

GET READY FOR "FLU"

Keep Your Liver Active, Your System Purified and Free From Colds by Taking Calotabs, the Nauseless Calomel Tablets, that are Delightful, Safe and Sure.

Physicians and Druggists are advising their friends to keep their systems purified and their organs in perfect working order as a protection against the return of influenza. They know that a clogged up system and a lazy liver favor colds, influenza and serious complications.

To cut short a cold overnight and to prevent serious complications take one Calotab at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea, no griping, no sickening after effects. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified and refreshed and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please—no danger.

Calotabs are sold only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Every druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not perfectly delighted with Calotabs.—(Adv.)

IMPORTANT COTTON MEETING

Large Attendance is Expected at the Coming Meeting of South Carolina Cotton Association.

Columbia, S. C.—Officers for the ensuing year will be elected and much other business of importance transacted at the annual meeting of the South Carolina Cotton Association which will be held here on Tuesday, December 2. Officers of the association have a matter of tremendous importance to submit to the meeting, they say, a matter that will affect every farmer in the state.

A large attendance is expected at the meeting. Every member of the association in the state is invited to attend and there will be official delegations from each county, chosen by the various county associations.

Addresses will be delivered by a number of prominent men. Officers of the association have invited a number of men of wide reputation to speak but pending their acceptance of the invitations their names will not be announced.

To Elect Officers.

Great interest centers around the election of officers. J. Skottowe Wannamaker, who has been chairman of the South Carolina Cotton Association since its formation, has announced that he will be forced to retire from the head of the state association in order to devote all of his time to the presidency of the American Cotton Association, which embraces the entire belt. There is much speculation as to who will succeed Mr. Wannamaker at the head of the association.

A vice president and a treasurer and a state executive committee will also be chosen.

Present officers of the South Carolina Cotton Association are: J. Skottowe Wannamaker, of St. Matthews, chairman; John T. Mackey, of Camden, treasurer; Julien C. Rogers, of Columbia, assistant treasurer; Mrs. H. R. Clinkscales, of Columbia, secretary; Harold C. Booker, of Columbia, publicity chairman; E. F. McLeod, of Charleston, state manager; J. S. Wannamaker, of St. Matthews; J. H. Claffey, of Orangeburg; R. M. Mixson, of Williston; John T. Mackey, of Camden; B. F. McLeod, of Charleston; W. W. Long, of Clemson College; T. J. Britt of McCormick and T. G. McLeod of Bishopville, central-committeemen.

In a letter sent to the various county chairmen of the state urging a full attendance at the meeting here Chairman Wannamaker reviews some of the things accomplished by the organization of the cotton belt the past year and touches upon the plans for the future.

"Following in the wake of the organization of the American Cotton Association in each section of the cotton belt," he says, "comes the formation aims, objects and purposes of which we are so earnestly striving. As a result of the work already accomplished the entire South has received untold benefits and is today recognized as the coming part of the nation. More warehouses owned and controlled by the people of the South have been built than at any time since the War Between the States; stock has been raised for the erection of two cotton factories by members of the association; a $3,000,000 corporation for financing and effecting direct sales of cotton has been formed, and a great amount of additional constructive work has been accomplished.

Attracting Attention.

"As a result of the work already accomplished by the American Cotton Association, we are receiving communications from practically every section of the world where cotton is consumed, and from every line of the cotton industry. Also, papers, periodicals and magazines throughout America, Canada and in Europe are carrying special articles concerning the association. We have just been notified by several leading papers and magazines that they are sending special representatives for personal interviews for the purpose of giving special writeups, of the American Cotton Association and the various Southern questions that the association will materially effect, and it is the consensus of opinion that the American Cotton Association is a world-power in the cotton industry today.

"At the December meeting it will be absolutely necessary for me to lay down the duties as state chairman. On account of the multitude of duties connected with the formation of the American Cotton Association I have been for almost the last year forced to lay aside my personal business at an enormous sacrifice as I realize that this was such a great cause and should receive first consideration above every other duty. I feel that there are many men in the state who can fill the position of state president far better than I can. My health has been seriously affected by strain under which I have been laboring and I urge in justice to the state association that you select my successor on December 2. I will still have my hands full as president of the national organization."

No Deduction for Abandonment.

J. Skottowe Wannamaker, president of the American Cotton Association, has made public a message which he had received from the department of agriculture in response to a query sent by the American Cotton Association as to whether in the cotton report of October 1 the department had made any deduction for acreage abandonment. The message from the department states that no deduction in the indicated yield was made for this abandonment "but our crop reporters in the field were supposed to make the deduction in the indicated yield in their condition report for acreage abandonment."

Mr. Wannamaker declares that the crop reporters made no allowance for acreage abandonment, and that therefore there should be a deduction of 3.6 per cent from the indicated yield given in the report of October 1. This would amount to 385,000 bales and would bring the indicated yield down to 10,211,000 bales.

Charleston Navy Yard Attacked.

Washington (Special).—An attack on the Charleston navy yard was made here when Senator Calder of New York and Kenyon of Iowa introduced resolutions which would repeal provisions of the law passed last year authorizing the dredging of a channel to the Charleston yard and the construction of a large new dry dock there.

When informed of the resolutions both Senator Dial and Senator Smith said they would immediately take hold of the situation, and do all in their power to prevent action.

Counties Get Trucks.

Seven new trucks and two concrete mixers have been sent out from Columbia to counties over the state to be used in highway construction. The equipment came from the war department and was sent to Columbia from which point it was dispatched to the counties.

Two trucks went to Kershaw county; two to Richland; two to Darlington and one to Jasper. A concrete mixer was sent to Beaufort and one to Horry.

During the past ten days the highway department has sent out 22 new trucks to various counties.

New Journal Issue.

South Carolina Education, the latest journal of the extension department of the University of South Carolina, will come from the press this week. The paper is devoted to school news and problems in South Carolina and will contain a number of interesting articles. The board of editors is composed of Dr. Patterson Wardlaw, Prof. Leonard T. Baker, Lucio Gunter and J. A. Stoddard.

The issue this week will be the first of eight to be gotten out during the school year.

The paper was established by the board of trustees last summer to meet the needs of men and women who are sacrificing themselves in the school rooms of the state.

Crime Wave Receding.

The crime wave, which swept over South Carolina in the spring and early summer and which caused considerable comment among the people of the state, has passed over, according to a statement given out by the state board of charities and corrections. The board says that there were fewer commitments to jail during the quarter ending September 30 than in any preceding quarter since reports have been turned in to the department.

Urges Government Control.

J. Skottowe Wannamaker, president of the American Cotton Association, sent a telegram to United States Senator Nat H. Dial, urging that the government take charge of the coal mines and then call for volunteers to operate them. This, he says, is necessary to prevent suffering and calamity.

Election Fund Exhausted.

Rut L. Osborne, comptroller general, had advised George W. Thomas, election commissioner, that the fund with which to pay managers has been exhausted. Mr. Osborne says that managers who have not been paid will have to wait until an appropriation has been made by the next general assembly.

Teachers' Meeting Program.

Every department of public school work will be discussed by men and women who have made names for themselves in the educational field at the State Teachers' association which will be held in Columbia November 27-29. The program is unusually rich and complete and the teachers who attend will enjoy the opportunity of hearing experts discuss subjects which have given them difficulty.

The first session will be held November 27, at 8:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Columbia high school.

Publishing Company Commissioned.

The Southern Publishing company of Greenville was commissioned with a proposed capital stock of $50,000. A general stationery, engraving and printing business is contemplated.

The Orange Park Development company of Orangeburg was chartered with a capital stock of $30,000.

The Bank of Bonneau in Berkeley county was commissioned with a proposed capital stock of $15,000.

The Cushman-Townsend company of Alken was chartered with a capital stock of $25,000.
