

'IODINE' LABEL READY FOR USE

Orders Now Being Filled By Resources Group. Will Identify Foods Grown In South Carolina.

Columbia, May 27.—The so-called "iodine" label of the South Carolina natural resources commission, has been made up in large quantities and the labels are now being sent out by the commission upon orders from producers and shippers of the state.

It is hoped that this label will be instrumental in increasing largely the demand for foods grown in South Carolina and that this increased demand will bring prosperity to hundreds of farmers in the state.

At the office of the commission in the State House it was pointed out that this label should not be confused with the label on stationery, which is now being used generally over the state. For use of the label on stationery there is no charge by the state; on the other hand, such use is urged as co-operative advertising by merchants, bankers, cotton mills, newspapers and business and professional citizens generally of the natural resources of the state.

For the label upon fruits, vegetables and South Carolina products there is a small charge for the labels, which can be secured only through the commission, or upon its order, and which is protected not only by copyright, but by the act of the last general assembly of South Carolina. The charge is made to bear the expenses of making and furnishing the labels and of making them valuable in the markets of the country through a dissemination of the facts with regard to just what these labels mean and the value placed upon them by the scientific world of the products which the labels cover.

The act of the general assembly of 1929 is as follows:

"Any trademark or whatever name designated and used to advertise the chemical and other contents of food products grown in South Carolina, or other articles, shall not be sold, bartered or exchanged by any person, firm or corporation or officer, except through and by the commission known as the South Carolina natural resources commission.

"Said commission is hereby authorized, empowered and entrusted with the handling, by selling, or otherwise, of any trademark used for the purpose set forth in section 1 of this act

"Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this act shall be subject to a fine or imprisonment, in the discretion of the court."

Prices for the labels to be used on fruits and vegetables have been fixed after numerous conferences with growers and shippers of South Carolina fruits, vegetables and South Carolina food products generally. In a general way the price is 1 cent per label, delivered, with the understanding that one label may be used for an entire crate of peaches, cucumbers, beans, peas, and so forth, or entire standard container of other produce, the shipper to have the privilege of using additional labels at 1 cent each for smaller packages within the crate or using markers of his own within the crate or other container, but no marker or other advertisement of the mineral contents of the products on individual packages with in the crate (except, of course, the commission's label) unless that crate itself bears the commission's label, and even then such markers or advertisements of the contents of food products within the crate must be approved by the commission, upon a copy of same being filed in its office. By crate is meant the bushel crate of cucumbers, peas, cantaloupes, etc., or barrel or other standard container of potatoes, etc., and in the case of cantaloupes, where sometimes half-barrel crates are used, 1-2 cent per label where used on half-bushel crates of cantaloupes. Prices and regulations will be fixed later on other later crops.

The only requirement the commission has fixed for the use of the labels on raw fruits and vegetables so far as that these fruits and vegetables must be grown in South Carolina soil. That is required both by copyright, under the laws of congress, and the act of the South Carolina legislature.

The price charged for the labels is in no sense a tax, the commission points out, but simply to cover the expenses and to be used for giving the label value in the markets of the country, particularly in the goiter regions.

of service in MODEL T FORDS

THE Model T was so strongly and sturdily built that it is still rendering reliable, economical service to motorists in every section of the country. Millions of these cars can be put in shape for two, three and five more years of use at very small cost.

So that you may have this work done economically and satisfactorily, the Ford Motor Company is still devoting a considerable section of its plants to the manufacture of Model T parts. It will continue to do so as long as they are needed by Model T owners. The following list gives the approximate labor charges for reconditioning the Model T Ford:—

Engine

Tune motor (including replacement of commutator case, brush and vibrator points if necessary)	$1.00
Grind valves and clean carbon	$3.75 to 4.00

Rear System

Replace rear axle assembly	2.50

Reline brake shoes	1.50
Replace rear axle shaft, drive shaft pinion, or drive gear	5.00
Overhaul complete rear axle assembly	$5.75 to 7.00

Front System

Overhaul front axle	$4.00 to 5.00
Rebush spindle bodies and arms (both sides)	2.50
Replace or straighten spindle connecting rod	.75
Tighten radius rod or steering ball cap	.60
Tighten all sockets and joints of front end	1.50
Replace front spring tie bolt or new leaf	2.50
Straighten front axle	3.00

Chassis

Replace rear fender	1.75
Overhaul steering gear	3.50
Repair muffler	1.00
Overhaul radiator	7.50
Repaint Coupe	25.00

Reupholster Touring Car	15.00
Replace top deck (Coupe or Sedan)	4.00
Overhaul starting motor	3.00

These prices are approximate and are for labor only, because the need and number of new parts depend on the condition of each car. The charge for these parts is low, however, because of the established Ford policy of manufacturing and selling at a small margin of profit.
