

RENNO PLAY
HERE TONIGHT

"A Little Clodhopper" To Be Presented This Evening By Local Cast In Florida School Building.

"A Little Clodhopper," a three-act play that scored a big hit at Renno last Thursday night, is to be presented to a Clinton audience this evening at 8:15 in the Florida Street school auditorium. The play was given by the ladies of Renno last week for the benefit of the Sardis church fund and the proceeds from their performance here will be applied to the same cause.

A synopsis of the play has already appeared in The Chronicle. Included in its cast are some outstanding "stars," Miss Mattie Abrams, Floyd Pitts, Don Copeland, Mrs. A. I. Dixon, Mrs. J. H. Bell, Mrs. Bluford Copeland, Mrs. David Copeland, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Weir, Mrs. Floyd Pitts, Misses Lyde Ray, Evelyn Ferguson, Mattie L. Copeland, and Messrs. Tan and Jim Ray.

The curtain will go up promptly this evening at 8:15. The entertainment was so well received in Renno that friends invited the young performers to bring it here this evening and on to Goldville Friday night. A small admission will be charged and it is hoped by the Renno neighbors that Clinton will greet them with a packed house tonight.

on a competing basis with other business. The farmer in a large measure has helped make present city life what it is, said Mr. Scarborough, and an attitude of co-operation and helpfulness should be manifested in return toward the rural interests. The population ratio has been turned completely around, said the speaker, with 70 per cent now in the city, and only 30 per cent residing on the farm.

The only hope for agriculture, in the opinion of Mr. Scarborough, is to turn it into an asset rather than a present liability, for all is gone once the rural life of the state and nation is gone. The farmer must follow the example of the commercial world, he said, he must be up-to-date. A market must be made for his commodities on a selling basis that will insure for him a square deal.

In conclusion, Mr. Scarborough spoke of the outstanding advantages of co-operative marketing, as the hope of raising agricultural standards and conditions. The farmer is entitled to a fair market for the disposition of his cotton and other products and the co-operative agency will provide it. The whole philosophy of farm life must be changed, he said, and this condition must be brought about through co-operation and intelligent business methods. Co-operative marketing is purely a merchandising organization, he said, and farmers who have allied themselves in this movement have already received relief through the channels of the organization. During the past five-year period, he said, the association of which he is the directing head, has netted its members 21.18 cents per pound for basic middling cotton and he asked where is the farmer outside the organization that can show a similar average for the same period? Mr. Scarborough's address was filled with helpful information and he was attentively listened to by all present, and well received.

Worried
Night after Night
as health declined

"I SUFFERED frequently from nervous headaches, and I could not sleep well," says Mrs. Cora Dover, R. F. D. 2, Hickory Grove, S. C. "I was thin and pale. I was so weak I could scarcely walk. I tried several remedies which were suggested, but nothing seemed to help me. Night after night I was going down-hill. I had my children to look after, and I was afraid of what would become of them if anything happened to me."

"I began to take Cardui on the recommendation of a friend. It wasn't long until I was beginning to pick up. My strength gradually began to return. I rested better at night and was less nervous. I took several bottles of Cardui, and when I had finished taking it I was in fine health."

Lander Endowment Looks Promising

Greenwood, April 7.—Dr. R. H. Bennett, president of Lander college, announces that recently several friends have advised him that they have written the college in their wills for a total of $35,000. In addition to this amount, he says, "Three believers in Christian education have recently taken annuities with the college for substantial sums," and then the president makes this appeal: "Here is a fine way to give without diminishing one's income. We invite inquiries about this method of saving many thousands of dollars from being swallowed up by the inheritance tax. The college pays a liberal interest on all such funds. This method means freedom from risk and worry in changing one's investments and an assured income through life."

Doctor Bennett says "a fine start has been made on the college endowment of $500,000," and adds: "Safety is in sight if all our subscribers to the endowment keep their promises. We shall much need the help of everyone to make the landing."
