PROCEEDINGS OF THE LEGISLATURE

FIRST SESSION OF SEVENTY-THIRD GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF S. C. IN CONVENTION.

GALLON INSTEAD OF QUART

Highway Department Bills Introduced Providing for a Bond Issue of $25,000,000 For Good Roads.

Columbia, Jan. 31.—Both houses of the general assembly adjourned at noon until Tuesday night. In that Monday is the first Monday in the month, many of the members desired to be at home salesday as the custom is each legislative session.

A large number of local and untested measures received second and third reading. The Hamblin compulsory school attendance bill, requiring attendance four months or 80 days, was sent to the senate. This was the only bill of statewide importance considered.

H. H. Evans of Newberry introduced a bill to amend the present quart a month law in South Carolina so as to allow a gallon a month instead. Section 2 of the bill reads:

"Any person over the age of 21, except as hereinafter forbidden, may order or receive or transport in his personal baggage from any point within this state, not exceeding one gallon of alcohol, within any one calendar month for medicinal purposes for his or her own use or for the use of his or her immediate family not more than one gallon of wine for religious purposes."

Mr. Burguson of Charleston introduced two highway department bills, one calling for the proposed $25,000,000 bond issue, bonds to be retired by the state, the debt to be absorbed by a sinking fund from automobile licenses. The bonds would be used in the construction of a statewide system of permanent highways, the main arteries to connect all the county seats of the state.

The second bill would create the machinery with which to direct the building of the system. The chief factor would be the state highway commission, composed of the three professors of engineering at the University of South Carolina, Clemson and the Citadel, and one member from each congressional district appointed by the governor for a term of three years.

Feb. 4.—Refreshed by its week-end rest, the house of representatives re-assembled, and before its adjournment had considered measures dealing with a variety of matters.

The bill introduced by Representative Mann, requiring all public schools employing two or more teachers to teach tenth grade students, which bill was up for its passage to a third reading brought forth the most prolonged and interesting debate of the evening. After the measure had been up for consideration for some time, it was finally passed to a third reading, with the amendment that the bill should not apply to any district already maintaining a high school.

Another measure that was up for its passage to a third reading had to do with granting permission to blind or ignorant voters to secure assistance in filling out their ballot, was introduced by Representative Dreher and intends to amend a section of the act to regulate the conduct of primary. The motion of Representative Moise to strike out the enacting words of the bill was lost.

The following bills of general interest were introduced and referred to the committee on finance:

Mr. Christensen: To establish a State highway department to define its powers and duties; prescribe the duties and qualifications, fix the terms of offices and compensation of the State highway commission and State highway engineers; to provide for the maintenance of the State highways department by registering and licensing motor vehicles operated upon the highways of this State to assent to the provision of an act to provide that the United States shall aid the States in the construction of rural post roads and for other purposes.

Mr. Banks: To provide insurance for warehouses operated by the State of South Carolina and for cotton stored therein.

Mr. Banks: To amend section 8 of an act entitled an act to provide for the insurance of all public buildings of the State and of several counties of the State and of the public school buildings of brick and concrete construction by the sinking fund commission: approved March 26, 1918, prohibiting for any cause the discontinuance of the payment of premiums.

House.

Feb. 5.—The house received the Christensen-McGhee concurrent resolution from the senate proposing to submit to the people the question of rewriting the State constitution. The constitution was written in 185 and is in many respects obsolete or encumbered with restrictions. This question is now the most important piece of legislation before the lower house and will likely be reported out by the committee within the next few days.

The house also sent to the senate the Mann bill requiring the teaching of tenth grade pupils in all schools employing two or more teachers.

The Horton bill to allow the employment of children between the ages of 12 and 16 years in cotton mills during the months of June, July and August, when the schools are not in session, was passed to third reading. The employment of the children would not exempt any district from the provisions of the compulsory attendance law, which requires attendance four months in the year.

Senate.

The Davis bill, prohibiting the location of any court house within three miles of any county line, cause the rise of a short debate between Senators Banks of Calhoun and Young of Charleston. This debate was interrupted by the arrival of the hour for the memorial exercises of the late Senator B. E. Nicholson.

The clerk of the senate read the resolution relative to the occasion, a copy of which is to be engrossed and sent to the family of the late senator.

Senators Shelor of Oconee, Black of Bamberg, Walker of Georgetown, Banks of Calhoun, Johnstone of Newberry, Laney of Chesterfield, Christensen of Beaufort, Padgett of Colleton, Sheppard of Edgefield and Lieutenant Governor Liles, each made a few remarks in tribute to the memory of their brother statesman.

Feb. 6.—Three bills were struck from the calendar in the house of representatives on the 4th of the week, and the day not to be in excess of nine hours. The vote was 69 against the measure and 23 for. The chief argument against the bill was made by Representative Leopard of Pickens county, himself a cotton mill man. Mr. Leopard contended that the bill would in effect reduce the wages of the cotton mill operatives 20 per cent, which the operatives themselves would resent at this time.

The Horton bill to allow children between the ages of 20 and 16 years to work in cotton mills during the summer school vacation was passed and sent to the senate.

Senate.

The senate convened at 11 o'clock and completed its calendar for the day in a little more than two hours. About 25 new bills were introduced. The majority of these were local. Among those Statewide in application were the following:

To provide for the enforcement of the provisions of law against allowing tips to be given to the employees, by the department of agriculture, commerce and industry, introduced by Senator Pearce of Richland county.

To authorize the county treasurers of each county of this State to rebate the poll tax and road tax of each soldier and sailor who was in bona fide service during the world war, introduced by Senator Butler of Cherokee.

To provide a permanent record of all soldiers and sailors of the United States army and navy who enlisted for service from the State of South Carolina during the war with Germany and her allies, also introduced by Mr. Butler.

Five Navy Entrants.

Five South Carolinians enlisted in the United States navy at the central recruiting station in the Arcade building. The young men enlisting were William Washington Smith and Geo. C. Holliday of Greenville; Henry E. F. Metcalf and Luther J. Edwards of Spartanburg and John H. A. Derrick of Columbia. Four of the young men enlisted as apprentice seamen, while Edwards enlisted as fireman, third class. Subrecruiting stations for the navy have been opened at Spartanburg, Greenville and Charleston.

En Route to Cuba.

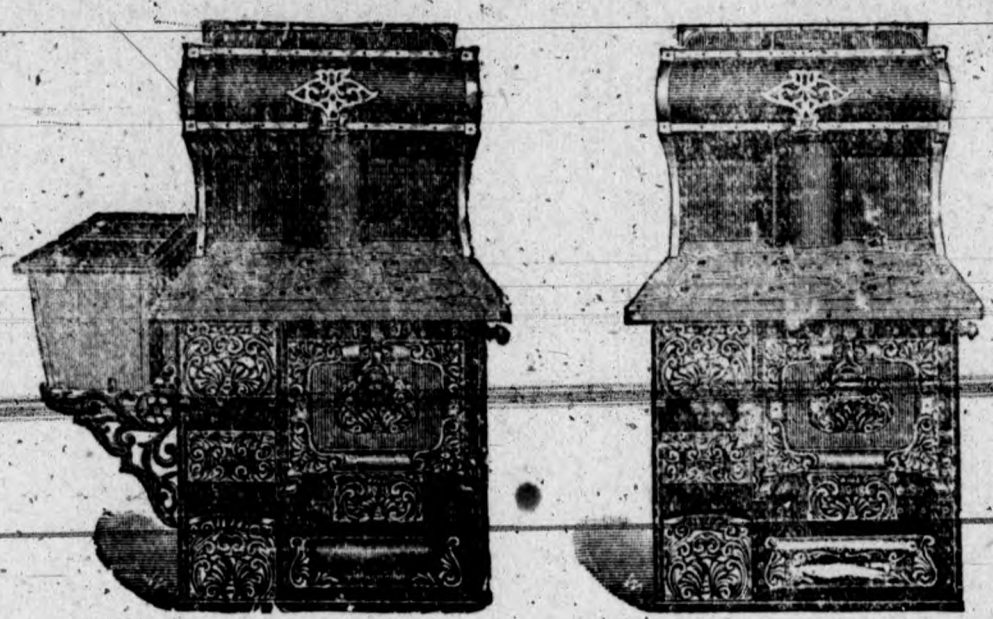

Prof. Oscar L. Keith of the University of South Carolina is on his way to Cuba and South American countries for an extensive traveling expedition to become more familiar with the Spanish language. Word was received at the university from the professor saying he was in St. Augustine, Fla., and expected to sail in a few days for Cuba. Professor Keith was granted leave of absence until the fall term of school in 1919 by the board of trustees of the university at their meeting in December.
