PAINS

In Side and Back

"I HAD BEEN miserable for a long time. My health was poor, and I suffered a lot from weakness. At times, my strength was so little that I could not stand on my feet. I would have to give up and go to bed. My sides and back hurt dreadfully.

"I grew discouraged, for I could do so little. I worried about myself, and almost gave up hope of ever being strong and well. I could scarcely lift a bucket of water. My house work went undone, for I was not strong enough to do it.

"After I had taken Cardui for a little while, I began to feel better. I grew stronger, soon found that I could do my work with less effort, and the pains in my back and sides left me. I think Cardui is a wonderful medicine. My health has been excellent since then."—Mrs. D. L. Beckner, W. Main St., Salem, Va.

COTTON PRODUCTION SOLVED YET AGRICULTURE IS SICK

David R. Coker Sees Current Plight of Farmers As Challenging Intelligence and Courage of South Carolina. Arouse Optimism and Activity of People Is Task, He Says.

(From The State) A great majority of the people of South Carolina live on farms and depend on agriculture. Cotton is our biggest money crop. During the past eight years the state has averaged 794,214 bales per annum. During the preceding eight years the average was 1,385,891 bales per annum. The production of cotton since the arrival of the boll weevil has been only 57 per cent of the average pre-boll weevil production. These figures largely explain agricultural and business depression and wholesale bank failures. We have exported much money for foodstuffs that we could have easily raised. We have exported millions for automobiles we could have got along without. We have exported great sums for other unnecessary things in the luxury class. We have imported less money from the sale of our products than we have exported. We have made less and spent more. The balance of trade has been heavily against us. It is evident that a reversal of this procedure is the only thing that will save the agriculture of the state. The problem before us is to increase the gross and net returns from our money crops; to produce adequate food and feedstuffs for home consumption, to increase our exportation of fruit and truck crops by wisely and thoroughly exploiting their exceptional therapeutic and food values, to drive home to our people that thrift and economy are sovereign virtues and that waste and extravagance are fatal blunders. We need to sell our wonderful state to our own people and through them sell her to the world. These things can be done and the trend of the past eight years changed if the intelligence of South Carolina can be made to understand the situation and its cause and to get actively at the work of applying the known remedies. The problem of the production of cotton has been solved. Statewide 5-acre cotton contests for the past three years have proved beyond any doubt that more than one bale per acre can be produced at a cost of under ten cents per pound. Under the direction and supervision of the farm demonstration forces of the state the contestants have, in most cases, applied the latest knowledge, fertilization, spacing, seed selection and weevil control. They have not only shown the state that we can produce vastly more cotton per acre at a greatly reduced cost but that we can grow a product of better character and higher spinning value. Recent government statistics show that South Carolina produced in 1923 34 per cent of the cotton of the desirable lengths, 15-16-inch to 1 3/4-32 inch, while Georgia and North Carolina produced only 17 per cent of these lengths. This improvement has taken place within three years as a result of these contests. Notwithstanding the fact that South Carolina has in 1928 produced the smallest crop save one in 16 years, the average production per acre of the 251 contestants was 556 pounds of lint per acre and the average profit as reported by the extension service was $69.39 per acre. With such a cumulative demonstration of agricultural success, which has culminated in the second most disastrous year in recent history, is it not criminal for the majority of intelligent people of South Carolina to sit supinely by, witnessing the dying struggles of agriculture in large sections of the state? We have ample evidence with which to encourage a new spirit of optimism among our people and cause a forward movement for the redemption of our agriculture. The task is to effectively use the evidence to arouse the optimism of the people and galvanize them into activity. DAVID R. COKER. Hartsville.

Memorial Service For Prof. Fant

A memorial service to Prof. A. T. Fant who passed away Sunday, will be held Friday morning at 8:45 in the college chapel. The program will last about twenty minutes and will take the place of the usual chapel exercises. Prof. Fant, with student and faculty, was unusually popular and it is therefore quite fitting that the program has been arranged in his honor. MRS. GEO. WHITE PASSES IN FRANCE

Beloved Woman Dies in Nice, France. Interment To Be Made in Savannah. Was Loved by Many. The news received here the past week of the sudden death of Mrs. Geo. R. White in Nice, France, came as a great surprise to her wide circle of friends and brings great sorrow to all who knew her. Mrs. White died in the Victoria hospital on Jan. 24th, and the sad intelligence came to her brother-in-law, T. D. Copeland, in a cablegram. Another cable received yesterday from Paris from Dr. L. S. Fuller, brother of Mrs. Jack H. Davis of this city, stated that he hoped to get the body started for Savannah today and it is expected that it will arrive there within ten days where the interment will occur. At the time of her death, Mrs. White was on an extended tour of France. She is the only sister of Mrs. T. D. Copeland of this city, and has spent a good part of her time here in recent years. She was known and loved as a noble Christian woman and possessed many beautiful traits of character. Her broad sympathy and her lovely and amiable disposition endeared her to a wide circle of friends. She contributed simply but genuinely to life wherever she touched it, and the announcement of her death so far away from home is unusually sad and brings great sorrow to those who loved and admired her.
