

WASHINGTON, AT 12.
HEAD CODE OF RULES

His Commendable Motives Guided Him Through Life.

As thousands of patriotic Americans will this year observe the anniversary of George Washington's birth—February 22—with befitting ceremonies and still greater reverence, it may prove of interest to here present some of the original rules for his future conduct, which he tried to live up to the rest of his life. He called them "Rules of Civility and Decent Behavior in Company." There were fifty-four in all. Here are a few of them to show you the earnestness and thought of a boy of only 13 years of age:

- "Speak not when others speak, sit not when others stand, and walk not when others stop."
- "Turn not your back to others, especially in speaking; jog not the table or desk on which another reads or writes; lean not on any one."
- "Show not yourself glad at the misfortune of another, tho he were your enemy."
- "When a man does all he can, tho he succeeds not well, blame not him that did it."
- "Speak not injurious words either in jest nor earnest. Scoff at none, altho they give occasion."

AND NOW THEY ARE COOKING TOBACCO TO MAKE IT BETTER

For a good many years The American Tobacco Company have been conducting a series of experiments having as their object the improvement of smoking tobaccos.

And it is interesting to know that one of the greatest of their discoveries was one of the simplest, and that was, that cooking or toasting tobacco improved it in every way, just as cooking most foods improves them.

They took a real Burley tobacco, grown in this country; toasted it as you would toast bread, moistened it to replace the natural moisture driven off by toasting; made it into cigarettes, called them "LUCKY STRIKE, the toasted cigarette," and sold them to the public.

The result has been the greatest demand ever created for any tobacco product in a similar length of time.

The change produced by toasting is not only most wholesome, but the flavor is greatly improved, just as cooking improves meat, for example.

"Detract not from others, but neither be excessive in commending."
"Associate yourself with men of good quality if you esteem your own reputation, for it is better to be alone than in bad company."
"Speak no evil of the absent, for it is unjust."
"Use no reproachful language against any one, neither curses nor revilings."
"Be not immodest in urging your friends to discover a secret."
"Undertake not what you cannot perform, but be careful to keep your promise."
"When you speak of God or His attributes let it be seriously, in reverence and honor."
"Labor to keep alive in your breast that little spark of celestial fire called conscience."

NO REST—NO PEACE

There's no peace and little rest for the one who suffers from bad back, and distressing urinary disorders. Dillon people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Be guided by their experience.

W. H. Stackhouse, salesman, 34 Hampton St., Dillon, says: "I had kidney trouble and my kidneys were so weak I couldn't control the kidney secretions. I suffered constantly from backache and pains through my loins and if I sat down for a little while, it was all I could do to get up. Whenever I stopped or lifted, sharp twinges were sure to catch me. I tried various medicines, but found no relief until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They strengthened my back and corrected all the other kidney troubles."

Over two years later Mr. Stackhouse said: "I willingly verify the statement I have previously given telling about Doan's. I still use this medicine occasionally when my kidneys bother me and I always receive the best of results."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Stackhouse had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.—2-14-2t.

HOW ONE SHOULD USE MONEY

Worth of Pennies, Shillings and Shams First Value a Whim When One Places on Wealth.

"Any man, in order to achieve real success, must have the right ideas about money. If he hasn't the right idea about money, he is not solid in character, observes a writer in the American Magazine. A man may easily be happy, successful and highly regarded on $1,800 dollars or less a year; but, if he is, it is because he knows how to handle those $1,800, and realizes the power that is in each of those $1,800, and keeps in sight the fact that it takes 100 cents or 20 nickels, or 10 dimes, to make each one of those $1,800."

"On the other hand, a man may have an annual income of $50,000 and be neither successful nor happy nor highly regarded. If this is true of him, it is because he has not the right ideas about money."

"Here is the thing that applies to my experience and to every man's: Money is the symbol of worth and power, if your money is handled correctly. If you regard money as a constructive thing, something to be used beneficially for yourself, your family and your community, something with which to build up and produce improvements, you are on solid ground; nothing can shake you, nothing, outside of earthquakes and fires, can ruin you financially. Let me put it this way: The use a man makes of his money after he has got his hands on it is the measure of his worth."

PRINCE OF TAVERN WRITERS

"Good Old Horace" Positively Popular in the American Meaning, Declares Genial Midwest Critic.

Old Horatius Flaccus of all the ancient bards is nearest to our modern sense. He is positively "popular" in the American meaning. Nearly every rhymster translates or parodies an ode or two. He is very affinitive, companionable and appropos, so to speak. We understand him and feel certain that he would understand us were he here. He would be conducting a "colyum" of quips and jests upon some editorial page or else be a better James Whitcomb Riley were he one of us right now. To be sure, he would have to alter his morals a mite to serenade Lalage and to babble of Falernian a little less, but in general Horace would be "right there with the push."

Old Horace is a brother and a sport, as well as all men who read him feel, observes a writer in the Minneapolis Journal. And that is why so many are strong for him still, just as the late Eugene Field was. That Sabine farm of his, some miles out of Caesarian Home and a long time back in the centuries, is as familiar to us as "out to old Aunt Mary's."

Measuring High Temperature.

Tin, which melts at about 450 degrees Fahrenheit, has been applied to the measurement of high temperatures in the same way that mercury, melting at 38 degrees below zero, is used for measuring ordinary atmosphere temperatures. Instead of being placed in a glass bulb with closed tube, says the Nebraska State Journal, the melted tin is contained in a graphite bulb having an open tube, and readings are made by lowering into the tube a plunger of a metal with a high melting point. When the plunger touches the tin, an electric circuit is closed, giving a bell or other signal, the position of the plunger showing the temperature. This new form of pyrometer may be used in either of two ways (1) to give the temperature at any time by sliding down the pointer until the electric signal is set off, or (2) to announce when any predetermined temperature is reached by setting the pointer at the proper number of degrees on the scale. As the melted tin, like melted mercury, is found to expand at a very even rate, the indications are held to be notably accurate.

Men and Watches.

Special talent often makes fine spurts ahead and genius sometimes soars grandly, but it is the steady-going sort of worker who gets the most done in the end, and is the most reliable. It is with men as it is with their watches—the most reliable and serviceable are the ones steadily at work, a writer on the Canadian Herald observes. There is a Pennsylvania railroad engineer who has retired on a pension after 48 years of service. "I have carried one watch for more than 26 years," he says, "and it always kept the right time. A good engineer must have a good watch; it does the most important part of his work." It is said of this engineer that he has been an exceptionally sober, orderly, steady-going man, whose health has always been good and his record always clean. But doesn't this go without saying, when we know that his watch always kept the right time?

Don't Betray Confidence.

"Now you mustn't repeat this, for I promised not to tell anybody." When a girl prefaces a breach of confidence in this fashion, she will not deceive herself into thinking that she has made things all right, not at least if she stops to think, says a writer. For to pass a secret on to one, is as much a violation as to tell all, and moreover, if she herself is so little bound by a pledge, why should she expect another to abide by it. If you are given to betraying confidences, do not pretend that you make it all right by assuming that your confidante is more honorable than you are.

The Constipation Evil

There is no ailment to which the body is subject that is so far reaching in its injurious effects as constipation. It means a congestion of the bowels and usually causes sick headache, pains in the back, sour stomach, salivary complexion, offensive breath or loss of appetite. When you suffer from any of these ills, take a few doses of Granger Liver Regulator. You will be surprised how quickly it restores your normal health. Granger Liver Regulator contains no calomel and produces none of its distressing effects. It has, however, all the corrective value of calomel, and may be freely given to children as well as to adults. Granger Liver Regulator is also free from alcohol. A box of it lasts long, and a few doses relieve ordinary cases of biliousness. Granger Liver Regulator is sold by druggists everywhere at 25c a box. Refuse all substitutes as there is no other medicine just like Granger Liver Regulator.

CALLED HER FAMILY TO HER BEDSIDE

Six Years Ago, Thinking She Might Die, Says Texas Lady, But Now She Is a Well, Strong Woman and Praises Cardui For Her Recovery.

Royse City, Tex.—Mrs. Mary Kilman, of this place, says: "After the birth of my little girl... my side commenced to hurt me. I had to go back to bed. We called the doctor. He treated me... but I got no better. I got worse and worse until the misery was unbearable... I was in bed for three months and suffered such agony that I was just drawn up in a knot... I told my husband if he would get me a bottle of Cardui I would try it... I commenced taking it, however, that evening I called my family about me... for I knew I could not last many days unless I had a change for the better. That was six years ago and I am still here and am a well, strong woman, and I owe my life to Cardui. I had only taken half the bottle when I began to feel better. The misery in my side got less... I continued right on taking the Cardui until I had taken three bottles and I did not need any more for I was well and never felt better in my life... I have never had any trouble from that day to this."

Do you suffer from headache, backache, pains in sides, or other discomforts, each month? Or do you feel weak, nervous and fagged-out? If so, give Cardui, the woman's tonic, a trial.
