over 17 million jars used yearly

MILLIONS more each year follow the trend of modern medicine, and treat colds without "dosing."

Twenty-five years ago Vicks originated the modern external method of treating colds. Today, Vicks is sold in more than 60 countries, and over 26 million jars are used yearly in the United States alone.

Just rubbed on, it acts through the skin like a plaster, and also releases medicated vapors which are inhaled direct to the air passages.

JUDGE MANN MAKES FORCEFUL CHARGE ON LAW ENFORCEMENT

Tells Grand Jury That Nation Has Become Lawless With the Acquisition of Wealth and South Carolina Not An Exception. Urges Better Attitude Toward Law Enforcement.

Laurens, Sept., 27.—Changes in the legal machinery of the courts so that the state would have a better showing than it now has in the trial of law violators and an enlarged staff of peace officers if the spirit of lawlessness now prevailing in the state and nation is to be curbed; formed the central theme around which Judge M. M. Mann built a strong charge to the grand jury at the opening of court last week in Laurens after the recess taken Monday out of respect to Judge McGowan. The criminal laws of South Carolina and of the nation, he said, were framed after the old English laws which grew up during a time of stress in England when the great body of people of that nation found it necessary to throw safeguards around defendants at the bar so that innocent men would not be persecuted at the hands of tyrannical ruling classes. These safeguards, he pointed out, had grown to be privileges to such an extent that now the criminal has the upper hand in the courts and the state fights an up-hill battle in every case.

America, Judge Mann told the jurors, has come to be the richest nation in the world but also the most lawless. To this country, founded in the name of liberty and freedom, have come the lawless elements of other countries and today America stands near the bottom of the ladder in respect for law. Last year 14,000 persons were killed in the United States and one homicide took place for every hour of the day and night. Sixteen homicides occur in the United States to every one in England. The records of France and Germany are far better than ours and only Italy of the great European countries approaches us in lawlessness. From that country the black hand and vendetta have established headquarters here. Only Mexico, he said, had a record of lawlessness that exceeded that of this country.

The criminal, even before he commits his crime, knows that the legal machinery of the courts will be in his favor and that influential friends will render him aid against the great body of free people. If we cannot get a change in the machinery of the law, he said, we should build up an attitude toward law enforcement so that when the criminal comes into the court he will know that justice will prevail.

When that comes about, he said, we will no longer find congested courts, and the expense of law enforcement will be greatly reduced.

Touching on the enforcement of the prohibition laws, Judge Mann said that he had heard that peace officers in this section of the state were more vigorous in their enforcement than in some of the lower counties and to these officers he offered his congratulations. However, he said, in certain lower counties the bootleggers are in the saddle and the law-abiding people need stronger hands to help in the enforcement of the law. For that reason, he said, he believed their only hope was to have the federal government, with its stronger resources, come in and take charge of the situation. "If you don't need them up here, I am glad of it, but we need them down there."

Turning to the question of county fiscal affairs, Judge Mann said that he had heard that an audit of this county's books was being made and this, he said, was a wise step. Not only in Laurens county, he said, but in all counties of the state the county business had reached such large and intricate proportions that no officer could tell where he stood. Many honest officers, he said, are living under a shadow not because of dishonesty but of inefficiency, although some of them, he was sorry to say, were living under the shadow of dishonesty. In his opinion, he told the grand jury, the counties needed a thorough overhauling of their business systems, a more business-like bookkeeping system installed and the delegations relieved of county business matters so that they could give their time and thoughts to more strictly legislative matters. Among other things, he said, it is a waste of time and money for the entire state legislature to be involved in strictly county matters.

Before making his final instructions on the indictments handed out by the solicitor, Judge Mann referred to the prevailing traffic problem and paid his respect to the "road hogs" on the highways. He advocated stringent regulations for the protection of the traveling public, suggesting the employment of more traffic officers and the inauguration of a licensing system so that reckless drivers would be barred from the use of the highways. We are spending millions of dollars on roads, he said, and we have a right to feel secure, but the average man takes his life in his hands when he travels on the highways.

"Y" STARTS ON YEAR'S WORK

Billie Barron To Lead Organization In Active Year. Drive for Members To Be Made.

Under the leadership of Billie Barron, president, the Y. M. C. A. has laid plans for a very extensive as well as interesting program for the coming year. It is the hope of the cabinet to make the "Y" a greater factor in the life of the students and they hope to interest them and get as many as will take an active part in the work.

In order to accomplish this the cabinet plans to make a personal survey, covering every student, and get as many as possible sign an active membership card. This card will carry the following pledge: "I hereby pledge myself as an active member of the Y. M. C. A. at Presbyterian college to: 1. Make the purpose of the association my own personal program of allegiance and service. 2. Lead students to faith in God as revealed in Christ. 3. Promote the growth of Christian faith. 4. Promote wholesome social relations at P. C. 5. Attend "Y" meetings whenever possible and take an active part whenever called on to do so in whatever capacity desired.

The members of the cabinet will see each student sometime this week and give him his membership card to the "Y" and at the same time give him an opportunity to sign for active membership. It is hoped that a goodly number of the students will be interested enough in this so that there will be a good foundation on which to base the work the rest of the year.

The program for the month of October is to be in the hands of the classes. Each class is to be responsible for a program one week. The seniors are to have charge the first week of the month, the juniors the second, sophomores the third, and freshmen the fourth. After this a program for the next three months will be made by the cabinet and carried out.

Plans are also being made for the annual fall retreat at Camp Adger. This is the meeting of both men and women of the state and is the most-looked-forward-to of any in the during the course of the year. Leaders of "Y's" from all the colleges of the state get together and discuss and try

ACTORS SOON TO GIVE PLAY

Mrs. M. W. Brown Again Directs Work of Dramatic Club. Date Chosen for First Appearance.

After deliberating seriously over a collection of nearly a dozen plays, Mrs. M. W. Brown, director for the Presbyterian College Dramatic club, has selected "The Genius," a three-act comedy. According to present plans, the club will present its first production in Clinton on the evening of October 19th. After this performance the play will be given several times in other towns if dates can be secured.

Mrs. Brown is also ready to announce the tentative cast. The feminine parts have not been quite settled as yet, but it is understood that Clinton girls will be asked to join with the dramatic club as in the case of "Second Story Peggy," the play staged last March. The boys tentatively chosen are Osman, Murphy, Johnston, Collins, Hamlin, Bill Blakely, Caskey and Grafton.

It is expected that practices will start early next week. Time and place for practices have not been determined yet but as soon as these matters have been decided the club will settle down to three weeks of real hard work. The men concerned are very enthusiastic and Mrs. Brown feels that with diligent practice the play will be even better than "Second Story Peggy," which met with such high commendation last spring.

How To Fry Raw Potatoes

Peel potatoes and slice them in thin rounds; put into frying pan 1 tablespoon each of butter and sweet lard. When this is hot enough to fry, add potatoes, sprinkling with salt and pepper. Cover with a tight-fitting lid so the steam will partly cook them. Then remove lid and fry until potatoes are a golden brown, turning them carefully so they will brown equally. Serve at once.

to solve the problems of the colleges that seem most important. Besides this it serves the purpose as personal help to the leaders from a spiritual point of view. This year's retreat is set for Oct. 11 through the 13th. The speaker is to be Dr. W. C. Jackson of N. C. C. W., who will lead the chief discussions.

FROSH PREPARE FOR 'PUP' GAME

First Year Men Showing Up Fine Under Tutelage of McMillian. Play Wofford Here Thursday.

With another week of hard practice behind them the freshmen pig-skin artists continue to look better and are improving daily under the ever watchful eye of Coach Lonnie McMillian. The menu for the past week, even in spite of the terrible weather, has been large platters of scrimmage and then two or three extra helpings. But the effect is already showing up in that the whole squad has improved so much on both offensive and defensive play that it doesn't even look like the same bunch of gridiron enthusiasts as the ones of a week ago.

One great addition to the backfield who has been showing up exceptionally well during recent practice is Barrett, pile driving fullback, who received his preliminary football education at Bailey Military institute, and if you doubt this writer's word, just ask any of the reserves who played against him at Greenwood last year. With Stamps to aid him in plunging the line and backing up his own forward wall, the frosh teams will be few and far between, who will be able to "hold that line" or to make much yardage through the Baby Blue Hose. Stamps is another who has been showing up mighty well this week, and he still remains the heady, consistent, hard-driving "Shorty." Copeland, a brainy end, and Carr, a powerful guard or tackle, are the ones that have made life miserable for the opposing backs during the past several days.

Few more twenty-four-hour periods are left for practice before the frosh meet their first big test in the Wofford Terrier Pups. The Blue Sox of last year downed the Spartanburg aggregation by a score of 6 to 0, and it is hoped that the freshmen of this year can repeat with even a larger score, but it doesn't pay to count the chickens before they are out of the incubator for you may rest assured that the eleven the Wesleyans send on the field will be a scrappy, peppy, plunging, driving outfit. However, don't think for a minute that they won't have their hands full, for the freshmen have clearly demonstrated in scrimmages with the varsity that they're nobody's slouches when it comes to the offensive part of the game and they are just an epidemic, panic or what have you? on defense. Pound keeper, bring on thy Pups.

PAINFUL INDIGESTION

"I SUFFERED from indigestion — everything I ate gave me heartburn," says Mrs. Mattie Mullins, of Pound, Va.

"For months, I did not see a well day. I worried along, but never felt well. I got a package of Theodor's Black-Draught at the store and began taking it — a dose every night before going to bed. I had been having an awful pain. After I had taken Black-Draught, this pain entirely stopped. I began to gain in weight, and rested well at night. In a few months I was feeling fine. My health was better than it had been in years."

"I keep Black-Draught in our home, and we all take it for constipation and upset stomach."
