Highest in the World

Rising 68 stories and at least 808 feet from the ground, and erected at a cost of over $15,000,000, the new Chrysler Building in the heart of New York at Lexington Avenue and 42nd Street is the tallest structure in the world.

PROSPECTS FOR A LARGER CROP

Indications Are That Yield of Cotton Is 17 Per Cent More. Average of 172 Pounds Per Acre.

The official South Carolina cotton report as of November 1, is as follows:

A South Carolina cotton crop of 850,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight is indicated by information received from correspondents as of November 1 relating to condition, probable yield per acre, bolls safe, and progress of picking and ginning. Little change has occurred in the crop situation since October 1 when the forecast was for 860,000 bales.

On the estimate of 2,362,000 acres remaining for harvest this year a crop of 850,000 bales would approximate a yield of 172 pounds of lint per acre, compared with the final estimate of 147 pounds last year, a 5-year average of 160 pounds, and a 10-year average of 185 pounds of lint.

Last year the state produced 726,000 500-pound bales; 730,000 in 1927; 1,008,000 in 1928; 889,000 in 1925; and 807,000 in 1924.

Present prospects are for a crop about 17 per cent larger than last year for the state as a whole. In the northwest a group of eight Piedmont counties has prospects a little above the good crop of last year. Elsewhere in the state the cotton is much better than last year, particularly in the southern and middle sections, but less so in the northeast where a section centering around Chesterfield and Lee counties will apparently make less than last year. However, prospects in Dillon, Florence, Marion and Horry are for a final outturn much above 1928, so that the outlook for the whole northeastern section is better than last year.

BANDITS WRECK TRAIN FOR LOOT

Two Men Stage Old-Fashioned Western Holdup and Get Away. Only $500 Secured.

Los Angeles, Nov. 11.—Two men who wrecked the West Coast limited of the Southern Pacific railroad in the mountainous country six miles west of Saugus, Cal., and then robbed the frightened passengers, were being sought today throughout southern California.

Railroad officials announced that the engineer, R. C. Ball, was the only casualty and that the amount of loot taken from passengers was approximately $500. Ball received possibly fatal burns when his locomotive overturned. The boiler exploded.

The train operates between here and Sacramento. Saugus is about 40 miles north of Los Angeles.

The robbers, carrying out an apparently well planned plot, chose a curve in the tracks to pry loose ten lengths of rail with tools they are believed to have stolen from an equipment shed at Saugus.

The speeding locomotive hit the weakened rails and ploughed into a ditch, overturning and carrying with it baggage and mail cars and two coaches. Seven other cars of the train remained upright.

As the train crashed to a halt, two masked men waving revolvers appeared in a sleeping car four lengths from the end of the train.

They encountered Conductor Otis L. French. One of them said: "There is a relief train due from Saugus any moment—and I'll trouble you for all the money you have, if you don't mind."

The conductor felt a gun against his side and raised his hands. Then turning to the frightened men and women passengers, one shouted curtly: "Move backward and shell out."

The passengers of the last four cars were herded to the end of the train. Lining approximately a score of them against seats, one made a methodical search of their clothing while the other stood on a stool, covering them with his gun. They took only cash, refusing jewels.

As they completed their looting they ran to the forward end of the car and disappeared in the night. The rough country provided them with numerous hiding places.

Army Band In Newberry Saturday

General Pershing fought the war with music as well as bullets. His A. E. F. headquarters band, recruited among the flower of American musicianship then in the service, was one of the finest musical organizations the world has ever seen.

Realizing that peace-time morale is almost as important and much harder to maintain than a war-time spirit, General Pershing ordered the U. S. Army band organized in 1922, when he became chief of staff. He gathered the remnants of the A. E. F. band—"Pershing's Own," at Fort Hunt, Virginia, in the spring of 1922, along with the best musicians in the various regimental bands of the far-flung posts throughout the country.

This was the beginning. In September, that year, the band was ordered to Washington, D. C. Captain William J. Stannard was named leader after exhaustive competition. The wisdom of the choice has been demonstrated by the outstanding reputation the organization has gained under his leadership.

Speaking at an official function in Washington recently at which the army band was playing, General Pershing turned, surveyed the organization, and said, "In Europe I heard the finest military bands the world has produced. It was my dream that there might some day be established in this country an army band second to none." He paused, then extending his hand in the direction of the band, he said, "There is my dream come true."

When the war department was besieged with requests to allow the U. S. Army band to leave the country to represent the United States musically at the Ibero-American exposition in Seville, Spain, this year—a privilege never before accorded a service band—General Pershing enthusiastically supported the proposal.

Congress, recognizing that the army band was the official exponent of Latin-American music in this country—so named by the Pan-American union—readily consented and made provision for the necessary funds.

The triumphant progress of the band through the capitals of Europe and, finally, at the exposition itself, more than justified its selection as the musical ambassador of this nation.

This select organization, composed of 48 of the finest musicians in the U. S. Army will play two concerts in Newberry, Nov. 16th. The afternoon concert at 2:30, and the evening at 8:30. The comfortable and spacious high school auditorium has been secured for the concerts and the American Legion, the sponsors, expect a number of Clinton folks down to hear the band.
