in a partly shaded yard. An old chard with now and then a tree missing is an ideal proposition. Young ducks cannot stand the full heat of the sun, but they do better in dry quarters. Old ducks like to swim, but water is a damage to young ducks except just enough to drink, and it is better to keep the drinking protected that the little felnot get themselves wet --

Consumption Does For Us.

Our il war was one of the bloodlest and dealiest in history. Yet four years of consumption, from 1904 laimed over three times as Digital V ims as died during the four the civil war! Could some l back to life the 640,000 nen and children dead of is in four recent years in ry they would constitute a population larger than that of Baltimore, Boston or St. Louis. Every six years we lose in the United States from consumption as many people as would populate Philadelphia. In ten years more victims are claimed than Chicago numbers citi-

You who read these lines will perhaps stop right here and protest. "It can't be so!" Yet these figures are likely to be below the truth. The New York State department of health estimates a million and a half new consumptive graves dug each year throughout the world. That means annually as many deaths from consumption as there are inhabitants in Munich, plus Copenhagen, plus Marseilles. The brain reels to think of it. -The Metropolitan Magazine.

Radium to be Cheaper.

A discovery which promises to cheapen by one-half the price of radium and provide a valuable new source of supply has been made in Portugal.

Seams of quartz, containing more than 50 per cent of oxide of uranium, have been discovered, says The Evening Standard, and M. Barboni, formerly professor of chemistry in Paris, one of the experts who have examined specimens, states that the mineral, by reason of its greater facility of treatment, ought to be at least three times superior to pitchblende for radiumproducing purposes.

The discovery was made in a curious way. Learning that remarkable healthgiving properties were attrib-uted to a particlar stream, Mr. Thomas H. V. Bower, a member of the Institute of Mechancal Engineers visited it. He followed its course, and on the top of a hill found it ran over the yellow crystal-crusted quartz which he analyzed as uranite phosphate.

It is understood that a syndicate scientists have been supplied with quantities of the crystals, and one is now using them in important steel experiments.

It is understood that a spndicate of British capitalists has obtained control of the Portuguese properties. So. 28-'09. London Express.

This world is getting to be a terribly busy place. Holidays are out of fashion, laments the Philadelphia Record. One State in Mexico, which has 160 of them a year, is trying to reduce the number of holidays from 91 to 63, including Sundays, which is more than France. England and Germany have and about what there are in this country. But the Russian will miss the 28 holidays it is proposed to wrest from him. The reformers should be very careful; they must remember that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy.

AN OLD TIMER Has Had Experiences.

A woman who has used Postum since it came upon the market knows from experience the wisdom of using Postum in place of coffee if one values health and a clear brain. She says: "At the time Postum was first put on the market I was suffering from nervous dyspepsia, and my physician had repeatedly told me not to use tea or coffee. Finally I decided to take his advice and try Postum. I got a package and had it carefully prepared, finding it delicious to the taste. So I continued its use and very soon its beneficial effects convinced me of its value, for I got well of my nervousness and dyspepsia. "My jushand had been drinking coffee att his life until it had affected terribly, and I persuaded im to shift to Postum. It was easy to get him to make the change, for the Poscum is so delicious. It certainly worked wonders for him. We soon learned that Postum does not exhibarate or depress and does not stimulate, but steadily and honestly strengthens the nerves and the stomach. To make a long story short, our entire family continued to use Postum with satisfying results, as shown in our fine condition of health, and we have noticed a rather unexpected improvement in brain and nerve powlways follows the use of Postum in tace of coffee, sometimes in a very marked manner. "There's a Rea-in."

BHADE FOR DUCKS. Books Modern Farm Methods As Applied in the South.

Notes of Interest to Planter, Fruit Grower and Stockman

How to Diversify.

The value to the farmers of the Gulf States, of the crops which are profitable other than cotton, to-wit, cane and corn, has not attracted as much attention as in all probability it would have done if the one-crop question had not gained such ground with the agricultural classes in gen-

No community, State or country can long remain prosperous that depends almost solely, if not entirely, upon one crop for its money support. The chief crop of the South and upon which nearly the whole business of the country, banking included, is based on is not sufficient, no matter how many bales of the fleecy staple we stack up year after year, nor the price it fetches when marketed, to feed, clothe and do the general business of the land, that is, if progress is expected to follow. For this reason, if no other, I contend that the time has come that business demands that the farmers be encouraged to plant and grow at home more meats. milk and butter, vegetables of most sorts, fruits, poultry and eggs. Thus to become as near as possible selfsustaining and more independent than the great majority find themselves

The farmer, or a farm district, can to-day purchase a canning factory outfit from $5 up to $500, or more for that matter, set the factory up on the farm and do his or his neighbors' pears, peaches, tomatoes, beans, peas, corn-in a word all vegetables grown for canning purposes, at a cost much less than the same goods can be purchased from the store.

Again, permit me to ask why purchase canned sauerkraut or pickles of any sort when the same as good, if not better, can with care be made on the farm and put up in the home cannery?

When we look at the matter, almost everything we eat comes to us from the North and West-potatoes, cabbage, beans, peas, corn (canned and not canned), meats, fruits, butter and cheese. In fact, nearly everything, including glucose syrup, and that, too, in our sunny land, where the juicy sugar cane grows; why not make our own pure syrup, if nothing else—to help the home cause to that extent, if no more?

I would suggest planting as a starter, one-fourth an acre of Mayo beans, known as South Carolina Of course, no one here is exbeans. pected to compete with the Sunset State bean raising, where from 100 to 200 acre fields are planted solid to beans and raised under irrigation. Yet, these, the Mayo bean, will thrive and do well in our soil and climate, and they are worth retail on the market eight and ten cents per pound. The bean straw makes a fair article of hay and goes into beef, milk and butter for the home and the

The peanut is profitable to grow, from the fact that the Pinder usually sells well and the vines when properly gathered and cured make an A1 qual-

The home cannery has been tried successfully in the Sug town district in Calcasieu parish, where there are not merely for the production of dozens of small canneries ranging in staple crops with good average recost from $10 to $500. The Sugartown home canneries have been successful and they are on the increase. They can both fruits and vegetables and nearly every Sugartown farmer has one.

In the rice belt, where enormous quantities of canned goods are consumed, the home cannery could be used to advantage. The owner of a home cannery would never be at a loss to find a market for his surplus. -Bunkie Correspondent, Baton Rouge State-Times.

Plant to Utilize the Idle Lands.

Idle lands, like idle people, are seldom benefited by their idleness. At least, it is certain that land may be improved faster by growing some useful crop every year than by lying idle, part, or all, of the time. Moreover, we have thousands of acres that, because of insufficient drainage or lack of fertility, are not yielding profitable crops, and thousands of other acres yielding absolutly nothing. These lands represent an investment and must pay taexs, therefore by yielding nothing, they consume some of the profits of the cultivated land.

This land should bring its owner some revenue. That which will yield a fair profit in the growth of timber should be given sufficient attention and protection from fires to enable us to profit on our investment. There are thousands of acres of fertile land that have been turned out and allowed to grow up to brush and weeds that with a little attention could be than burning them and wasting their growth of grasses for pasture or hay. These lands are along creeks and rivers and have not paid in cultivated crops because of overflows or lack of drainage. They would, however, produce good grass and save us from buying forage or from sending to the North for hay. Let us plan to utilize them. We need the forage or grazing which they will produce.

Again, there are large areas of uplands that have been turned out because of soil depletion. These lands would yield a handsome profit on their value and the expense of putting them in condition for grazing cattle and other live stock. Not only is this so, but in a few years if the brush and briers are kept down they will be in condition to again yield profitable cultivated crops.

Poultry Notes and Comments.

A "sitting room" for hens is quite necessary. An open front to the south, screened by one-inch poultry wire, is best. If hens are peaceable nest boxes may be placed around on the ground, and when a hen becomes broody remove her at dusk to a nest; gently place her on it with a nest egg under her, and if she seems a little restless spread burlap over her till next evening. If she is contented second morning place eggs under her.

"The pullet is mother of the hen," so it is well to select the chicks which show sex earliest, and mark them for breeders, then watch which of there pullets begin to lay first, and which of the males begin to develop spurs Note the best layers, as pullets, and the proudest, most active cockerels, and you have selected the best for your breeders for the next season. Band them as selected. Selection must also be made with regard to standard requirements, if breeding exhibition fowls.

To insure large quantities of eggs in fall and early winter raise a large crop of pullets. It is only the early hatched chicks it pays to market as fryers, hence get a breed of good winter layers. Pullets hatched reasonably early begin to lay long before the moulted hen, and keep it up all winter. For this reason we pre-fer our winter layers to be pullets and our breeders yearling hens, and breeders which become broody most often are saved for the next year's sitters. Pullets to be used for breeders should have laid out one litter of eggs before being mated.-Mrs. J. C. Deaton, in the Progressive Farmer.

Southern Soils Examined.

Dr. A. J. Bonsteel, of the Bureau of Soils, Department of Agriculture, has just returned to Washington from an extended tour of the South, which was for the purpose of investigating the adaptability of different types of soils for certain kinds of crops, especially winter and early spring vegetables. Dr. Bonsteel is enthusiastic over the results of his trip and is preparing a special report.

Dr. Bonsteel visited Georgia, Mississippi and Alabama, and says he is more enthusiastic than ever over the possibilities for developing the unused agricultural lands of the South, to the development of special industries where from the production of fruits, nuts, garden vegetables and tobacco the soils may be made to aggregate from $500 to $2000 per acre under extensive forms of cultivation. "In Alabama," said Dr. Bonsteel, four soil survey parties are at present engaged and surveys are in progress in Tallapoosa, Coffee, Baldwin and Hale Counties. The work in at least three of these counties will be completed in July or early in August, and additional work will then be taken up in the north-central portion of the State. The soil surveys thus far completed in the State of Alabama have shown a wonderful diversity in the soils and the surveys are laying the foundation for an agricultural development in the State which in due time will be no less marked than the industrial development of the coal and iron fields in North-Central Alabama."-Farmers' Home Journal.

Ashamed of Gullies.

In going about among the farmers it is gratifying to find an increasing number who are ashamed of gullies -a gully always being a public notice that a poor farmer has been handling the land. On many farms we find the rocks thrown into little dams in the washes, and this will do much to stop the land-waste; and a tenant on the writer's home farm has won our approval by piling the corn stalks wherever a wash has started. This is a vastly better plan of handling stalks made to produce good profits in the fertility.-Professor Massey.

HANDS RAW AND SCALY.

Itched and Burned Terribly—Could Not Move Thumbs Without Flesh Cracking — Sleep Impossible — Cuticura Soon Cured Eczema.

"An itching humor covered both my hands and got up over my wrists and even up to the elbows. The itching and burning were terrible. My hands bot all scaly and were terrible. My hands get all scaly and when I scratched, the surface would be covered with blisters and then get raw. The eczema got so bad that I could not move my thumbs without deep cracks appearing. I went to my doctor, but his medicine could only stop the itching. At night I suffered so fearfully that I could not sleep. I could not bear to twuch my hands with water. This went on for three months and I was fairly worn out. At last I got the Cuticura Remedics and in a month I was cured. Walter H. Cox. 16 Somerset St., Boston, Mass., Sept. 25, 1908.*

THE RIGID TRUTH

And Confirmation to Any Kidney Sufferer Who Asks It.

Mrs. W. H. Cobb, Nicholasville, Ky., says: "I will keep strictly to the most rigid truth in telling of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills, and will be glad to give corroborative evidence to anybody. A catch or stitch in my back was followed with dull, constant backache and pain in the hips. Throbbing headaches took all the 'go' out of me. I lost appetite and weight and grew weak. The kidney secretions became scanty and dropsy set in. I suffered so I hardly cared what became of me, but the first box of Doan's Kidney Pills made me better, and I used the remedy faithfully until all symptoms left me and I gained 14 pounds.
