PC Ends Season With Newberry Win

Presbyterian College completed its 1963 football campaign with a two-game winning streak in downing Newberry, 14 to 7, there on Thanksgiving afternoon.

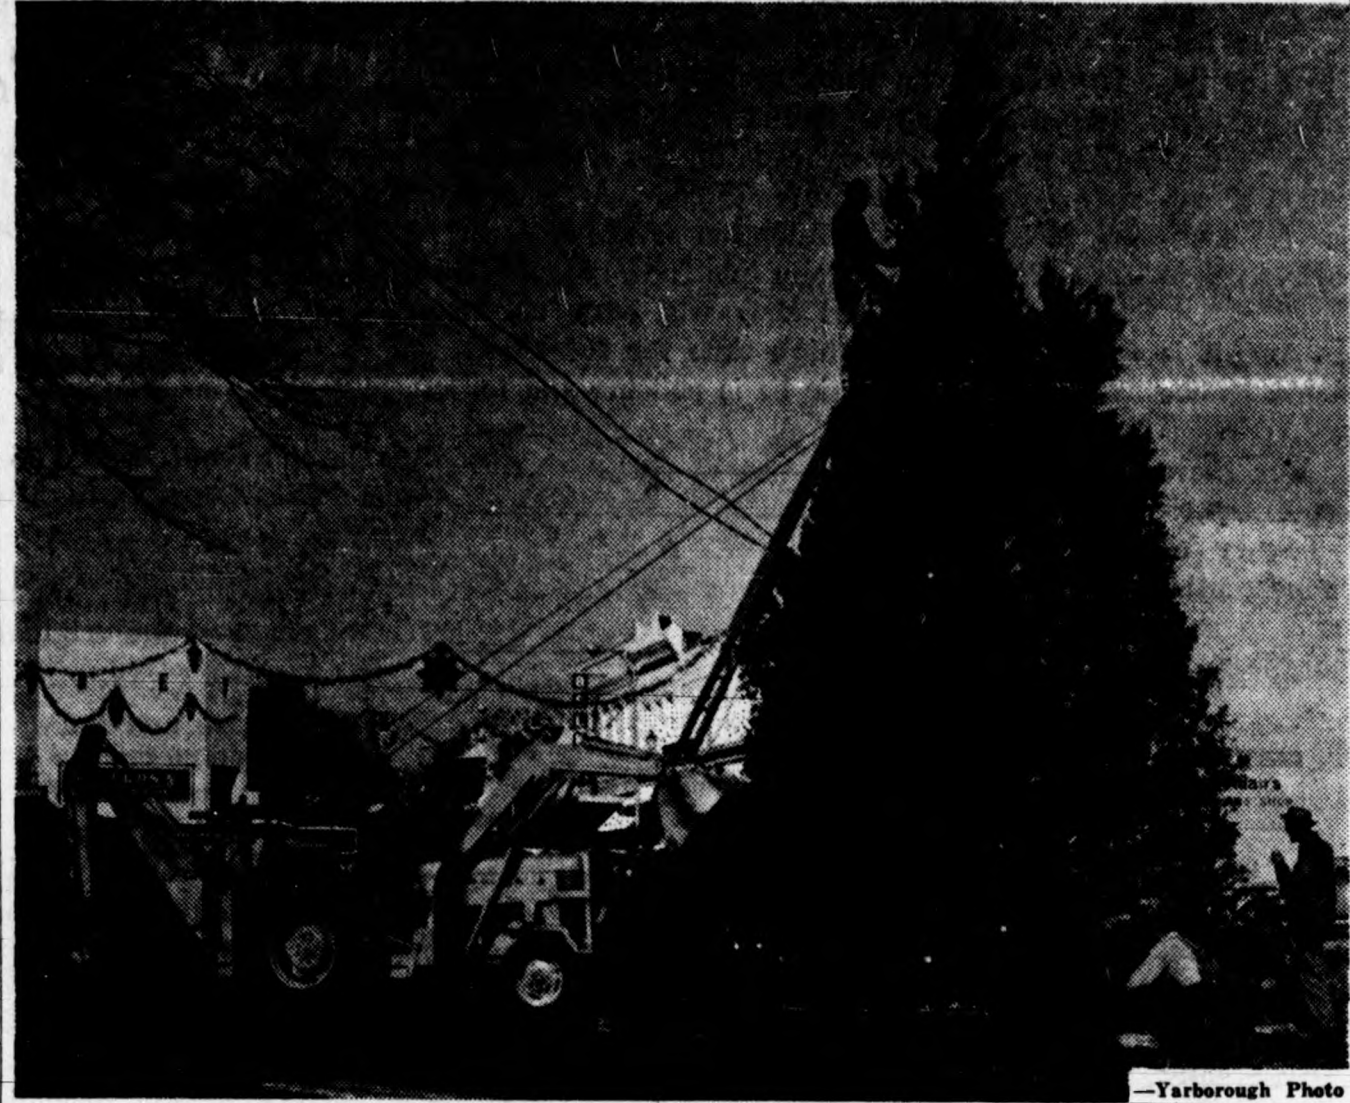

The victory enabled the Blue Hose to recapture the Bronze Derby and finish with a 3-6-1 record for the season. Following on the heels of PC's impressive 24-14 over Troy State in the previous game, it sent gridiron fans into the off-season with higher hopes for next fall.

Presbyterian went 34 yards in the first period for the game's opening score after freshman Halfback Jim Johnson recovered a Tom Gorman fumble. Fullback Randy McCranie paced the drive and finally scored from the one-yard line. End Louis Ridinger kicked the extra point.

Newberry bounced back to tie the count at 7-7 later in the quarter on a 14-yard pass from Gorman to Jim Wren in the end zone and a successful conversion.

Then, early in the fourth quarter, the Blue Hose blocked a Newberry field goal attempt, took over the ball on their own 43 and moved for the decisive touchdown. On the first play from scrimmage, Quarterback Leighton Grantham hit Sandy Hagood with a pass on the Indian 20, and the little halfback scampered the remaining yardage into the endzone. Ridinger again booted the extra point.

This performance gave Grantham the offense leadership among PC backs for the year. He passed for 460 total yards in ten games, completing 37 of 107 attempts. McCranie led the rushing with 370 yards from scrimmage for a 3.3 yards-per-carry average, while Halfback Don McNeill followed closely with 357 and a 4.4 average.

The president expressed keen satisfaction over being able to obtain Jones for this position a few months after his retirement as one of Atlanta's leading bankers. He will maintain his office at First National in his new work.

Mr. Jones had served the First National Bank since 1920, rising through the ranks from clerk to executive vice-president and director in 1948. A native of Greensboro, N. C., Jones attended the Universities of Missouri and Oklahoma, served with the field artillery in World War I and spent three years with the Durant (Okla.) ### Schools Again to Be Site

Second Polio Vaccine To Be Administered Sunday

This Sunday, December 8, the people of Laurens and surrounding counties will take their second step toward the complete eradication of polio.

Clinics for the administration of the second Sabin oral polio vaccine in School District 56 will be open once again in the same schools which served as polio centers on October 27. Hours for taking the vaccine will be from noon to 6:00 p. m. As in October, the vaccine will once again be given on a cube of sugar.

There are three types of polio, making it necessary that every person receive three polio vaccines. The third and final vaccine will be given on January 12.

Persons who failed to take the first Sabin vaccine in October should come and receive the second and third vaccines on December 8 and January 12, and go later to their own doctors for the first vaccine, according to Dr. James L. Walker, chairman of the local steering committee of the Laurens County Medical Society, which is sponsoring the three-day program to wipe out polio.

Approximately eight out of every 10 persons in School District 56 received the first Sabin vaccine in October. Dr. Walker said, either at school clinics or in institutions. This high percentage makes it possible for the people of this area to eliminate the threat of polio forever, he said.

The same team of doctors, nurses, druggists, and other volunteer workers who served in October will be assembled for the December 8 polio Sunday. Each school polio clinic will be staffed by doctors and nurses who will administer the oral vaccine.

A fee of 25c will be asked of all who can pay. However, no person will be turned away because of inability to pay for the vaccine.

All persons who took the first oral vaccine in October are asked to bring their red bordered cards showing a record of this first immunization. If these cards have been misplaced, new ones can be obtained at the school polio centers, Dr. Walker said.

PC Professor Publishes Book On Civil War Theme

"Will Success Spoil Jeff Davis: The Last Book About the Civil War" has just been published as the contribution of Presbyterian College Professor T. Lawrence Connelly to the ever-increasing literature about this period.

With accompanying illustrations by Campbell Grant, one of America's best-known whimsical illustrators, the book pokes light-hearted fun at the professional Confederate of today and some aspects of the war itself.

"Will Success Spoil Jeff Davis" was brought out for the Christmas book season by McGraw-Hill Book Company. It already has received favorable mention in The New York Times book review section and other national notices.

Dr. Connelly joined the Presbyterian College faculty this fall as chairman of the history department. He is a longtime Civil War buff himself who had three great-grandfathers to fight for the Confederacy and who was an avid collector of war relics as a Nashville, Tenn., schoolboy. It is against this background that he places tongue in cheek and writes his text, which concludes with these words:

"The war will never be over. Let minie balls corrode, Confederate money crumble and imitation battle flags rot. As long as there is a tear-jerking poem to be read, a droll statue to be unveiled, a cannon ball to be unearthed, a fast buck to be made—then there will always be a Civil War. Grant and Sherman may have been able to whip Marse Robert Lee and Retreating Joe Johnson, but they will never conquer that long gray line of genealogists, antique dealers, historians, promoters, and roundtable buffs— marching to the Gray Nirvana."
