NOVEMBER 21, 1930.

If radical Republicans can have their way the coming session of Congress will see a political fight not equalled in intensity and bitterness since the Republicans tried to pass the notorious force bill.

The Orphans' Day.

The Times publishes with pleasure the following appeal from Rev. Dr. Jacobs, president of Thornwell Orphanage.

Thursday, November 29th, is the orphans' day. Give, brother, with all your heart, because the Lord has blessed you. There are plenty of orphans to remember, help your own, and then remember that there are two hundred orphans at the Thornwell Orphanage, Clinton, drawn from every Southern State and some Northern States, and even from the Isles of the sea.

The Landford Power.

The State, Saturday: Colonel Leroy Springs, of Lancaster, was in Columbia yesterday and being gored and pumped without mercy, the following information as to the electric power and mill developments in his section of the State was secured.

Colonel Springs is also president of the Landford Power Company, which is about to be reorganized with ample capital with the object of developing 10,000 horse power of water at Landfords on the Catawba river, in Lancaster and Chester counties. It is intended to utilize this power by distribution to Lancaster, Chester, Rock Hill and Fort Mill, and to Charlotte if the demands of the four places named shall not be sufficient to absorb the supply.

At Lancaster the power will be used by the Lancaster mills, 2,000 horse power; at Chester by the Springfield cotton mills, of which Colonel Springs is president, the Kuska and Wylie mills and also by the town of Chester for its electric light service, the total consumption being from 2,000 to 2,500 horse power. There is demand for the power at Rock Hill and Fort Mill, but the details of distribution have not been decided upon.

The Scoundrel Acquitted of Murder.

A Yorkville special says that after retreating out one hour and thirty-six minutes the jury in the case of Paul Dutton and John S. Branton, charged with the murder of Harry A. Brown, in Rock Hill on the night of September 14 last, at 3:25 o'clock Saturday afternoon returned a verdict of not guilty.

John S. Branton was the only witness put on the stand Saturday. In answer to questions by W. W. Lewis, esq., he told his story about as follows:

"I am 48 years of age and was married in 1887 to Miss Fannie Crockett. Four children have been born to us and two of them, both girls, are living. I loved my wife and children as my life.

"On the night of September 13, I went to bed in my room in the front part of the house. My little daughter was sleeping in the room. Between 9 and 10 o'clock my wife came into the room, as I thought, to arrange the covering and mattress of the bed in which the child was sleeping and went out. She had had some teeth pulled that afternoon and fearing that she was restless, I started to her room to see if there was anything I could do for her.

"I determined then and there that I would kill Brown whenever I should find him. I sent for my brother, Paul, to go to Rock Hill with me after Brown. Paul tried to persuade me not to go, but I told him that I would go whether he went or not. I was not certain that we would find Brown, for I was aware that my wife had written him to escape or he would be killed. It took me some time after reaching Rock Hill to find the place. I knocked at the door, Mr. Neal came down. I asked for Brown, saying that I wanted him to do some painting and must see him at once. Mr. Neal went back and forth twice before I concluded that Brown was not coming out.

"Outside, I told the negro, Will Caldwell, I have shot Brown. Don't you tell. We then came back to Yorkville. I surrendered to the sheriff voluntarily as soon as I heard of the verdict at the inquest. I did not go to bed after the incident of Thursday night until Sunday night."

Attention, Ft. Mill Infantry. You will assemble at the regular assembly on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 21, 1930, at 3 o'clock in full uniform for parade inspection. Every member is required to be present. By order of Inspector General, W. R. BRADFORD, Captain.

Improve Your Mind.

One way to do it is by reading good magazines—Munsey's and McClure's, for instance. The next number—the Christmas number—of these magazines will be replete with choice reading matter and beautiful illustrations. Ten cents each. Ready, December 2. Send in your order at once to— THE FORT MILL TIMES.
