CHANGE NAME OF LENOIR TO DANIEL RHYNE COLLEGE

Lutherans Honor Name of Great Benefactor—Gives School $300,000.00

Charlotte Observer.
Hickory, Nov. 16.—In announcing the gift of $300,000 from Daniel E. Rhyme to Lenoir college, on condition that the college raise a proportionate amount, Dr. C. H. Pannekoek of New York told the North Carolina synod of the United Lutheran Church of America, now in session at Kings Mountain, that this is the second largest gift ever made by any Lutheran to the work of the church, and the largest gift ever received by the southern Lutheran church.

The board of directors of the college recommended to the synod that the name of the institution be changed to "Daniel Rhyme college." This will be the first institution in the Lutheran church to be named after an individual benefactor.

Native North Carolinian
Daniel E. Rhyme is a native of North Carolina, a descendant from the old Palatinate stock. He was born 69 years ago, in Mecklenburg county. He started with little education in the cotton mill business and was markedly successful. His original mill properties, the Laboratory mills, outside of Lincoln, have become famous.

For some years Mr. Rhyme has taken a growing interest in Lenoir college, and the training of boys and girls not likely in the ordinary run of life to secure an education. In 1919 he gave Lenoir college $100,000, on condition that a total of $300,000 be raised. He has watched with keen interest the remarkable growth of the institution since that time.

In making the gift, he stated: "I feel that I can do nothing finer in my life than to see that for years to come boys and girls of North Carolina have a chance for a Christian education, and I especially receive that the poorer boys and girls receive such a chance. Our state has a splendid future. I don't doubt but that it will be the leading state in the South. In order to be that we must not only make investments in material things, but we must now make investments in the far more important things of Christian character and training."

Outside of Lenoir college, Mr. Rhyme has done a great deal for Lutheran churches and other church enterprises throughout the south. His total gifts to the Lutheran church in the last four years are considerably beyond a half million dollars.

Elaborate plans are under way to develop Lenoir college into one of the strongest, if not the strongest, Lutheran church in America.

A Most Notable Gift
Dr. Pannekoek, in announcing the gift to the synod, said: "This gift will enable Lenoir college to become the standard college of the Lutheran church in America. It means a statesmanlike development that will give Lenoir a commanding position in our church. It is an appealing thought to think that the south, considered poor by our northern church, should thus take the lead."

"Inevitably, too, this development of Lenoir will advance the cause of every Lutheran college. Christian education is the life and future of our church. We are just beginning to realize its importance. Nothing could so have helped the band of men fighting for standards in the educational work of our church as this definite and unlooked for advance in a section from which it was least expected."

"For the Southern Lutheran church this gift is historic. It means power, growth, influence in this important period of the south such as nothing else could have given. The South has awakened. It is advancing faster than any part of our land. It will continue to do so. A church which does not grow with that advance will be hopelessly left behind. Lenoir college is enabled to become a strategic center in the life and future of the Southern Lutheran church."

Misses Lola Floyd, Ida Mae Sizer and Mary Werts spent the week-end with Miss Alma Floyd.

THE TAX BOOKS ARE READY FOR COLLECTION

County Treasurer C. C. Schumpert collected around $1350 the first day the tax books were open, Wednesday, the 15th. The first to pay were three from the lower section of the county, Mr. R. J. Stoumenayer, Mr. F. S. Counts and Mrs. Lillia Crofter.

Little Girl Killed by Accident
Mrs. Jno. C. Hipp and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Hipp were called Saturday to Bessemer City, N. C., to attend the funeral of little Alice Hipp, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Kennedy, Mrs. Kennedy being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. C. Hipp, Mr. Hipp being unable to go on account of his illness. The little girl was playing around a new sewer ditch being opened up near the home. She fell into the ditch and accidentally pulled a piece of heavy piping, which fell and struck her on the chest. She was rushed to a hospital, but all efforts were unavailing. News of this sad accident was received with sorrow in Newberry and the grief-stricken relatives of the little girl have the deepest sympathy of all in the great affliction that has so suddenly come upon them.

SOUTH LUTHERAN SYNOD TO MEET AT PROSPERITY

Prosperity, Nov. 18.—The 89th annual convention of the South Lutheran synod will be held at Prosperity, opening Monday night at 7:50 o'clock. The opening sermon will be by the president, Rev. H. J. Black of Columbia.

The president's report at the session Tuesday morning will bring before the body some important matters for consideration, while the committee on synodical relations will likely report something further in regard to the final organic union of all Lutherans in South Carolina. This committee has been considering this important matter and has had it under advisement since last meeting of the synod. The Lutherans in North Carolina and one of the conferences of the old Tennessee synod is in South Carolina. They have been considering the question of becoming a part of the South Carolina synod for a number of years and it is probable that this plan may be consummated. There has been a desire in the minds of a number of church workers to establish a place somewhere in the mountain section of North or South Carolina for a summer assembly of Christian workers, where recreation for body and soul may be found in the vacation period of the year. A committee has this matter under advisement and will probably have some report or recommendation to make at this session of synod.

A number of visiting ministers will be present from the various parts of the United Lutheran church. The Rev. Charles S. Baudin, D. D., will speak on "Education," while the Rev. A. D. R. Hancher will be heard on the missionary activity of the church in the home field. The Rev. William A. Treas will speak on "Inner Missions" and Dr. George Drach will have an address on "Foreign Missions."

Reports from the various boards of the church will be heard. The Sunday schools of the church have recently been asked to raise $15,000 for the erection of two professors' houses in Eau Claire, Columbia, and the work of construction is going on. This will add two handsome residences to the seminary property. The workmen have completed one of these dwellings and the other will soon be ready for occupancy.

FIGHT ON WEEVIL REGISTERS GAINS

Experiment Station to Be Established at Florence in Cooperation With Clemson College

The State, 18.
Three items in the news today illustrate the need for uniformity in methods of boll weevil control and the fact that leaders in the fight are aware of that need and are moving energetically toward solving the problem:

1. The federal government announces that in cooperation with Clemson college it will establish at Florence in this state a boll weevil experimental station for the Southeast.
2. Governor Harvey's committee of agricultural extension experts and planters will meet at noon today in the state library to draft a brief program for thorough distribution which will represent the farming practice shown to be best now for South Carolina under boll weevil conditions.
3. A conference is called to meet in Washington Monday to work out an agreement among all the interests concerned as to the best varieties, the best planting time, methods, etc.

To Experiment at Florence

Hugh W. Roberts in The State.
Washington, Nov. 17.—The government will establish a cooperative boll weevil experimental station at Florence, S. C., which, it is contemplated, will deal specifically with conditions in the South Atlantic and Gulf states, as the station at Tallulah, La., deals with conditions in Louisiana and Texas.

Announcement to this effect was made this evening, following a conference between W. M. Riggs, president of Clemson college, and the secretary of agriculture, with L. O. Howard, chief of the bureau of entomology, and E. D. Bell, director of agricultural research, department of agriculture, also participating.

The new station will be organized by the transference of experts and equipment from the Tallulah station. It will have access to the laboratories of Clemson college and will be operated in conjunction with the Pee Dee station of that college, located at Florence.

Dr. Riggs said tonight that the plan for the department constituted "big" news for the entire South, inasmuch as it is recognized that the weevil imposes a financial loss on the cotton producer of approximately $500,000,000 a year. He explained that all theories relating to boll weevil extinction and all methods in vogue, including those partially successful and those which have not been thoroughly tried, would be elaborated and subjected to the most trying tests.

Dr. Riggs declared that the government experts are keenly alive to the menace to the South represented by the boll weevil and are hopeful that as a result of extensive investigations, both in Tallulah and Florence, a perfect boll weevil remedy will be evolved.

Washington, Nov. 17.—The cotton conference, which will discuss all phases of the cotton situation and make an effort to unify the various recommendations being made by the different states and the federal government towards assisting cotton growers in combating the problems arising out of the boll weevil menace, will be held in connection with the meeting of the Land Grant College association here, begin Monday.

The boll weevil problem will be one-third solved, in the opinion of government officials, if agreement can be reached by the various interests on uniform varieties and time of planting and the recommendations followed by growers. Methods now recommended for controlling boll weevils under different conditions will be discussed by the conference, but no attempt will be made to dispose of the various problems finally at the Washington conference. Its work is intended to pave the way for another meeting later, in which all interests involved will be represented.

Dr. H. A. Morgan, president of the University of Tennessee, who originated the idea of the Washington conference, believes that unity in the methods recommended by state and

SUDDEN DEATH OF J. ROLAND DICKERT

The State, 20th.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the home, 2491 Main street, for James Roland Dickert, well known Southern railway conductor, who died suddenly Saturday afternoon near Strother. Interment will be in Elmwood cemetery.

Mr. Dickert died while returning from a hunting trip by boat. He was accompanied by his little grandson, Roland Dickert Jolly.

Mr. Dickert was born August 1, 1858, at Craven Hill, the family home, in Newberry county. He was the son of the late Kate Cromer Dickert and Col. David Augustus Dickert, Confederate war veteran, and author of "The History of Kershaw's Brigade." Mr. Dickert spent his early boyhood near the scene of his death. He was a student at Newberry college and at the University of South Carolina.

At the age of 20 he married Mrs. Leila Martin of Monticello. For several years he was a teacher, afterwards entering the railroad business and became manager of the Union & Glenn Springs railroad at Union, where he resided for a number of years. Leaving the railroad he entered the mercantile business, conducting one of the largest stores in Union. The last years of his life were spent in Columbia. At the time of his death he was a conductor on the Southern railway. In connection with his other business he owned large farming interests in Newberry county, besides managing the estate of his step-sister at Newberry.

Since boyhood Mr. Dickert's life was consecrated to the service of others. He was a man of the highest Christian character and beloved by all who knew him. The negroes on his plantation and that of his sister also loved their "Cap'n," as they affectionately called him. Mr. Dickert was a member of the Lutheran church. He was a member of the Order of Railway Conductors, of the Woodmen of the World and the Knights of Pythias, who will conduct services at his funeral this afternoon.

Mr. Dickert is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. L. J. McConnell of Georgetown and Mrs. H. M. Jolly of Vicksburg, Miss.; three grandchildren, his step-mother, Mrs. D. A. Dickert, and his step-sister, Mrs. W. H. Suber of Newberry; a step-brother, C. M. Coleman of Camden, and two sisters, Miss Lucile Dickert of Newberry and Mrs. Amos S. Welis of Minneapolis, Minn.

"HOME COMING DAY" FOR PRESBYTERIANS

Former Students Return to Clinton For Thanksgiving Day—Come With Newberry

Clinton, Nov. 19.—From all parts of the state former students of Presbyterian College of South Carolina are expected to flock back here on Thanksgiving, which has been designated as "home coming day" by the Alumni association of the local college.

In addition to the tender memories that cluster about the days spent on the local campus, which will be revived by a visit here, the date selected is the one for the annual battle between the Presbyterian college and Newberry football teams.

And everyone who has been a student at P. C. knows what rivals among the colleges of the Palmetto state. Other colleges may outgrow their rivals or change from year to year but P. C. and Newberry, it would seem, will always be friendly rivals in every variety.

Federal governments for combating the pest is a most important step in the boll weevil fight.

Dr. Morgan has made three trips through the South for the government, studying boll weevil conditions.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS PROSPEROUS PROSPERITY

Prosperity, Nov. 20.—As a parting tribute to the Rev. J. D. Griffin who leaves this week to assume the pastorate of the Methodist church of Ninety Six, preaching was dispensed with at the other churches of Prosperity Sunday evening in order that all the congregations could attend his farewell service at the Methodist church. Rev. Griffin had as his text, "I commend you unto God and the word of his grace which is able to build you up and give you an inheritance among the sanctified," the text being taken from Paul's farewell discourse to the church of Miletus. After this most excellent sermon, Rev. J. A. McKeown of the A. R. P. church, Rev. S. W. Hahn of the Lutheran and Rev. J. E. Williams of the Baptist made short talks, voicing their estimate of the value of Rev. Griffin's work and influence in Prosperity. Approach of the time when Rev. Griffin will leave causes genuine and widespread regret here. His popularity is bounded, not by the congregation of the Methodist church but extends to members of every denomination who recognize in him an able minister and upstanding man, a consecrated soldier of righteous and an uncompromising foe of evil. His influence here has been an uplifting force that will continue and endure after his departure and that even the passing years will not efface. He will carry with him into Ninety Six the very best wishes of all the people of Prosperity who hope for him in his new field of labor the same measure of success that has rewarded his efforts here. Rev. Griffin has a wife and family who share his popularity here.

The annual thank offering meeting of the Women's Missionary society of Grace church was held Friday afternoon at the Lutheran parsonage and Mrs. S. W. Hahn as hostess. The meeting was led by Mrs. A. N. Crosson who gave a Bible study on Thanksgiving; Mrs. J. A. Price gave a selection, "The Opening of the Alabaster Box at Jesus' Feet;" Mrs. P. C. Singley had as her subject, "What the Thank Offering is and what it does;" Mrs. E. W. Werts gave some direct points on what to be thankful for. Mrs. J. D. On Sabbath morning the A. R. P. church observed "Rally Day" in the Sabbath school, taking as the subject, "Sowing Seed," as the basis of the well planned program. Mr. G. D. Brown presided in his usual happy manner, while the scripture lesson was read by A. N. Crosson, the superintendent of the Sabbath school. The recitations and readings of the children reflected both credit upon themselves and upon those who trained them. The principal addresses were made by Dr. Y. M. Brown and Rev. Jas. A. McKeown. COLUMBIANS HURT AND CAR SMASHED

Orangeburg, Nov. 17.—Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Livingston of Columbia miraculously escaped instant death near Orangeburg last night, when they were returning to Columbia from the Orangeburg fair. Just above the little flag station of Stilton, about three miles to the north of Orangeburg, a portion of the new highway is being constructed to cross the Southern railway by an overhead bridge, the approaches being constructed, but the bridge not built as yet. There was no notice, it is said, or anything to indicate where the new highway left the old or to show that the road was closed to traffic. When Mr. Livingston reached the brink of the 30 foot embankment, the car fell to the railroad track below.

"Today is lucky for the fighter," says a poet. And itself right.
