A good citizen is one who hopes for the best and prepares for the worst. Are you one?

It is not what we do, but how we do it that makes the difference between success and failure.

The young fellow who wants to roll up a fortune, must first learn to roll up his sleeves.

Your neighbors can't bridle your tongue, so you had better take care of it.

HIGH PRICES AND HIGH WAGES

High prices, both for labor and commodities, are generally regarded as one of the penalties of war, and the return of prices to a lower level has been looked forward to as one of the blessings which would follow the declaration of peace. Up to the present time changes have been insignificant and competent authorities are of the opinion that pre-war prices will never return. Dr. Irving Fisher, professor of political economy in Yale University, makes the following statement upon the subject: "Business men should face the facts. To talk reverently of 1913-14 prices is to speak a dead language today. The buyers of the country, since the armistice, have made an unexampled attack upon prices through their waiting attitude, and yet price recessions have been insignificant. The reason is that we are on a new high-price level, which will be found a stubborn reality. Business men are going to find out that the clever man is not the man who waits, but the one who finds out the price facts and acts accordingly."

High prices and high wages are not to be deplored after they have become fixed. The hardships entailed come in conjunction with the period of adjustment, and during this period some branches of business and some industries suffer. Recognizing the necessity and permanence of high wages every business man should adjust his business accordingly, so that there may be both a margin of profit for himself and increased wages for those who are in his employ. In most cases the reason why high prices fall so heavily upon the salaried man is that the business man has been slow to add a wage increase to the price of that which he has to sell. When all adjustments are properly made high prices will mean no greater hardship than low prices.

The commencement season, the big event of the year in our city, will soon be upon us. All of our educational institutions report a successful year's work and are optimistic over the future. Several strong speakers have been announced and our people may look forward to the closing exercises with the expectation of something good.

If your neighbor is prosperous, let him prosper. Don't grunt, growl or grumble. Say a good word for him, and let it go at that. Don't be a knocker. Your turn will come. No one man is the whole show in this old world, though some think so. If you see that the town is moving along nicely and prosperity is in the air, feel good about it. Help things along, shove a little. Try to get some of the benefit yourself. Don't waste time feeling sore because some fellow has a little more sand and sense than you have. Do a little hustling yourself.

EVIDENTLY SHE TEACHES FOR THE LOVE OF TEACHING.

A good deal of light is being thrown on the school teacher and the salary attached to the teaching job by the newspapers of the country these days, and the more the question is discussed the more absurd and impossible becomes the public's attitude towards the payment of those employed in this fundamental work. It is very evident from an analysis of the situation that the teachers in this country have been teaching just for the love of the work. They have certainly not been deriving a living wage.

The United States Department of the Interior has recently issued a bulletin on the subject, urging better salaries for those employed in the schools of the country and in this bulletin quotes from an interesting editorial recently appearing in The Augusta (Ga.) Herald, on "The Luxury of Being a School Teacher in Georgia."

"An imaginary budget for the personal expenses of the teacher, who received $1,000 a year, is reproduced. 'Her room costs her $5 a week,' according to the budget. 'It is not a large room. The location is near the school, so she has no car fare. Surely that is not extravagant. She gets breakfast and supper in the house for $7 a week, and her lunches cost her 25 cents a day. She decides to reckon expenses by the year, allowing no extra for vacation outings, which might be classed as extravagance. Her laundry is 75 cents a week and when she washes out things in her room she does it on the 'Q. T.' as the boarding house keeper objects. Total to date, $260 for rent; $456.25 for food and $39 for laundry.

"She allows herself four letters a week, which means $6.25 for postage. While she lives within walking distance of her school, she rides to church, and three other times a week at the least. This amounts to $20.80, and does not provide for visits even to the suburbs.

"All her clothes are inexpensive—she hesitates at the word cheap. One year she buys a winter suit and the next year a summer suit, which she gets for $30. This year she bought a coat at the end of the season for $30. She has one woolen dress for school at $20, and one afternoon dress at $20. For her winter hat she pays $6, and for her summer hat $4. Three wash shirtwaists amount to $6, and she has one 'best' waist for summer at $4. Her silk waist for winter is $5. Underclothes makes a large hole in a $20 bill; one pair of boots are $6, and oxfords at $4. She places pumps out of consideration. Rubbers are $1.

"For the summer she gets a colored cotton dress at $5, one afternoon dress at $7, and a white skirt at $4. She pays $3 for a petticoat with a silk ruffle, and $1 for a satine petticoat. She has one new white petticoat, which costs her $2. She has great luck about gloves, for at a sale she buys dogskin gloves for $1.50, one pair of white kids for $1.50 and one pair of silk gloves for summer, for $1. Collars cost her $1, and she allows $5 for toilet articles, soap, hairpins, nets and all other small articles, including sewing materials with which to 'make over' her old clothes to go another season. This makes her total for clothes $186.50, with a resulting outfit which is far from satisfactory. Compulsory teachers' insurance brings the total to $988.79.

"She has $11.21 left, with which she must pay that dentist's bill which is looming before her, and all luxuries. Under luxuries she classes books, newspapers, magazine, doctor's bills, broken glasses, car fare outside the city, university extension course which she has set her heart on taking, vacations, an occasional theatre, (peanut gallery), 'movies,' lectures, concerts or opera, once in a while—ah! wicked thought!—sundae, an occasional attempt to return hospitality that she may not be known among her friends as a 'sponge,' the biennial cleaning of her watch, Christmas cards and gifts, furs and Liberty bonds.

GREAT WAR PICTURE AT CASINO TODAY

One of the most marvelous war pictures that have ever been filmed and to pass the censor, will be shown in Clinton today at the Casino Theatre free of charge. It will be the "Price of Peace," which is a five-reel production, that was filmed by the treasury department, and is being sent to this city in the interest of the Victory Loan. An added feature of this part of the day's program will be the fact that Lieut. James C. Dozier, formerly a student at Wofford College of Spartanburg, and winner of the congressional medal of honor and the British military cross, will be at the Casino Theatre during the showing of the picture and will talk to the audience.

This wonderful production contained 5,000 feet of the most realistic scenes depicting things of general interest about the war and preparation for it, that have been shown on the screen. Four-fifths of the film is devoted to actual battle scenes which were taken on the western front in France, during some of the fiercest fighting, and the filming of these battle scenes cost the lives of three camera men. Very few scenes of real action have ever passed the censor, and many producers have endeavored to secure the picture from the government, but without success.

Arrangements have been made by Chairman B. H. Boyd with the Casino management to show "The Price of Peace" today free of charge to the public. There will be two performances: From 1:00 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 5:30 to 7:00 p. m. Both shows are free to everybody—it's Liberty Bond Day.

NEW EXCHANGE TELEPHONE RATES EFFECTIVE MAY 1, 1919.

A new schedule of telephone exchange rates becomes effective in Clinton May 1st., by direction of the Operating Board of the United States Telegraph and Telephone Administration, acting under the order of the Postmaster General of the United States.

As you know, all of the lines and property of this company are in the possession, control and are being operated by the United States.

The new rates are necessary in order that additional revenue may be secured by the government to meet the increase operating expenses. The causes which make greater telephone revenue necessary are due to the new conditions and the new price levels introduced by the war and are entirely beyond the control of the United States Telegraph and Telephone Administration or of the Telephone Company.

More than two years ago the Company foresaw that the telephone system would be operated at a loss unless the rates could be adjusted to meet the increasing costs of all elements entering into the production of service. A similar rate adjustment would have been unavoidable under private control and the new rate schedule is practically the same we would have sought in 1918 if the government had not taken possession of our property.

As stated by the Postmaster General, the owners of the telephone system do not benefit in any way from rate changes. Practically all of the increased operating expenses which require this additional revenue are due to increased wages paid to employees to enable them to meet the new conditions of life in the present day.

It is neither practicable nor desirable to reduce wages, and so far as wages are concerned we believe that portion of the increased operating expenses to be permanent.

The new rate schedule is fair and reasonable and the percentage of increased revenue which it will produce is much lower than the increased cost of other services and commodities of a similar character.

Complete detailed information about the new rates may be obtained at the manager's office. We are making every effort to change our records promptly and your courteous consideration will be appreciated. The new rate for your service is shown on your statement for May 1.
