- Chicago, Dec. 12.—Young people's activities, international in scope, were discussed Wednesday by representatives of 750,000 members of the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal Church, with chapters in thirty different countries at a council of Institutes at Methodist headquarters, Chicago.
- Dr. Charles E. Guthrie, general secretary, who has just recently returned from a tour of the globe brought back a message of good-will from the youth of the old world to the youth of the new. Dr. Guthrie stated in his address at the Council of Deans of Epworth League Institutes from all over the United States that plans are underway for young people from abroad to attend the Epworth League Institutes in the United States and representative Epworth Leaguers from the United States will be sent to attend institutes in Europe. Arrangements are being made for all the young people in the Epworth League chapters throughout the world to meet simultaneously on a date set apart to study the theme of international friendship.

After discussions in the council it was decided to begin arrangements for the establishment of an International Epworth League Institute to be held in Rome, Italy in 1923. It was suggested that the Institute could be held in the Methodist Collegiate on Monte Mario, the eighth hill in Rome.

Dr. W. E. J. Bratz reported that 50,000 young people had taken a course of study to prepare them for leaders and workers among young people throughout the states and that 30,000 had been granted certificates after completing a course of study in these summer institutions.

Dr. Dan B. Brummitt, editor of the Epworth Herald spoke of the great need of early training of young people in the foundations of the Christian faith and of Methodism.

It was decided to write a new history of Methodism for young people tracing Methodism to its source, and its connection with other religious bodies.

Delegates from the Atlantic to the Pacific are attending the council of Institutes.

GILBERT SPRINKLES.

Everybody seems to be enjoying this nice chewing gum weather around the bustling town of Gilbert.

We are very sorry to learn of the recent illness of Mr. J. R. Holley. We hope that he will be able to be out again.

Miss Annie Ballentine, one of the attractive teachers of Gilbert graded school, spent Saturday in Columbia shopping.

Miss Ila Mae Haves spent Saturday night and Sunday with her chums, Misses Bertha and Frances Price.

Miss Louise Barr spent Saturday night with her friend, Miss Annie Ballentine.

Miss Edna Shealy, of Gilbert route 2, was in Gilbert shopping Saturday. She also spent a short while with her friends, Misses Bertha and Frances Price.

Misses Lessie Shull and Blanche Harman spent last week-end at their respective homes.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Nichols had the misfortune of meeting with an accident Saturday night while returning from Columbia.

The teachers and pupils are planning for an exercise at the school house next Friday night, December 22. Everybody invited to attend Santa Claus will be present to address the crowd.

ST. JAMES EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCH.

Through the courtesy of the Lexington Dispatch-News, I desire to give some information relative to our work at Red Bank.

In October, 1921, we organized St. James Lutheran congregation with thirty-one charter members. Shortly afterwards we decided to build a church. Every member went to work in earnest and a little later a lot was donated by one of the oldest members. On July of this year we started our church and the work advanced rapidly until completed.

Our friends encouraged and assisted us with their moral and financial support. Rev. J. D. Shealy's parish sent in an offering from each church. The pastor visited Emanuel's, Pilgrim, St. Paul's (Hollow Creek) and Grace, Gilbert, with the result of sixty-five dollars, a silver communion set, forty eight hymnals, a pulpit, bible and table have been donated by friends. A number of St. Stephen's members, Lexington, have assisted us with cash donations.

The work of the church is complete, but we are in debt on the building. We also need pews, heat and other furnishings. So our churches, Sunday schools, aid societies and individuals have an opportunity to assist a worthy cause, and now is the opportunity time, while we are in need, and as you are planning your Christmas gifts to remember St. James.

We thank the editor for this space and each individual and congregation for their assistance.

We have Sunday school every Sunday at 10 a. m.

Preaching second Sunday at 11 a. m. and fourth Sunday at 7 p. m.

TERRACING IMPORTANT.

Clemson College, Dec. 19.—Soil erosion or the washing away of the soil from the fields costs the farmers of South Carolina millions of dollars every year. Proper terracing is the first step in preventing this loss. This is the season of the year to give attention to terrace making.

There are two general types of terraces that may be used, the bench or narrow terrace and the broad-base terrace. The broad-base terrace may be of two kinds, level or on a grade. The broad-base graded terrace is known as the Mangum terrace.

While the bench terrace is the type that has been generally used in this state, it is rapidly being replaced by the broad-base terrace except on very steep slopes. The bench terrace is essentially a steep land terrace and should not be used where it is possible to build a broad-base terrace, advises R. W. Hamilton, of the Agronomy Division. The objections to the bench terrace are that it is expensive to keep up, it can not be cultivated, it is usually allowed to grow up in weeds and grass that draw the plant food away from the adjoining crops, it prevents the ready passage of farm machinery from one field to another, and it furnishes excellent winter-quarters for the boll weevil.

The broad-base terrace does not have any of these objections and therefore should be used where the slope permits. The broad-base level terrace should be used where the soil is porous enough to absorb the rainfall before it can injure the growing crop or collect in sufficient amount to flow over the top of the terrace. This type of terrace in preventing the rapid runoff of rain furnishes moisture to the crop for a longer period in dry weather and allows practically none of the soil or fertilizer to escape.

The Mangum or broad-base graded terrace is exactly the same as the broad-base level terrace with the exception of the indicated difference—it is built with a fall. This type is used on soil that does not absorb rain rapidly and where there is danger of the water collecting and overflowing a level terrace. Some soil and fertility is lost in drawing off the water by the gradual slope, but this loss is insignificant compared with what the loss would be without terracing.

Detailed instructions as to building terraces may be had from the county agents or the Extension Service, Clemson College.
