

COOPER AND MANNING MAKE APPEAL FOR SOLDIERS' MEMORIAL FUND

To the People of South Carolina:
The General Assembly at its last session passed a joint resolution providing for the erection of a building as a memorial to those who died in the service of this country during the World War, and to all others who served, whether as soldiers, sailors, marines, nurses or members of kindred organizations devoted to the cause for which the war was fought. Under the resolution the sum of $100,000 is made available from the State treasury whenever, in the opinion of the Memorial Commission, which also was created by the resolution, a sufficient sum shall have been raised by popular subscription. This commission, of which the Governor is chairman, has decided that $400,000 is the proper amount to be given by the people of the State in direct donations. The building, which will be erected on lands now held by the trustees of the University of South Carolina, will have an alcove for each county, and in these alcoves will be preserved in marble or bronze or other imperishable form the records of the sons and daughters of the State who gave all, or offered all. The memorial structure will be held by the South Carolina Historical Commission. The building could easily be made to house the records of all the wars in which South Carolina has participated, and thus, in the course of a few years, to become an admirable historical museum and library. Records and relics of the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Seminole War, the Mexican War, the War of Secession, the Spanish-American War, and finally the great World War could be assembled and forever preserved. In this building may be held meetings of Veterans, various historical and educational gatherings, and other assemblages which have for their purpose the betterment of our State and the honoring of those who have served and died in the days of dire need. The structure will be an inspiration to patriotism, courage, justice and gratitude. South Carolinians have been somewhat careless as to the preservation of their historical records, a proper respect for gallant deeds and great sacrifices has not always been evidenced. This neglect of historical information has continued to the present day, and unless we do something speedily for the collecting and safe-keeping of our latest war records, the generations to come will be deprived of materials of great value, or inspiration and of a complete understanding of operating factors in the lives of their forefathers. Men of this State fought splendidly in the Thirtieth, the Eighty-first, the Rainbow and other divisions, in the navy and in the marine organizations. These men dedicated their lives to the great cause of universal justice. It is due them that the memorial be erected; it is necessary for the rest of us that we erect it, else we shall suffer because of duty and appreciation neglected, of inspiration lost. Those who suffered the untold miseries of muddy fields and battle perils, those who traveled over the treacherous seas will ever be remembered gratefully by us all. This memorial is but one token of this remembrance. The work and sacrifices of our women have made a brilliant page in our history. Without their unified assistance, their sympathy, prayers and courage, the morale of our fighting men would have fallen, and battles won would have been battles lost. Shall this chapter of our history be neglected? The memorial building will keep the facts fresh in mind. South Carolina as a State is better; we as individuals are better for having had the soldiers, sailors and marines as friends, brothers, sons, fathers, husbands. We are better, too, for having had the noble women workers as friends, sisters and mothers. Those who served in the mobilized forces of the Nation did their duty well and willingly. Shall we not do ours to the fullest. While they were fighting, we supported them from our positions at home. Their fighting is now ended, but we have yet another task before us. It is for us now to keep animated the high-souled ideals which inspired the armies and the fleets; it is for us to show apprecia-

AMERICANIZATION URGED BY KENYON

Chairman Senate Committee Investigation Steel Strike Issues Statement.
Washington, Oct. 13.—Americanization of foreigners should be an immediate effort of congress through legislation, declared Senator Kenyon, of Iowa, chairman of the senate labor committee, which returned today from an investigation of the steel strike in the Pittsburgh district. Asserting that about half of the steel workers are of foreign birth and cannot read, write or speak English, Senator Kenyon said one of the first aims of congress as a result of the committee's inquiry should be Americanization legislation. The senator declined to discuss other ideas gained from the committee investigation which he said would be continued in the near future, possibly in other strike districts. In a formal statement issued late today Senator Kenyon said: "I do not desire to discuss the steel strike, nor the reasons nor causes therefor at this time. The committee has not as yet completed its investigation. I think it permissible to say, however, that the committee returned from the Pittsburgh district strongly in favor of some Americanization bill. "I have thought for a long while that congress must do what it could to help stimulate Americanism. That is a common ground upon which we all can stand and is a rallying point for all. When you find that in some of these mills over 50 per cent of the workmen cannot read, write or speak the American language; when it is necessary in these mills to publish orders in all kinds of languages, it is time for the American people represented by the American congress to give determined consideration to some tion. Ingratitude will never be used as an adjective to describe South Carolina. This is not an appeal, because no appeal to the people of South Carolina in this connection should be necessary, but merely a reminder that you have the privilege of making a contribution to this very worthy cause on or before November 11, 1919. ROBERT A. COOPER, Governor and Chairman. RICHARD I. MANNING, Vice-Chairman.

plan affording these foreign citizens an opportunity to learn what the institutions of America stand for and to become Americanized. We saw some young fellows who had only a smattering of our tongue who impressed us as splendid material out of which to make American citizens. "Two bills are now pending before the committee of which I have the honor to be chairman, dealing with this question. The committee meets this week to take them up, and I earnestly hope that one or both of them may be reported out of the committee and may be passed by congress before adjournment. There is no greater question than that of Americanizing this nation of ours. "Many of those who cannot speak our language are yearning to know it and want the opportunity to learn about our institutions. Most of them have subscribed for Liberty bonds but how can they know anything about American institutions when they cannot speak America's language. We cannot reach a one-language nation over night but that eventually should be our goal. It will take some time,

WHITE MEN KILL TURNER'S PARTNER

Negro Who Boasted of Having Part in Shooting in Greenville, Killed in Anderson.
Anderson, Oct. 11.—Red Frazier, a negro, who, it is said, boasted of being a partner of Joe Turner, and that he played a part in the Greenville episode last Sunday morning when two policemen were killed, was shot and killed by two white men, J. S. McMinn and Robert Cawley, in the Anderson mill village this morning at 8 o'clock. The men came to the police station after the shooting and gave up to Chief Sammons, who notified Sheriff Sanders, and the latter placed them in the county jail. but the result will be worth while, for there is national solidarity in all people of a nation speaking the same language. Eight and a half million people in this country over ten years of age cannot speak, read, or write the American language. To the correction of that condition every citizen should resolve to do his part." Frazier's body showed five bullet wounds and his head one. A white man turned over to Sheriff Sanders two pistols, one of .32 calibre and the other of .38, which he said McMinn and Corley had given him. The .38 had three empty chambers and the .32 had four. Frazier was one of a gang of negroes which is being employed by the Flske-Carter Construction company of Greenville in painting houses at the Anderson mill. He appeared early Friday morning and asked for work. During the afternoon he is said to have given some trouble and that he made boasts about having killed four men. This morning the two white men went into the house where he was at work and called his attention to the poor class of painting he was doing and told him to go over it. It is said that he began cursing them and put his hands in his overalls. The men claim that they had heard him say he had a pistol and that upon seeing him make this move, they fired. The shooting occurred in the room where the negro was at work. A .32 calibre U. S. special was found upon him. It is said that his home is about four miles north of Anderson.

Studebaker "Auto" Track—and Why

First—why "auto" track? Because "auto" track wagons fit the roads of today. Because the track on nearly every country road is now made by automobiles or wagons with a standard width of 56 inches. And because no other wagon width will fit any of the roads in the very near future.

Second—why Studebaker? Because the manufacturers of Studebaker "auto" track wagons are and have been wagon specialists since 1852. Sixty-seven years of wagon building by this concern has left its trail of improvement after improvement right up to the last wagon they have delivered to us.

Among the special construction features brought to the highest possible state of perfection by these manufacturers, and included in the building of Studebaker "auto" track wagons, are the slope shoulder spoke, transom plate, trussed axle and dowel pin. All wooden parts are given a linseed oil bath before painting.

And the makers of these wagons have also perfected their own exclusive method of "dishing" their wheels to insure their running on a plumb spoke. Because of the way in which they build set and gather into the gears Studebaker wheels revolve freely and "chuck" between the skein collar and the axle nut.

These are but a few of the reasons why your next wagon should be a Studebaker "auto" track. You, yourself, will discover a hundred more once you see this wagon. And any that you may miss, we'll be glad to explain to you. Come in and look this wagon over whether you're ready to buy today or not.
