"I Pray You Have Me Excused."

When the war is fought, the victory won, The Mellinism of Peace on earth's begun And our boys are telling how it was done

How will you feel you son of a hun? Who does not hear the call for help from across the waters where three of the first peoples of the world are fighting the battle of Humanity, therefore the battle of God? None. Some stop their ears, others fear the hardships of a soldier's life and its dangers and do everything they can to keep out of it all. A wad of forty cents cotton will keep some from hearing the call of the Red Cross, the call of patriotism to buy Liberty Bonds or W. S. S. Some of them complain that it's a hardship that they can't mill their wheat and sell their laborers as much as they want, fill their own pouches with home cured meat and other things that are wanted for the soldiers who are fighting their battles. Fighting to keep his titles to the land he owns in his hands, to protect him, his wife and daughters from the horrors through which the people of France and Belgium are passing. If he has sons of draft age he moves heaven and earth (and the examining board if possible) to keep them at home. "Let Smith's son go, let Jones son go, but for God's sake help me to devise some means for keeping my boy at home. That is how the elderly slacker (selfish old devils) feels and acts. The young slacker gets him a wife to help him shrink a mans duty. God help the next generation if those who compose it have slacker sires, and mothers who are so lost to sentiments that inspired the southern women of '60-65 in the south as to try to keep their young husbands at home. Let the young married men say to their wives "I could not love the dear so well loved I not honor more." Let the wives say what their grandmothers would have said to a slacker husband:

If deaf to the call from over the sea, You are dead to honor, and false to me, Leave my arms and quit my bed Rather than coward I'd embrace you dead. I don't mean to intimate that all who married recently committed matrimony from such an unworthy motive, but some did I fear and if there is any such in Dillon 'him have I offended' and only him.

Life Was a Misery

Mrs. F. M. Jones, of Palmer, Okla., writes: "From the time I entered into womanhood . . . I looked with dread from one month to the next. I suffered with my back and bearing-down pain, until life to me was a misery. I would think I could not endure the pain any longer, and I gradually got worse. . . Nothing seemed to help me until, one day, . . . I decided to

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"I took four bottles," Mrs. Jones goes on to say, "and was not only greatly relieved, but can truthfully say that I have not a pain. . .

"It has now been two years since I took Cardui, and I am still in good health. . . I would advise any woman or girl to use Cardui who is a sufferer from any female trouble."

If you suffer pain caused from womanly trouble, or if you feel the need of a good strengthening tonic to build up your run-down system, take the advice of Mrs. Jones. Try Cardui. It helped her. We believe it will help you.

Don't Waste Sugar.

Sugar sunk in the bottom of a coffee cup or ice tea glass is wasted the same as sugar sunk by a submarine. There is not a spoonful of sugar to be wasted if the supply in sight is to last for the next six months.

Only the individual consumer, who buys for household use, can secure sugar now without a certificate. The Food Administration has placed all manufacturers using sugar, all soda fountains and soft drink makers, all hotels and public eating places, on a sugar ration. The home consumer, the individual, is expected by the Food Administration to apply the sugar ration to himself voluntarily—three pounds per month per person.

In this, the cooperation of the housewife is absolutely necessary.

Not more than two pounds of sugar will be sold at one purchase to any one person residing in a city or town, and not more than five pounds will be sold to any one person living in a rural community.

Sugar should not be used to sweeten fruits.

Children should be taught to do without their accustomed sweets.

To help make the supply go round and to divide with the soldiers and the people of allied countries, everyone must save sugar.

Use no more than is absolutely necessary, for sugar is precious.

For canning and preserving sugar can be obtained up to 25 pounds per month upon the signing of pledges, which the dealers have, that the sugar will be used for this purpose only; but rich jellies and preserves should not be attempted this summer in view of the acuteness of the sugar shortages, says the Food Administration.
