JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET HELD

The annual junior-senior banquet of Presbyterian college, held on last Friday evening was a great success. The host of pretty girls, against the background of the tasteful decorations and the Japanese lanterns made a scene of charm and enchantment that will not soon be forgotten. It is considered to be the best junior-senior that has been held at P. C. in recent years.

Not least among the factors contributing to the success of the banquet was the well-prepared food which comprised the excellent menu. The Woman's club, which was in charge of this part of the function, may well take to itself a large share of the credit for the pleasantness of the evening. The music, furnished by Gene Wofford and his Collegians, was an added feature that served to enliven the entertainment.

Toasts were by President I. M. Keels of the junior class, President A. F. Marshall of the senior class, and President John McSween of Presbyterian college. Keels, who also officiated in the capacity of toast-master, made a few remarks of welcome to the visitors and to the seniors. He spoke warmly of the years of pleasant association that the junior class has spent with those who are about to leave P. C.

President A. F. Marshall responded in behalf of the senior class. He recalled briefly the delightful days of the brief sojourn on the campus of Presbyterian college and closed with sentiments of best wishes to those who will be left behind to carry on.

Mr. McSween's talk was characteristic in its humor, spice, and effective thoughts. On behalf of the college he extended a hearty welcome to the feminine guests, and complimented the students of Presbyterian college on the excellent taste they had shown in their choice of Southland beauty.

The loveliness of the scene and the beauty of the decorations and setting, occasioned much comment. Everything was cleverly planned to the smallest detail, and executed perfectly. The decoration committee deserves a great deal of credit for its excellent job.

The honorary guests were: Mr. and Mrs. John McSween, Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Brown, Mrs. Myrtle Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie McMillian, and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hunter.

- The menu follows:
- Loganberry ice
 - Creamed potato cones
 - Carolina turkey
 - Giblet gravy
 - Egg a la P. C.
 - English peas
 - Macaroni pie
 - Mint jelly
 - Hot biscuits
 - Celery
 - Olives
 - Snowball salad
 - Cheese straws
 - Iced tea
 - Block cream
 - Angel cake
 - P. C. Punch

HIGH SCHOOL JUNIOR-SENIOR PARTY

On Tuesday evening the spacious lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bailey was a veritable fairyland when the juniors of Clinton high school entertained the seniors with a lawn party. Gay Japanese lanterns, aided by a full moon in radiant glory, covered the grass and shrubbery with varicolored lights.

The guests were met at the door by Margaret Jones, a representative of the senior class, who presented each with a "conversation card" and after they had been received cordially by Mr. and Mrs. Bailey, and Miss Bertha Gray Galman, the "dating" began. Under the trees punch was dipped from wells and served to the guests by Lydie Leake, Sadie Chandler, Virginia Kellers and Collette Davis.

A shepherd boy, Strephon, (Colette Davis) and his shepherdess sweetheart Amarylis (Virginia Kellers), visited the festive occasion and danced to the tune of the old air "Amarylis," while a chorus of boys and girls furnished the accompaniment. During the evening music was given by Jack O'Neal, Jimmie Reid and Clay Dendy of the college.

Favors, bright butterfly handkerchiefs for the girls, and chewing-gum cleverly concealed for the boys, were presented by two wee fairies, Elizabeth Graham and Frank Bailey, dressed to suit the occasion. A sage senior-to-be, Wm. Moorhead, dressed in somber cap and gown, dealt to every one present a diploma—not for entrance to higher learning, but to give a peep into the future.

After refreshments of ice cream and cake were served the strains of "Home Sweet Home" seemed strangely out of place.

Big Rat-Killing Staged At Renno

Tan M. Ray of Renno, has gone into the wholesale rat-killing business and if you doubt it, just listen to this rat-tale, every word of which is vouched for to be true. A few days ago Mr. Ray was moving a quantity of hay and corn from a barn when he ran into an innumerable multitude of rats, all sizes, young and old. Several adventurous boys soon appeared on the scene and a real rat-killing began. Within a short while 423 rats had been killed, a supply that filled a large guano sack three-fourths full. After the massacre, the victims were buried. The truthfulness of this story is vouched for not only by Mr. Ray and the boys who helped him in the slaughtering, but by several other Renno citizens.
