

UNDERWOOD AND HITCHCOCK WILL CONTEST FOR SENATE LEADERSHIP

Washington, Nov. 24.—Owing to the recent death of the Democratic leader in the Senate, Senator Thomas S. Martin of Virginia, a contest has been started for this important post. The principal candidates are Senator Hitchcock, the acting leader, and Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama. Both are exceptionally strong men and both are strongly supported, and there is likely to be a sharp fight. The important question in the matter is, however, as to whether the President will exert his influence in behalf of one or the other of these contestants. The treaty situation may cause the President to do this, and in that event it may be that he will find it wise to favor the selection as Democratic floor leader of some person other than Senator Hitchcock, in view of the unsuccessful efforts of Mr. Hitchcock in connection with treaty ratification and the further fact that his attitude and statements during the recent treaty fight would probably interfere with the effectiveness of any further efforts which he might make to secure concessions from the reservationist Senators.

SUPREME COURT HEARS ARGUMENTS ABOUT PROHIBITION

Washington, Nov. 24.—The Supreme Court recently heard the final arguments regarding the validity of the War-time Prohibition law and the Volstead Act. Owing to the importance of the issue it is not expected that the Court will render a decision before Dec. 8.

Elihu Root, Counsel for Jacob Ruppert, the New York brewer, in attacking the validity of the War-time Prohibition Act, told the court that Mr. Ruppert and members of the Brewers' Association had more than $1,000,000 worth of beer, made under authority of the Lever act and before the Volstead act was enacted, which they were now unable to sell. Arguing that Congress has no right to "go out into the country after the war was over and where soldiers had been merged into the civil life and override the laws of the States" Mr. Root continued: "Where are you to draw the line if you are to step over the line of absolute necessity into space? If it is to be within the competency of Congress to regulate the districts because they are permeated by Federal officials, then there is no limit to the authority of Congress."

PRINT PAPER MARKET STILL HYSTERICAL

New York, Nov. 24.—The past week has brought about no material change in the news print paper situation unless it is to make it worse so far as the users of sheet print and the smaller users of roll print are concerned. Mill owners are profiting to the limit on what President Glass of the Newspaper Publishers' association calls an "auction market."

There is a print paper shortage that will run about 200,000 tons for the year, and manufacturers are taking full advantage of the conditions with a constantly decreasing supply from the mills.

There is a valid reason for the decreasing supply found in the coal situation. One of the big mills of the country, a mill that works almost exclusively on sheet print, reported on Tuesday that it would have to shut down by Thursday if it could not this shortage has caused. Standing behind the aged law of supply and demand they are permitting the publishers to bid against each other as each of the big fellows makes effort to get all, and a little more, than they will need to maintain the maximum size of their publications and in this way the manufacturers are getting the full benefit of tremendous profits. They are not making a price based on what it costs to make print paper plus a fair and reasonable profit, but are simply taking all the publishers will offer.

Current quotations are still ranging all the way from seven to thirteen cents for roll print, with a higher price of anywhere from one-half to one cent a pound for sheet print, and get additional coal. The conditions at this mill can be duplicated at a large number of others, and unless a remedy is quickly found for the coal situation it is almost a certainty that half the mills in the country will be closed within the next two weeks.

guess at the paper prices of the immediate future, but those who claim to be on the inside are guessing that the top in paper prices has not been reached, and that the "auction market" conditions will continue, with a constantly increasing price. They are also guessing that the small consumer who cannot deal direct with the mill, or with mill brokers, are very likely not to get paper at all.

Texas Against Scrub Sire.

Texas has joined the "Better sires—Better stock" campaign of the United States Department of Agriculture, and some Texans are already whetting their pencils in preparation for writing the obituaries of the countless mongrel males which are destined to walk the gang plank. The Texas plan of scrub eradication is to standardize the work around the county agent allowing each county agent to disseminate information and formulate plans for the abolition of the scrubs largely as he sees fit in accord with the conditions operative in his community. The Texas activities against misfit breeding animals are typical of those which are extending throughout the South.
