THE TELEPHONE

"I am a telephone. When I am not broke I am in the hands of a receiver. I have a mouthpiece, but unlike women, I never use it. Fellows use me to make dates with girls, and girls use me to break said dates. Husbands call up their wives over me, and wives call their husbands down over me. I never go anywhere, but sometimes the company comes and takes me out; it all depends on whether you pay your bill or not. I am not a bee but I often buzz in your ear. I am the bell of the town, and while I do not wear jewelry, I often get rings. Whether I do things or not, a lot of people nail me to the wall; and I like music, but the only music I hear is chin music. I get all the popular airs, and the most popular one is hot air."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D., Associate General Secretary of the World's Sunday School Association.

International Sunday School Lesson for July 21
EZEKIEL'S VISION OF HOPE
Ezekiel 47:1-9

When half of the seventy years of captivity was over Ezekiel had the vision of the stream from the temple in Jerusalem. Hope is a wondrous stimulant in the midst of any distressing condition. The heart of devout Jewry was still in the land that Jehovah had given them in perpetuity. God is always timely in His promises, and the things thus assured must come to pass. Meanwhile there is inspiring cheer to encourage in the midst of daily toil.

Read chapters 40-48 as they are an entity. You will go with Ezekiel to Jerusalem, in 40:2, and behold the Jews restored to their tribal possessions, with a rebuilt temple in the midst of the holy city. The prophet declared the vision with assurance, knowing that his Lord could bring all to pass. The people listened with rapture, for their fondest hopes were being portrayed.

With exactness the very footsteps had been traced as Ezekiel tells how he was guided by the angel. Water within the city had always been a problem, and particularly so in time of war. It was startling to behold water flowing continuously from the temple area wall. Usually the most that could be counted on was the water held in some cistern. The only explanation was that the altar was at the source thereof. A thousand cubits were measured as the flowing stream was followed. Since a cubit was from 18-21 inches the distance was about one third of a mile. Then another standard is used, the stature of a man. The water was ankle deep but it flowed onward, which was contrary to experience in Jerusalem. Another 1,000 cubits and knees were covered. Again the same distance was measured and the stream was now loam deep. A fourth 1,000 brought them to a condition where even a man was out of his depth and could swim at will.

The vision was not portraying a wonder. The waters were flowing for a blessed purpose. They issued from the city wall, entered the Kedron valley and rushed onward and downward to the depth of the Jordan at the Dead Sea. All had been desert desolation. Attention was then called to the condition at the side of the stream. There was now rich vegetation and productive trees. Though the Dead Sea is five times saltier than the ocean its waters were made sweet as the stream issuing from the Temple altar flowed into it. Now life could be found in the sea that had been called "dead." In fact "everything shall live whithersoever the river cometh."

This stream of fulfillment can be followed in the progress of Christianity. One-third of the race has already named Him, and all mankind is helped thereby as Christianizing civilization reaches them. No previous condition of man is too hard but that life can be changed for the better. The Golden Text is similarly prophetic: "Of the increase of his government and of peace there shall be no end," Isaiah 9:7. A broader life was pictured for Jewry. Thus far they had lived for and largely within themselves. Though Jonah had given a great teaching they had yet to learn that "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold."

Wage Values

THE purpose of wage is that of enabling the earner to enjoy standards of living in keeping with the importance of his productive capacity. The proper measure of a man's income is, therefore, determined by a consideration of what necessities and luxuries his wage allows.

Thus it is that the wage of the cotton mill operative cannot be measured by his pay envelope alone. Other services known as wage equivalents, supplied at the expense of the mill, offer him comparatively free of charge many advantages that others of similar income cannot afford.

Comfortable homes are furnished to operatives at a nominal rental of less than $5.00 per month average. Mills frequently supply laundry service, nurseries, clinics, welfare service and group insurance to safeguard health, life and income. Fuel is generally supplied at wholesale cost, and electric lights, water and sewer service are usually furnished free or at a nominal fee, never at a rate sufficient to pay the actual cost. These things, when added to the weekly pay check, offer a wage greater per individual than is offered by many other types of industry. Not infrequently schools, hospitals, Y. M. C. A.'s, organized recreation and various other advantages are largely financed by the mills for the benefit of the operatives.

The village system, originally necessary to raise living standards, is in reality the chief means of enabling the operatives to live more comfortably, more safely, more pleasantly, more economically, and on a higher plane than any other class of industrial workers in the South.
