ic complete the government will compute how many men are represented by No. 1, in the drawing and the succeeding number immediately and will issue orders for enough to report to make the total desired for the first army. For instance, the first call might be for No. 1, to 100 in all districts. When the first exemption came in each district, No. 101 would be called and so on.

To prevent embarrassment along those who are exempt the war department has decided to give with each exemption certificate a bronze badge bearing the inscription "Exempted

The law specifies that exemptions are not permanent unless the cause for which they are granted is permanent. For instance, if a man should be exempted on the first call because of a dependent relative and that relative should die or become self-supporting before the second call, the registrant would be liable for service.

Woman Finally Recovers From Nervous Breakdown

Impoverished nesves destroy many people before their time. Often before a sufferer realizes what the trouble is, he is on the verge of a complete nervous breakdown. It is of the utmost importance to keep your nervous system in good condition, as the nerves are the source of all bodily power. Mrs. Rosa Bonner, $25 N. 18th St., Birmingham, Ala., says:

"I have been suffering with nervous prostration for nine or ten years. Have tried many of the best doctors in Bismingham, but they all failed to reach my case. I would feel as if I was smothering; finally I went into convulsions. My little

Prepared for Trouble.

At 6:30 o'clock special newspaper editions containing a proclamation by Sheriff Wheeler ordering women and children to keep off the streets during the day and instructing deputies to arrest disturbers of the peace were circulated.

Simultaneosuly five bands of armed citizens suddenly appeared. Some hurried from alleys, others from store rooms and some sprung from low roofs of business buildings. All marched to the centre of the town.

Every strange man on the streets was challenged.

"Hold on stranger, what's your business?" "What are you doing in Bisbee? and "How long have you been here?" were some of the questions asked by little groups as they surrounded each man. Every suspicious looking individual was placed
