

ROLL OF COMPANY F, 14th REG. S. C. Volunteers Confederate Prov. Army

Prepared for Publication By W. Edgar Owens, Clinton, S. C.

Editor, The Chronicle:

I enclose you a copy of the roll of Company F, 14th Regiment, S. C. Volunteers of the Confederate Provisional army, which you promised some time ago to publish. This company was enrolled and organized at Langston church, August 19, 1861. It has 142 names enrolled and, so far as I could gather, only four of them are still living. They are George M. Hanna, Cross Hill, S. C.; Ellett W. Dendy, Greer, S. C.; Ben P. Templeton, Del Valle, Travis County, Texas; and Mad P. Blakely, Gurdon, Clark County, Ark.

Some 30 or 40 years ago the survivors or their children decided to have an annual picnic and speaking day at Langston church on August 19, as an anniversary of the company's organization and are still keeping that up. I haven't attended one in several years but expect to be present at the next meeting.

I am the only living member of my father's family of nine children. I thought it would be very wise for me to get up this roll and have it published so the company's children and grandchildren can keep it for the benefit of their posterity.

Yours sincerely,
W. EDGAR OWENS.

"OPEN BOOKS"

It has often been said of a good man that, "His life was an open book." I believe it is generally accepted as a very high compliment.

I read yesterday where a newspaper writer said, "The man who declares his life to be an open book is a half-brother to Ananias." I have heard many candidates for substantial office honors say, "My record is an open book; any man is welcome to read it."

More sober thought convinces me that no man's record is fully spread out for public scrutiny, neither should it be. In every life there is something to which the general public has absolutely no right. A man's official record may be read by his supporters be of record; but the spirit behind or enemies alike, provided the same be of record; but his spirit behind those official acts may be known by no man.

Very few men have the time or inclination to waste several days perusing a book that is wholly personal to its author; a book lying open on a table may have a chapter or pages exposed to view that are of no earthly interest to nine readers out of ten; the volume is of no more interest open than it would be closed. So, no man's life is an open book, whatever his position in society or in life. It is proper to be so.

Men have fought and killed other men over disputed views of existing records. Seldom do two men hold the very same view of a neighbor, a public servant, a nation beyond seas; what does it matter that the "books" are open?

My life is not an open book; neither is yours. I do not invite inspection of all my deeds by my fellows; I do not wish to pry into things not my business; and, the world is neither worse nor better, by our leaving each other's private affairs alone. There are a great many extravagant things said that would be quite as well passed over in silence.

A "Chamber of Death" test is your guarantee of FLY-TOX efficiency. The FLY-TOX "Chamber of Death" is a small room in which live, healthy insects are turned loose. They are strong and lively. As they fly and buzz around inside the "Chamber of Death," FLY-TOX is sprayed inside. Less than a teaspoonful is used. Almost at once the buzzing stops. Within five minutes all is still. The insects are dead. This test shows you how quick and positive FLY-TOX works. Just what you need for those pesky flies and mosquitoes that bother you now. FLY-TOX is positively harmless to people. It has a delightful perfume-like fragrance that pervades a room like delicate incense. It is stainless. FLY-TOX was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. Every bottle guaranteed.—Adv.
