"AND THEY WERE MARRIED."

THE HAPPY ENDING OF THE PITESI-DENT'S ROMANCE.

The Wedding Ceremonies Performed Last Wednesday Evening-How the Bride Looked. and What She Wore-The Arrival in Wash-

(Special Dispatch to the News and Courler.) Washington, June 2.—Miss Fo'som arrived here this morning at 5.30 o'clock accompanied by her mother and cousins, Benjamin Folsom and Mrs. Rodgers. When the train rolled into the Baltimore and Potomac station Miss Cleveland was waiting to receive the bride-elect and her companions. Almost immediately on 6th street. No sooner had this been the masses of crimson roses immediately through the unwilling clouds, until his in one of the cottages attached to the accomplished, when Albert drew his handsome turnout up to the car steps. Miss Cleveland stepping out entered the car, and, after a hasty chat with the party, reappeared on the platform followed appearance of fatigue, and the brideelect looked especially bright and cheer-

Miss Folsom was plainly and neatly attired in a snug fitting rich black silk walking dress and a close fitting short gray cloth sacque, and carried a natty red umbrella with a dog's head carved on the handle. Her hat was of the walking pattern-a high gray straw-with what appeared to be gull's wings standing upright. The young lady, as she alighted from the car and entered the carriage, took a survey of the surroundings, and appeared perfectly happy in the thought that everything had been so pleasantly arranged for her comfort.

The mother of the bride-elect was tastily dressed in black silk and carried no wraps. Mr. Benj. Folsom wore a as you both shall live?" light-brown overcoat, gray trousers and tall black hat. When the party was comfortably seated in the carriage the door was slammed shut, and, as is their custom at this signal, the spirited horses darted off like a shot and took the most direct route to the Executive Mansion through the Smithsonian and Monument grounds. They entered the Mansien by the southern entrance, a canopy having been erected over the stairway by which they ascended to the main floor. They passed in through the Blue parlor, and Miss Folsom went immediately upstairs to the apartments prepared for her.

SCENES ABOUT THE WHITE HOUSE. The White House has been closed today to all persons, excepting those on official business. Down-stairs the florists have been in control of the Blue, Red and Green parlors and the East room, and only those engaged in the work of decorating were allowed to pass beyond the vestibule. The stairway leading upstairs to the official part of the Mansion was also closed against casual callers and newspaper men. The latter were admitted to the vestibute, but that was as far as they were allowed to roam. Your correspondent succeeded in gaining admission to Col. Pruden's office upstairs upon assuring the usher that his errand had nothing to do with the wedding. The clerical force was at work as if nothing extraordinary was on hand. Col. Pruden came from the President's private office bearing sundry executive communications to Congress, including approved bills and veto messages on pension bills. A clerk from the postoffice department was also present to request the signature of the President to a number of postmasters' commissions. About noon, while the vestibule on the first floor swarmed with newspaper men, florists and ushers, the big glass doors leading into the private parlors opened. and out walked the President. He proceeded to the front door, entered his carriage, which was waiting for him, and drove off toward the northwest. He was absent nearly an hour, and when he returned it was said that he had taken a ride to quiet his nerves. Although the President usually shaves himself he did not care to take any chances with the wedding shave. Throughout the entire day messengers were continually arrivthe bride.

HOW THE MARRIAGE CEREMONY WAS PER-FORMED.

About half-past 6 o'clock the wedding guests began to arrive, their carriages rolling up to the main door of the Mansion through the great iron gates on Pennsylvania avenue. The first arrival was Secretary Lamar at 6.37. He was closely followed by the Rev. Dr. Sunderland and wife, and during the next few minutes there came in quick succession Postmaster General Vilas and wife and Wilson S. Bissell, Secretary and Mrs. Whitney, and Secretary Manning acter, and, in the language of one of the and wife. Removing their wraps in the oldest employees, "It never presented a State dining-room, all the guests proceeded to the Blue room, where they public gardens in the city and many were received by Miss Rose Cleveland.

gaily, but conversation was quickly suspended at 7.15, p. m., when the selected fragrance to the scene. Of course the orchestra from the Marine Band, station- Blue room, where the ceremony was ed in the corridor, struck up the familiar performed, occupied the principle at string of brilliants. The presents from strains of the wedding march from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream," and all eyes were turned to the doorway to catch the first glimpse of the coming bride and groom. Starting from the western corridor on the upper floor the tropical grasses and an endless variety of matrons gossipped as they passed along versal commendation and compliment. choice flowers. A crystal chandelier the streets, and bevies of laughing girls poured a flood of mellow radiance upon chatted and speculated about the coming the scene, and the colors of the massive | momentous ceremonies. banks of scarlet begonias and royal If there be any truth in the ancient the private car of President Roberts was delicate ivory shades of the bride's wed- older the elements seemed to relent, and disconnected and transferred to a siding ding gown found an exquisite setting in little by little the sun forced his rays studs.

Dr. Sunderland stepped forward to his ored home of the Presidents, crystallizof the party. The travelers showed no position, fronting the wedding couple, ing in prismatic hues the sparkling spray President's brother) at his left hand. the foliage of the grand old trees. In a distinct tone of voice and with de- The still and murky haze of the early liberate utterance the Doctor began the afternoon had now wholly given place to simple and beautiful wedding service, clear skies and warm southerly zephyrs, after the reading of which he turned to while yellow sunbeams flitted through the bride and groom and said:

right hands." (Groom and bride joined to attract attention, spouting its cooling hands.) "Grover," said the minister, spray to the verge of its granite basin. nance in the holy estate of wedlock? Do moved by the common sympathy which you promise to love her, cherish, comfort stirs the romanic susceptibilities of sixty and keep her in sickness and in health, millions of people, took winding walks in joy and in sorrow, and, forsaking all into the line of the evening promenade others, keep you only unto her so long and speculated upon the emotions which

The groom (firmly:) "I do." Dr. Sunderland: "Frank, do you take this man whom you hold by the hand to of the White House, the assemblage was be your lawful wedded husband, to live thoroughly democratic, and ragged urholy estate of wedlock? Do you promise natty-looking young gentlemen and to love him, honor, comfort and keep ladies in silk attire. The gates were left him in sickness and in health, in joy and in wide open, and by 6 o'clock the crowd sorrow, and forsaking all others keep had swollen to several hundred, and a you only unto him so long as you both shall live?"

The bride responded in a low, but portico. clear, voice: "I do."

Dr. Sunderland (solemnly:) "Forasagreed and covenanted to live together the outside crowd, "The service has beafter God's ordinance in the holy estate of wedlock, and have confirmed the same by giving and taking the wedding ring; of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, I pro- by one the lights sprang up at the winnounce and declare that they are hus- dows, and the great burners on the band and wife; and what God hath joined together let not man put asunder." The Rev. Mr. Cleveland then pronounced the following benediction: "God the Father, God the Son, and music. God the Holy Ghost, bless, preserve and keep you; the Lord mercifully fill you with all temporal and all spiritual blessings, and grant that you may so live together in this world that in the world to come you may have life everlasting.

CONGRATULATIONS.

At the conclusion of the ceremony emotion, was the first to tender her congratulations to the newly married pair. fitting display of the ladies' toilets.

WHAT THE BRIDE WORE. razor to-day, so the Executive barber dress of ivory satin, simply garnished on them a final "God-speed" from the rear was permitted to give the President his a high corsage, with India muslin crossed porch. It was expected that the Presiin Grecian folds and carried in exquisite dent would try to slip away unobserved ding presents. One from Mrs. Postmas- upon the veil, in a superb coronet, was the southwest entrance to the grounds ter General Vilas was a small square continued throughout the costume with with carriages convenient to follow the package wrapped in white paper and artistic skill. Her veil was of tulle, President in case he should make his tied with a broad satin ribbon. It was about five yards in length, completely exit by that gate. This was reported to accompanied by a note of congratula- enveloping her and falling to the edge the President, so he instructed his driver tions. All the presents were sent up- of the petticoat in front and extending to go out of the grounds by another and stairs to be opened at the discretion of the entire length of her full court train. almost unused route, and in that way he your father failing in one of them." and a plain gold wedding ring, which had been placed on her finger before she descended the staircase.

and conversation, to the family diningroom of the Mansion, where the wedding supper was served.

A BOWER OF BEAUTY.

The decorations of the Executive Mansion to-night were of an elaborate charhandsomer appearance." The various private conservatories here and in other For a few minutes the guests chatted cities contributed their choicest plants and flowers to lend their beauty and tention of the decorators. Their work was certainly well done. It was transformed into a veritable bower of beauty. "BLESSED IS THE BRIDE WHOM THE SUN

> SHINES ON. Other weddings there have been at the jaqueminet roses, mingling with the blue adage, a happy bride will reign in the and silver tints of the frescoed walls and White House; for though the day opened ceiling, gave a warm and glowing tone with a gray and cheerless sky and shadto the whole brilliant interior. The ows resting on the earth, yet as it grew beyond. The President was in full broad beams fell in generous abundance evening dress, with turn-down collar, on the soft, green sward of the trim park white lawn necktie and white enamelled encompassing the White House, bringing out in high relief the simple yet A hush fell upon the assemblage as stately white columns of the time-hon-

ou will signify the same by joining your neath. The great fountain did its best will be given out for publication. 'do you take this woman whom you hold | The seats in the park across the avenue by the hand to be your lawful wedded were occupied by lawn-clad maidens, vife—to live together after God's ordi- while half the young lovers in town, are supposed to fill the hearts of the bride and groom.

On the asphalt walks, near the portico together after God's ordinance in the chins and slip-shod colored girls jostled score or more of newspaper men held the point of vantage along the side of the

Suddenly the strains of the wedding march floated through the open windows, much as Grover and Frank have here and there was a general exclamation from gun!" Then there came a tantalizing hush within the walls, which was soon ended by the strains of the bridal cborus now, therefore, in the presence of this from "Lohengrin," and it was thereby company, in the name of the Father and known that the ceremony was over. One asphalt, a scene which resembled a summer night's festival, and the crowd gave itself up to the enjoyment of delightful

THE DEPARTURE FOR DEER PARK.

There was no formal order observed in the supper room, but the collation was served, and the guests sat at small tables or promenaded as they discussed the menu and talked over the event of the evening. The elegant souvenirs of satin boxes, containing dainty slices of bridal cake and each one bearing a hand-paint-Mrs. Folsom, showing traces of deep ed monogram "C. F.," were received with great admiration. While the orchestra was playing one of its happiest She was followed by Miss Cleveland, the selections, and the guests were gathered Rev. Mr. Cleveland and the other rela- about the tables, the bride quietly slipped tives and friends in turn. While the away to her room and changed her wedcongratulations were in progress the ding dress for a heavy gray silk traveling band, under the leadership of Professor dress. She then returned to her com-Soussa, performed the bridal chorus and pany and was soon afterward joined by march from "Lohengrin," and to this the President, who had also changed his music the President and his bride led the dress suit for a traveling costume. This way into the stately East room. The was about 8.30, and the President and his adornments of this noble hall were in bride said a hasty "good-bye" to their keeping with its majestic proportions, friends and left the house through the and its ample space and brilliant illumi- private exit from the Red room into the nation afforded an opportunity for a south ground. A closed carriage awaited them, and as they entered and the horses started off a shower of rice was thrown The bride wore an enchanting wedding on the carriage and their friends waved fall of simplicity over a petticoat. An and in order to prevent this a number of orange blossom garniture, commencing newspaper men stationed themselves near She carried no flowers and wore no avoided the reporters altogether. His jewelry except the engagement ring, con- carriage was driven direct to the Baltitaining a sapphire and two diamonds, more and Ohio Railroad station where a special train was in waiting to take the President and his bride to Deer Park. They were escorted through the station From the East room the company pro- and into the car provided for them withceeded, after a season of promenading out attracting attention, and at 9 o'clock the train started off to its destination. The President and his bride were wholly unaccompanied on this journey. They will probably remain at Deer Park about a week, during which time they will occupy a small cottage attached to the hotel, which has not yet opened for the

THE WEDDING PRESENTS.

The wedding presents were many but they were not exhibited, nor will any list be furnished. This is in deference to the wishes of the President. The groom's gift to his bride was a handsome diamond necklace composed of a single the Cabinet officers and their wives were mostly articles of jewelry, though there were several beautiful presents of silver-

THEY DID NOT KISS THE BRIDE. Contrary to expectation the President by the government.

President came slowly down the western White House-eight in all-but never wore white gloves at his wedding. The staircase with his bride leaning on his before to-day has the highest dignitary gentlemen present at the wedding were arm. They were unaccompanied, even in the land bowed his head within its not fortunate enough to receive a salute the bride's mother waiting with the other historic walls to receive the blessing of from the bride, who confined her kisses the Church on his union in the holy to the ladies. Otherwise the ceremony Passing through the central corridor bonds of matrimony. From the very was orthodox in form. The arrangethe bride and groom entered the Blue dawn of the wedding day the city seemed ments for the day's event were under the room, and took a position near its south- alive to the approaching event. Little control and personal management of Col. ern wall, which was completely hidden knots of idlers talked it over on the side- Lamont, and they worked so smoothly from sight by a mass of nodding palms, walks and in front of the hotels. Sedate and satisfactorily as to earn for him uni-

> VICTORIA'S BEST WISHES. London, June 2.—The Queen has sent the following cable message to President Cleveland:

> "Please accept my sincere congratulations on your marriage, and my best vishes for your happiness. VICTORIA." DEER PARK, MD., June 3.—President Cleveland and bride arrived here at 4 clock this morning, and are domiciled hotel. There are but few persons here, as there was no knowledge that the bridal party would come. President and Mrs. vedded couple are here.

"If you desire to be united in marriage ing pictures upon the velvety turf be- the country. None of the dispatches nothing. There is a lesson for us.

MANNERS FOR BOYS. Rules of Society that Every Gentle-

Poor fellows! How they get hectored and scolded and snubbed, and how continual is the rubbing and polishing and drilling which every member of the family feels at liberty to administer.

No wonder their opposition is aroused and they begin to feel that every man's hand is against them, when, after all, if they were only, in a quiet way, informed of what was expected of them, and their manliness appealed to, they would readily chough fall into line.

So thought "Auntie M." as she pointed out the following for a little twelve year old nephew, who was the 'light of her eyes," if not always the joy of her heart, for though a good-natured, amiable boy in the main, he would offend against the 'proprieties" frequently.

First come manners for the street. Hat lifted in saying "good-bye" or

'How do you do?" Hat lifted when offering a scat in a car or in acknowledging a favor.

Keep step with any one you walk with. Always precede a lady up stairs and ask her if you may precede her in passing through a crowd or public place. door and when you step into a private mon salt tends to check an overgrowth think you will regret the venture. Hat off the moment you enter a street hall or office.

Let a lady pass first always unless she ask you to precede her.

In the parlor stand till every lady in the room is seated, also older people. Rise if a lady comes in after you are seated and stand till she takes a seat. Look people straight in the face when peaking or being spoken to. Let ladies pass through a door first, tanding aside for them. In the dining room take your seat ofter ladies and elders. Never play with knife, fork or spoon.

Do not take your napkin in a bunch in your hand. Eat as fast or as slow as others and inish the course when they do.

Rise when ladies leave the room stand till they are out. If all go out together, gentlemen stand

y the door till ladies pass. Special rules for the mouth are that all noise in eating and smaking of the lips should be avoided. Cover the mouth with hand or napkin when obliged to remove anything from

Use your handkerchief unobstrusively always. Do not look toward a bedroom door when passing. Always knock at any private room door. These rules are imperative. There are many other little points which add to the grace of a gentleman, but to break any of these is almost unpardonable. "Did you make up all these rules. auntie?" said Roy, as a copy neatly printed by a type writer was placed in his hands. "Make them up? No. These are just the common rules of society that every gentleman observes. You will not find

"Well, but he is a man," said Roy, deprecatingly. "And do you not wish to be a manly

Roy said nothing, but it was noticed that the rules were placed very carefully in his drawer. Some months have since passed and a intie has had the pleasure of hearing repeatedly the remark, "What a manly thoughtful little nephew you have," as one and another observed his polite and careful attention to others.

Perhaps there are some other boys who will like to cut out these rules and read them over now and then, keeping, or getting some good friend to keep record of their success or short-comings in observance, always remembering that the mothers, sisters and aunties are the "ladies" to whom these attentions should be shown, and not merely to the guest and stranger.—Yonkers Gazette.

Confederate Bonds.

The House Committee on War Claims Judge Fullerton, of New York, repreTHOUGHTS FOR THE MONTH.

SOME SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS FROM HIGH AUTHORITY.

What Work the Good Farmers Should Do in the Month of June -- An Interesting Article

(W L. Jones in the June "Cultivator.") The cultivation of summer crops now the intervention of man. Under like treatment the turnip lost its bulb and formed

Every one with the slightest farming made too late, and after irreparable mis- yet abandoned the latter. chief has been done. Plants never fully means kill it before it has had time to June, and it was fully matured before ful forger left, but instead of going to rob the crop of its plant-food; when the frost. Maturing late it can be kept Judge Ashman he stopped at a place in come up is the time to destroy it. The months, extending the season for feedonly safe rule, therefore, is to run the ing green stuff well into the winter. plows or cultivators at short intervals— Forage corn planted at intervals of two carefully scanning the warrant, discoversuch frequent workings will not be de- month, will keep stock amply supplied in the body of the warrant, while the manded; but during the month of June, with good wholesome feed all through never stop the plows; as soon as the crop autumn, without the necessity of trenchcially is this demanded by cotton. Give is the neglect of such side crops that the City Treasurer calling attention to weed and be ready to take on fruit. hay to be sold in the South. A very antagonistic. Encourage the growing of the forage needed. Recently we prenow by frequent workings, and let it sented the latest testimony and conclugive place to fruiting later in the season. sions about ensilage. It is sufficiently to be pretty well established that com- fill one now and build silo later-I don't of straw in small grains; it may possibly Last year, whilst laying by some have a similar effect on the production of excessive weed in cotton. The matter is worthy of experimental trial. Mr. Dickson, whose intentions were very remarkable, and whose insight into manur-salt in his compound. immediate growth, it contributes also to fruiting by increasing the supply of of the pea interfere with the pulling of plant-food in the soil. We have repeat- fodder. The bean is very hard and the edly called attention to the necessity of weevil does not seem partial to it. We air in the soil for nitrification to go on. kept the seed two years before planting. Nitrification increases the supply of Ground into meal, there is no more available nitrogen in the soil; plowing nutritious grain to be found. The yield opens the soil, admits the air, and thus is fine, and the bushy habit of growth promotes nitrification. Not only so, the and nutritious quality of the grain comadmission of air generates carbonic acid mend it. Unless cut when young and in the soil, and carbonic acid is the great green it would make poor forage as the solvent of mineral plant-food also. The stems become very hard and woody with saying, therefore, that "tillage is ma- age. nure" has considerable foundation to As the oats crop was very much killed rest on. It certainly unlocks the -store- by the cold last winter, it is very desirahouses of nature. Well-worked crops ble that all that survived should be carealmost proof against drought.

What are the best implements for this light summer cultivation? The Dickson sweep fifteen or twenty years ago was esteemed the best. It certainly was a great improvement over the shovel, both as regards quantity and quality of work. Mr. Dickson insisted that they should be heavy, to keep them steady to their work. The long extended cutting edge caused them to strike more obstructions and rendered it difficult to hold them steadily to their place. This is a great defect of the sweep. On the other hand, this long cutting edge makes it almost impossible for a may-pop or brier to escape. This is decidedly in its favor. Of late years the heelscrape has largely supplanted the sweep on account of its greater simplicity and less cost. It does about the same kind of work-some think better work. Both sweep and scrape will make beds, unless their wings are carefully set, this is a decided objection to them in hilly land, liable to wash.

row, arising from the weight of the plow grow anywhere, even on the borders of itself, increased by that of the earth the Gulf. which it lifts. The grinding and press-

The pea crop should be planted now ers. as soon as possible. Put in drills three feet apart; a bushel of seed will plant four acres; and as seed is a consideration, this mode is oftentimes preferable absorbs attention. The plants valued by to broadcast sowing. More peas can be man cannot stand natural competition; raised by the former method of plenting, ble cases of forgery by a boy ever known they would be destroyed by worthless but the latter is better for the land. If has just come to light in Philadelphia, competitors but for his timely interfer- one's object is to raise seed, drill by all and it was no fault of the boy that he ence and aid. Mr. Lawes left a crop of means, and give necessary plowings and did not succeed in getting away with a wheat unharvested to see if the plant hoeings, which will not be a great deal. large sum of money. James Barber, 16 could reseed and perpetuate itself without assistance. It failed utterly; in one good; it involves no expense except seed the Orphan's Court building, is in prison out assistance. It issued utterly; in one year wheat would become extinct but for the intervention of man. Underlike treet.

But we think the pea is entitled to a Detectives Muller and Sharkey arrested. place on the farm as a regular crop to be him in Mount Moriah Cemetery for planted by itself and properly cultivated. stealing a warrant for $1,750, belonging only a long, contracted taproot, as it Its value, as a renovating or recuperat- to Judge William N. Ashman, and forgdoes in its wild state. On the other ing crop, is unsurpassed, and it holds no ing the name of the Judge and that of hand, wheat on carefully prepared land, mean place as a food crop, either as City Treasurer Bell in an attempt to A large influx of visitors is looked for kept perfectly clean so as to remove all grain or forage. It can be made to take have it eashed. The warrant represented as soon as it is known that the newly competition, made an average yield of the place of corn to a considerable de-13 bushels per acre for thirty years with- gree, as we have often seen, and can be was delivered by a letter carrier at the Washington, June 3.—About five out manure; highly manured, under the raised at less expense. The gathering court building on Wednesday morning hundred telegrams congratulating the same conditions otherwise, the average of the crop is the greatest obstacle to be last, it having been sent by mail from President on his marriage have been re- yield per acre for thirty years was 36 overcome, but until a better method is the Auditor-General's office at Harrisceived at the White House. They in- bushels per acre. With cultivation and invented we can mow when the pods are burg. The lad either took it from the clude messages from ex-President Arthur, without manure, 13 bushels per acre; about grown and cure as forage. A cormail box or from a table in the Judge's Mrs. Grant, Ministers Pendleton and with cultivation and manure, 36 bushels respondent mentioned recently a pea room. He then wrote a letter to City the foliage of the park and made flicker- Phelps and many public men throughout per acre; without cultivation and manure, gathering machine—that is the thing Treasurer Bell, saying: work in this direction. The problem is rant and send by bearer. Yours, experience appreciates the importance of very much simpler than that of a cotton fighting erab grass, but the fight is often picking machine, and inventors have not

June is a good month also in which to recover their vigor after this grass has once matted itself about them. By all we planted amber cane on the 29th of sign his name on the back. The hopeseed have well sprouted or have just green and succulent for six weeks or two say once a week. Later in the season or three weeks, up to the last of next is gone over, go right over again. Espe- ing on the winter's supply of fodder. It it every advantage now. Let it make causes so much Northern and Western Growing and fruiting are somewhat few acres on each farm could supply all Constant stirring of the soil is the best encouraging to warrant every farmer growth-promoter. But, says one, growth trying it, on a small scale, at least. The is naturally excessive on my lands; my expense of digging a small pit, putting cotton makes too much weed and does in the forage, weighing it down and not mature its fruit. Perhaps on such putting a simple roof over it, will be soils it might be well to work the crop at very small. All can be done by the longer intervals-only so often as may laborers on the farm after the crops are be needed to keep down grass. It seems laid by. Plant the necessary crops to tom corn, we broadcasted Soja bean over a portion of it, and were rather surprised to see it mature its seed fully before frost. As it stands erect (is not a vine) we found no difficulty in mowing ing was very extraordinary, always put it, and gathered the crop in that way. It is doubtless a renovating crop like the But rapid tillage not only promotes pea, and might be substituted for it on bottom lands, where the running vines borne in mind also, that light, surface relates that spring wheat sown in autumn side on the same day last fall. A decided not all gold that glitters." sprinkling of the grazing oats survives, and searcely a plant of the rust-proof is to be seen. The grazing oats is therefore the more promising as regards cold, but it is not rust-proof. What we need is a variety both rust and cold-proof. The present is a most excellent oppor- resumption of the active duties of the tunity to begin work to that end. Let office. On June 1st the President reevery one gather the scattered heads and | plied declining to accept Secretary Mansow the grain therefrom next autumn. The pliability of the oats plant, so to speak, has been shown by the Burt and til October 1st, when the subject may be other early varieties recently developed; renewed if Secretary Manning remain of we are encouraged, therefore, to hope that the same mind as now. Secretary Manit may be changed also in its power to ning left Washington on Saturday eve-

We trust also that an abundance of seed rve will be saved at the South this year. The area sown in this most valu-A cultivator, with wheel to regulate the able grain has been very materially cur- It will probably be produced at the Fifth lepth of the plow, is in some respects tailed by the scarcity of valuable seed. preferable to either sweep or scrape. It Western and Northern seed will not do is not so easily thrown out of position by well with us; we repeat, therefore, let obstructions, and does not work the land every one save all the rye he can. As up into beds. Probably a combination we have argued heretofore, all the clean at Cleveland, Ohio, adjourned sine die of the two, following each other at land on our farms ought to be seeded alternate workings, would be better than down in the fall, to prevent leaching and either alone. A cultivator will run too washing through winter and spring, and deep for light summer work, unless the there is nothing as good for the purpose depth of its cutting is regulated by a as ryc. Nor is there a more certain crop wheel. We are inclined to think that to supply green forage in the early last week listened to an argument by in some form or other wheel plows will spring. It never fails if sown early on become of universal use, not only for good land. Rye, crimson clover and gauging the depth of furrow, but for the burr clover are three very hardy and senting various Confederate bondholders, gauging the depth of furrow, but for the burr clover are three very hardy and in the end, you will not only be respected who urged the redemption of those bonds sake of decreasing friction, and relieving very early spring crops, and ought to by the world, but have the approval of the pressure on the bottom of the fur- find a place on every farm. They will your own conscience.

Put out potato slips for the main crop ing down by the ordinary plow generates | between the 10th and 25th of the month. the hard-pan found in long cultivated If vines can be had, they are equally as good, perhaps better, than slips or draw-

A REMARKABLE FORGERY CASE.

How a Lad of Sixteen Forged Judge Ashman's Signature.

One of the boldest and most remarka-

Please give me a check for this war-

W. N. ASHMAN. Young Barber took the warrant and forged note to Mr. Bell. The warrant was not endorsed, and the lad was told to take it to the Judge and have him vicinity and placed the judicial signature on the back of the paper. He again visited the City Treasurer, who, upon ed that the amount was written $1,700 figures were $1,750. The lad was again directed to return with the warrant to Judge Ashman, and a letter written by the mistake in the warrant was also sent. When a safe place was reached, the redoubtable youngster destroyed Mr. Bell's note and composed one of his own. It said: "Please send up your your bill. Something's wrong in your account." When the note was delivered to Judge Ashman he was puzzled and said he would call at the City Treasury. When he called there the Judge and City Treasurer soon learned the true state of affairs. The detectives were immediately employed to catch the thief and forger. Later in the day, seeing that he was baffled, he sent the warrant to Judge Ashman in company with a letter signed "Jimmy So-so." When arrested he made a confession and also edged that he had robbed a number of desks in the Court Building and stole Judge Penrose's overcoat last winter.

Old-Time Farming. Our veteran Georgia farmer, Major John H. Dent, of Floyd county, in a letter to the Country Gentleman, makes this reference to a much-discussed subject: What has operated much against the farmers of late days is depending so largely (or I may say, entirely depending) on expensive bought fertilizers, instead of raising crops that would leave vegetable matter to turn under to benefit their lands. Making lot manures has nearly been abandoned, as it was found so convenient to purchase the commercial fertilizers, not taking into consideration the expense of such fertilizers, and in some cases their worthlessness. This unwise system has ruined many, both in pecuniary results and in using fertilizers that were of no permanent benefit seldom fail to yield fairly, however ad- fully saved with a view to propagating a to their lands. Humus we need; withverse the seasons may be. Let it be hardier strain of winter oats. Darwin out humus, the lands will not hold moisture; hence so much complaint is made cultivation is the great conservator of was nearly all killed, but by planting the of droughts. To sum it up in a few moisture in the soil, and one of the best seed of that which survived, in a few words, the best of lands, and most favorantidotes to drought. A deeply broken, years a hardy strain of winter wheat was able seasons, cannot maintain any farmhumus abounding soil, with a thin layer developed from the spring wheat. Why er who buys his fertilizers and all his of pulverized earth upon its surface, is could not the same thing be done with food supplies. We want going back to oats? What is termed in Georgia "win- the old-time, common-sense farmingter grazing oats," originally, we believe, entirely self-sustaining and independent. from Virginia, certainly stands cold bet- There is too much gilt-edge about it ter than the rust-proof. We have tested now-more fancy than substance-when that point from sowings of each side by we should remind ourselves that "it is > Secretary Manning's Resignation. Secretary Manning on May 29 handed President Cleveland his resignation as Secretary of the Treasury, stating that his health would not permit an early ning's resignation at present, and asking him instead to take leave of absence unning for an extended stay at the Hot Springs of Virginia.

> "The Khedive" will be the name of Gilbert and Sullivan's next comic opera. Avenue Theatre about November 1.

> The General Assemby, Knights of Labor, which had been in session ten davs on Thursday evening. An address setting forth the objects of the order was given out. Overtures were made to the trade unionists favoring consolidation, but the latter express themselves in unsatisfactory terms about the proposition.

ughed down. Be true to yourself, and