

TAX MONEY COMES IN RUSH

County Treasurer C. E. Leaphart and his assistant, Miss Marguerite Lopick were kept more than busy the last few days of last week handing out tax receipts in exchange for cash to last-minute taxpayers, who made a rush on the office to avoid the penalty of 7 per cent., which attaches from May 1. Payments exceeded Mr. Leaphart's expectations. So great was the rush that he was unable to count up and tell The Dispatch-News man how much still remains due on 1921 taxes, but from the number of people handed at the window and the volume of mail which has come into the office Mr. Leaphart is of the opinion that there will be a minimum of executions to place in the hands of the sheriff May 15, when the books close. Mr. W. D. Dent, the auditor, has been helping Mr. Leaphart through the rush.

"You may say to the people," said Mr. Leaphart, "that it will be some time before we are able to mail out receipts for all those who sent in their taxes by mail. The letters are stacked up high and it will take more than a week to go through the big stack of letters. However, we are doing our best and will get to them as fast as possible. Taxpayers who have mailed checks for their taxes need not feel uneasy if they do not receive their receipt for several days."

A great many people who were forced to sell their cotton were heard to remark that they regretted having postponed the payment of their taxes. Had they sold earlier they would have realized more and would have avoided any penalty on their taxes.

GEORGE E. ROBERTS DIED MONDAY

Mr. George Elias Roberts, well known farmer and substantial citizen of Lexington county, living about three miles from the court house, died suddenly Monday afternoon, May 2. Mr. Roberts was apparently in good health and on the morning of his death was up and about his usual duties. He complained of feeling slightly unwell in the afternoon, and soon after he laid down to rest it was found that he had gently fallen on sleep. The news of Mr. Roberts' sudden death cast a gloom over Lexington, where he was highly regarded for the many sterling qualities which made him the Christian gentleman, loving husband, devoted father and fine type of Christian manhood which all the world honors. At the time of his death Mr. Roberts was 77 years, 4 months and 18 days old. He was a faithful and life-long member of Providence E. L. church and for many years had acceptably filled the position of an elder in the church. His pastor always found in him a strong support. He was faithful and punctual in his attendance upon services and his voice was always ready to be raised in the interest of harmony. Kind by nature, he allowed no unkind remarks to escape his lips and no man was ever a better neighbor than Mr. Roberts.

Mr. Roberts was married December 16, 1888, to Miss Mary J. Seay, and his home life was beautiful. A devoted husband, a generous father, he lived to rear a family of five children who honored his old age. They are: Dr. G. F. Roberts, Lexington; J. H. Roberts, Chapin; Mrs. J. H. Hiller, Chapin; Mrs. D. J. Caughman and Mrs. Scott Hendrix, Lexington. He is also survived by Mrs. Roberts and three sisters.

Mr. Roberts was a gallant Confederate soldier and served throughout the war in Capt. Caughman's command, Co. F, Fifth S. C. Cavalry.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Providence church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. O. B. Shearouse, assisted by Rev. J. W. Oxner. The church was entirely inadequate to hold the large congregation which came to attest their respect for the noble Christian gentleman who had gone to rest. The grave was heaped with a profusion of beautiful flowers the like of which has seldom been seen in this community. The following acted as pallbearers: P. B. Warner, Sam Rawl, P. H. Cook, Reubin Corley, Perry Corley, Shelton Wingard, Jacob Seay, Earle Seay.

MUCH COTTON SOLD HERE LAST WEEK

Last week was the most active in the local cotton market in more than a year, many farmers disposing of at least part of their crop in order to have money with which to pay taxes. Prices paid on the local market ranged from 6 1-2 to 11 1-2 cents, owing to the grade of the staple, only the very best lint bringing the top prices.

Coincident with the selling movement the demand for spot cotton is reported as being a little better, owing, it is believed, to the announcement that the War Finance Corporation is preparing to finance exports to foreign countries. Brokers are reported for the first time in months as calling over the telephone in an effort to secure limited quantities of cotton.

There are no accurate statistics as to the amount of cotton being held in Lexington county, but it is undoubtedly large, even the movement to market last week, though large under the circumstances, not representing sales of complete individual crops. The general disposition seems to be to sell only enough to pay up taxes and other pressing obligations and await a more favorable market to dispose of the remainder of the crop.

There has been a slight upward tendency of the market in the past few days, but nobody expects it to make very material advances, as mills are not yet running to capacity, either in this country or in England. Tuesday morning's papers indicated the prospect of a strike in many textile mills, which will still further curtail production.

On the whole, however, demand for cotton seems to have opened up slightly, and the general tone of the market is more optimistic. Many do not believe there will be any material change until the 1921 acreage is determined and the strikes and unemployment prevailing are settled and the buying public shows a disposition to believe that the bottom has been reached and are willing to replenish depleted stocks.

Those who have satisfied their immediate demands for cash will no doubt hold on to their surplus cotton until there is considerable improvement in the market.

WOUNDED MAN DOING WELL

Earl Asbill of Leesville, son of Rural Policeman George Asbill of Leesville, who was wounded while helping in a raid on a liquor still on Congaree Creek last week, is said to be getting along fine, and is reported as being on the road to recovery. The wound is not thought to be dangerous.

The Columbia State of last Friday contained the following account of the affair:

Earl E. Asbill, son of Rural Policeman G. W. Asbill of Leesville, was brought to the Columbia hospital at 2 o'clock yesterday morning suffering from a pistol ball in his shoulder. Young Asbill was injured in a whiskey raid on Congaree creek near Camp Styx in Lexington county late Wednesday night, the raiding officers and two alleged moonshiners being engaged in a battle which lasted several minutes. Young Asbill is, so far as known, the only man injured in the melee.

Warrants were sworn out before Magistrate A. B. Bachman in Brookland yesterday for Will Smith and Tillman Mayers, who were identified by members of the raiding party as the two men who did the shooting. No arrests had been made last night and it was believed by some of the Lexington officers that one or both of the men may have been drowned. Young Asbill, however, says that he thinks that both men escaped and Sheriff Roof of Lexington county when interviewed over the telephone last night also scouted the theory that the men had been killed saying that one of the two men suspected was known to have been seen at home early yesterday morning.

The Lexington officers located the still on the creek side earlier in the week and went to the scene Wednesday night intending to capture the operators of the still when they should return, according to the story of young Asbill who was able to talk at the hospital yesterday afternoon. After waiting until about 11:30 o'clock without result the raiding party started to leave the scene, abandoning the hunt for the night. Just as they were leaving, the officers heard the sound of a motorcycle coming toward the swamp and after waiting in ambush near the barrels of beer and mash, which they had found, they heard the sound of a boat in the creek. Two men got out of the boat and began an examination of the ground, discovering the footprints of the officers. The two supposed moonshiners then began a hunt for the intruders and using a flashlight located the raiding party near a large pine.

One of the alleged moonshiners then opened fire, Young Asbill said, the officers and the other men also joining in the battle. About 30 shots were exchanged, the bushes and trees nearby bearing evidence of the spirited melee. The two supposed moonshiners after exhausting their cartridges ran for the creek, swimming across to the other side to make their escape, apparently unhurt, leaving their boat by the creek bank.

Young Asbill was then brought to Columbia to the hospital where he was given treatment. An x-ray examination of his shoulder revealed the fact that the bullet had caused only a flesh wound, no bones being broken. He was reported resting easy at the hospital yesterday and a speedy recovery is predicted.

The officers went back to the scene yesterday morning, destroying nearly 321 gallons of beer and mash. The still, itself, was not found and it is presumed that it was hidden in the creek which is nearly eight feet deep at that point. Members of the party were: Rural Policeman Dewes, Earl Asbill and Fletcher Steele. Young Asbill and Fletcher Steele were acting as special deputies.
