THE CONGRESSIONAL BOUT.

The first meeting at which the candidates for Congress for the First District, Hon. Geo. S. Legare of Charleston, the incumbent, and Hon. J. H. Lesesne of Clarendon, was held in Walterboro last Friday, and from the accounts in the daily newspapers we gather that the congressional contest created more interest than did the State candidates.

Mr. Lesesne was really not given a good hearing until the county chairman called for order and bespoke the courtesy due the speaker. The News and Courier's account is more full, and it seems from a statement made by the chairman, it is inferred that the cheering of Legare and the interruptions of Lesesne was not made by Colleton people but by men from Charleston.

It is to be deplored that a campaign meeting should not be conducted in an orderly manner. Every candidate has a right to be treated courteously, true, it is hard for the chairman of a political meeting to have the same order as they ought to have at a church meeting, but at the same time the people attending these meetings should not forget they are not compelled to sit and listen to a speaker, but when they do remain they should listen with respectful attention.

Mr. Lesesne came home from his campaign tour Sunday morning, and in reply to an inquiry from us he said, that the account of the Walterboro meeting as written in the News and Courier was considerably biased, evidently the reporter was a partisan.

PAY NO HEED TO THEM.

Every man who is old enough to vote is supposed to have sense enough to know who he wants to vote for, and he does not need the advice of the professional politician, who begins from the very outset of a political year to ride over the county to advise people who they shall vote for.

on to them, and judge the person making a visit to him deserves. There is absolutely no need for any man to go out in this county to tell the voters how to vote; the people know the candidates as well as does the fellow who is riding about the country beating grub for himself and horse. The voters, when in doubt can if they so desire, go to some neighbor and get all the information about a candidate they do not already possess.

LET THE VOTERS ALONE.

Why pretend to trust the people if they are going to be pestered night and day with heeled? This is a question which should appeal to thinking people. The Democratic party requires candidates to go before the voters, and designates the place, and the time to meet these voters. This being the case where is the justice in making this requirement, and then have candidates, going about to get pledges for votes before the time for the meetings fixed by the Democratic party.

PROGRESS CREATES DEMANDS.

The people everywhere ask, why are taxes increasing? The answer is easy. As the country develops it necessitates more expense to run it. The farm which is undeveloped does not cost as much to manage it as does a farm which is developed, and the undeveloped farm will not yield as good results as the developed farm.

WHAT WILL THE HARVEST BE?

Tennessee is in a bad fix politically, with a strong probability of the State joining the Republican column. So far the Republicans have not put up any candidate for governor, but in the eastern part of the State where the Republicans are strong there are a number of strong men who are just awaiting the outcome of the present campaign among the warring Democrats.

to the legislature the Prohibitionists and the Republicans made an alliance and passed a prohibition bill, and Governor Patterson claiming that the Democrats were bound by the action of the primary could not, and stand by their party pledge, vote for prohibition, and having done so was a breach of faith, he therefore vetoed the Act. Then the Prohibitionists and the Republicans combined, was enough to pass the measure over the governor's veto, and they proceeded to do so, but ever since, the action of the Tennessee legislature has been a source of irritation in the State, and had it not been for the slaying of Carmack the issue would have been confined to the liquor question, but as it is, the main issue is whether or not the people of Tennessee are going to endorse with their votes the man who they say shares in the responsibility for the death of one of Tennessee's most brilliant sons.

HOME MISSIONS.

Friday, the 14th inst., the time of the monthly meeting of Woman's Home Missionary Society was an enjoyable and profitable occasion. The topic for the month was "City Missions." One member had a fine paper on the work of Wesley Houses, another on Deaconess Work, yet another on "City Mission Work Without a Trained Leader," which means small places as well as cities.
